Wilhelmina Granted $151,000 Income

THE HAGUE, Holland—(UP)—The Netherlands Senate has approved a bill granting a yearly income of 400,000 guilders (about $151,000) to former Queen Wilhelmina, who abdicated the throne.

The lower chamber of Parliament had approved the bill in October, shortly after Wilhelmina stepped down in favor of her daughter, Juliana.

Only the three Communists in the 50-man Senate opposed the bill. They claimed the pension was too high in view of the country's financial position.

OLYMPIA, Wash—(AP)—Pete McMichael had good intentions, but—

He was out for his morning walk when he noticed a driverless vehicle moving slowly down the street.

A few more feet, McMichael thought, and it would head down a hill. He put his shoulder to the radiator, braced himself and brought the machine to a halt.

At that point the owner came around from the rear of the car.

He asked McMichael kindly to step aside—he was shoving the car to get it started.

Children Stricken After School Lunch

MINNEAPOLIS—(AP)—Six children were taken to university hospitals by ambulance last night after becoming ill from eating a school lunch.

The six were among a number stricken after the noonday meal in a cafeteria just opened at the Fridley-New Brighton School, near here.

Physicians said the children were suffering from cramps and extreme nausea but that their conditions did not appear to be serious.

Mrs. M. F. Castle, New Brighton, cook at the school, said the lunch consisted of creamed peas, rice pudding, bread, butter and milk. She, too, reported feeling ill but could assign no cause.

W. H. Hayes, Superintendent of the school, said about 350 children had partaken of the lunch. He said he had had numerous calls from parents reporting pupils' illness but that he had no idea how many were stricken.

Mayor's Advice Left Cold as Christmas Tree Burns

MILWAUKEE—(AP)—The Christmas tree subject at Mayor Frank Zeidler's house warmed up considerably yesterday.

The Mayor has urged householders to be careful that the Yuletide decorations didn't form the tinder for a living room blaze.

Mrs. Zeidler and three small Zeidlers escaped. Interior of the Zeidler living room was charred.

But the Mayor showed that he took his own talk about precautions seriously. He said the loss was covered by insurance.

Chairmanship System Restored by Commission

By DuPONT WRIGHT

Despite the protest of two Commissioners and the Atlanta League of Women Voters that the action would undermine the year-old county-manager form of government, the Fulton County Commission yesterday voted to restore the chairmanship system which was abolished at the time Manager A. E. Fuller was installed.

Under the chairmanship system, each Commissioner heads a committee of County government, such as public works, parks and recreation, finance, buildings and and grounds, and alms and juveniles.

The meeting opened harmoniously as Chairman R. L. "Shorty" Doyal detailed improvements during 1948 costing $2,900,000, and declared that Fulton furnished greater services per tax dollar than any other County in the United States. Then Commissioner Tom Camp reviewed the achievements of Commissioner Charlie Brown during his eight years on the Commission. He retired to run for Mayor. Brown's colleagues joined County employees in presenting him with a silver tea set.

Discord appeared, however, when Commissioners I. Gloer Hailey and Chairman Doyal virtually declared war on "pressure groups attempting to usurp the functions of government."

Both expressed resentment at what they termed "grapevine and scuttlebutt" insinuations about their motives in the plan to restore the committee chairmanships, which both declared were for the purpose of aiding the County Manager to perform his duties better, rather than to take away any of his authority.

Hailey said abandonment of the committee system had proved a mistake.

"This Board," he said, "wants to abide by the County Manager law in every respect. I wish to do every thing in my power to make the county-manager system a success. I firmly believe more and better government can be rendered by our County if one member of the Board is appointed or assigned to one department to act as liaison between that department of government, the County Manager and the Board. Anyone who says the Board is attempting to usurp the Manager's functions is misrepresenting the facts."

Commissioner Camp then took the opposite view.

"If you pass this motion to restore the chairmanships, you ought to follow it up with a resolution saying the manager system has failed and that it ought to be abolished. This resolution is the beginning of the end of county-manager government here."

"I think it a backward step," said Commissioner Jim Aldredge. "The committees will usurp the functions of the County Manager."

Mrs. Alan Ritter, representing the Atlanta League of Women Voters, then arose to read a resolution passed by the League's Executive Board.

"The chief features of the manager plan," said the statement, "are that it separates administra-

Mercury Drop Slated for Today

Colder weather will grip Atlanta today while other sections of the State are bracing for threatened floods.

The weatherman said skies would clear today over Atlanta. After an early morning low of 42, the mercury is slated to get no higher than 46 during the day. A dip to 32 degrees is forecast for tomorrow morning, followed by fair weather and a 52-degree high in the afternoon.

Rome, threatened by the rapidly rising Coosa River, early today was the major danger spot in Georgia. The river, swollen to 22.6 feet, sent a thin stream of water down two streets in a low section of the city. The Chattanooga-Rome highway was impassable last night.

Frigid Wave Promises More Misery

Mississippi Catches Worst of Threats In Low Areas

Heavy rains have forced rivers in three Southern states to jump their banks, sending more than 1,000 persons scurrying to higher ground.

For the second time in less than two months, the South yesterday saw flood waters begin seeping across low-lying areas, threatening life, land and property.

Mississippi, which escaped the late November flood, appeared to be catching the worst of the return engagement. Alabama and Tennessee also reported hundreds of evacuees and North Georgia rivers were rising.

In the Aberdeen-Columbus, Miss., area, near the Alabama line, the Red Cross and National Guard helped 200 families retreat from the surging Tombigbee River. An estimated several hundred other families left their homes without aid.

Rail transportation was disrupted by high waters in Alabama. Main lines of the Frisco and Illinois Central Railroad were under water at Palos. Louisville and Nashville main line trains were delayed by floods near Trafford.

The Seaboard's Birmingham-to-New York luxury train, the Silver Comet, was stopped in Atlanta and a shuttle train to Birmingham was substituted.

A predicted cold wave promised added misery to flood victims.

Rain-swollen Pin Hook Creek at Huntsville, Ala., forced evacuation of 400 persons. Huntsville prepared for further danger as the Tennessee River jumped to 5.6 feet above flood stage with an additional rise of eight to 10 feet predicted.

At Birmingham, Ala., 100 persons were flooded out of their homes, but water soon began receding. Another 41 persons were evacuated at Gadsden, Ala. Rainfall in Birmingham was 6.46 inches for a 30-hour period, an all-time record.

In six mid-state Tennessee counties 200 families were forced from their homes by the rising Duck and Elk Rivers. Chattanooga recorded a 24-hour record rainfall for January of 4.46 inches.

Three inches of rain at Knoxville sent First Creek overflowing in low areas. The Red Cross made plans to evacuate 35 families.

North Georgia caught from two to four inches of rain and the Coosa River at Rome rose almost eight feet in five hours.

Car Trapped In 10-Below Blizzard

Kept Awake, 'Afraid We'd Freeze In Our Sleep'

LOVELAND, Colo. — (AP) "We forced ourselves to keep awake for three days and nights. It was so cold we were afraid we'd freeze to death in our sleep.

"Thank God they found us today. I don't think we could have endured another night."

The speaker was 32-year-old Edward Heintzelman, of Loveland, Col., who was rescued yesterday with five other persons after 70 hours trapped in a blizzard-marooned automobile on U. S. Highway 87 four miles north of the Colorado-Wyoming line.

The others were Heintzelman's stepfather and mother, Mr. and Mrs. John T. Doyle, of Loveland; Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Glassburn, both 24, of Carr, Col., and Marvin Towe, 11, also of Carr.

While blizzard winds howled around the unheated automobile and the temperature plummeted 10 degrees below zero, Heintzelman said he thought of his "three years of hell" in a Japanese prison camp and decided "this is just as bad."

At 10 a. m. yesterday, rescuers reached the snow-locked car in which the party had huddled since Sunday, without food, water or heat and, sometimes, almost without hope.

"We never left the car," Heintzelman related, "because we were afraid of being lost in the blizzard. After all that time in cramped positions we were so cold, stiff and sore we could hardly move."

Members of the party were taken to a near-by ranch where they were fed hot soup. Later, they were able to eat a good meal. At a Ft. Collins hospital, physicians said they suffered no serious effects from the long ordeal.

Heintzelman, a veteran of the Far Eastern Air Forces, said "that wind never let up."

"The blowing snow was so thick we couldn't see through the windows of the car. We had three blankets but we had to hang one of them over a window where the snow was blowing into the car.

"Our breaths froze and covered the inside of the car almost an inch thick.

"Monday we felt hungry, but after that the pangs went away. We managed to quench our thirst by eating handfuls of the snow."

Heintzelman said the party's spirits reached an all-time low the second night, when a snow plow working south from Cheyenne moved within 70 feet of the car."

Draft Deferment For Guardsmen

Men who become members of the National Guard before they are classified as 1-A in Selective Service will be deferred from the draft, Adj. Gen. Ernest Vandiver announced late yesterday.

Vandiver said he had just received a telegram from Gen. Lewis Hershey of Washington, national director of Selective Service, announcing postponement of drafting men in the National Guard.

This action will greatly increase membership in the National Guard, Vandiver predicted, by giving Georgians an opportunity to defer their military training by enlisting in Guard units near home.

JOCKO EATS AT TABLE WITH O. J. MINTER

JOCKO 'YELLS HEAD OFF'

Parrot Is Protector Of Blind Atlantan

By KATHERINE BARNWELL

A green, beady-eyed, 30-year-old parrot, which fusses furiously if his coffee isn't served black, is both companion and protector for a deaf and blind Atlanta woman.

Mrs. Minter, left alone all day when her husband works, talks, plays and eats at the table with Jocko.

"Whatcha got?"

Then the family will sit down to supper together, with Jocko eating from his own little plate and cup. He eats just what the others eat—meats, vegetables, fruits and desserts.

Jocko wears overalls when it's cool, talks on the phone and plays "peas, porridge, hot" with Mrs. Minter.

"He's the best friend she has," explained the blind woman's husband.

In fact, Jocko saved Mrs. Minter's life a few years ago.

"She was alone at home," Minter related, "and she accidentally fell down the cellar steps, hit her head and was bleeding profusely. Jocko saw what had happened and yelled at the top of his voice until a neighbor came, broke into the house and took my wife to the hospital. She might have died if it hadn't been for Jocko."

Minter, who refers to the parrot affectionately as "Son," said Jocko has never spent a day away from his wife since they've had him. He always goes with the Minters on vacations and trips.

And Minter is proud of two things:

"Jocko doesn't know any bad words because he's never heard any—and he has never had an intoxicating drink!"

Northside Beats Store License

A group of Southside residents are demanding similar action be taken regarding their neighborhood. Both groups aired their views yesterday afternoon at the Fulton County Commission's first formal meeting of the year.

The Northside group, led by Harllee Branch, Jr., heard the Commission approve Commissioner Jim Aldredge's resolution declaring an application for a liquor store license at 3312 New Marietta Highway to be null and void. The resolution further held the Commission, due to opposition of residents in the area, is opposed to granting a license to any liquor store in the neighborhood.

The action came after Commission Chairman R. L. (Shorty) Doyal said the application of Andy George and C. F. Longino was void because they failed to post a $1,000 certified check for a license and $50 for an investigation fee.

The Rev. James L. Weldon, Pastor of the Red Oak Methodist Church, demanded to know why similar action could not be taken to revoke the license of the Nightingale Liquor Store on the Roosevelt Highway. Commissioner I. Gloer Hailey explained that different legal points were involved.

Rev. Mr. Weldon presented a resolution from Southside citizens requesting revocation of the Nightingale license and asking that no other liquor licenses be granted for the area. The Commission took the matter under advisement.

'Fair Deal' Call Opens Money Source Query

WASHINGTON— (AP) —Democrats in control of the new Congress generally applauded and promised support yesterday for most of the program President Truman laid down in his State of the Union message.

Some Democrats provided an exception when they sat silent through his renewed proposal for civil rights laws. After his speech many openly pledged a fight to the last ditch against such laws as anti-lynch, anti-poll tax and a fair employment practices program.

On the Republican side, GOP leaders for the most part appeared aghast in their reactions to the amount of money they said would be required to carry out the President's proposed extension of government in social and economic fields.

But Republicans were not alone in asking: "Where is the money coming from?" Many members of both parties in the House and Senate took a wait-and-see atitude on Mr. Truman's suggestion for $4,000,000,000 in new taxes to carry out his broad program. Many top Democrats were among those cool or lukewarm to proposals for higher taxes

As for his message as a whole, there was the widest range of comment.

Senator Lucas, of Illinois, floor leader for Senate Democrats, said the program was "one designed to meet the needs of the great majority in this country."

Senator McGrath, Rhode Island, Democratic National Chairman, said. "I thought the speech completely kept faith with Mr. Truman's campaign and the party platform."

Rep. McCormack, Massachusetts, House Democratic floor leader, called it "a great message—sound and constructive."

Speaker Sam Rayburn, Democrat, Texas, said the address would make a "splendid appeal" to the people of the United States and the world. He conceded there would be a division of opinion on some of the domestic issues.

Many Republicans were critical. Rep. Hugh Scott, Jr., Pennsylvania, GOP National Chairman, said "Mr. Truman is rolling high dice with the peoples' money. If Mr. Truman has his way, this will be known as the grab-bag and pay-off Congress."

Senator Taft, Ohio, Chairman of the Republican Policy Committee, said he agreed with and will support some of the President's recommendations. But if all of them are adopted, he said, "we shall have a totalitarian Federal Government in Washington."

Taft said he agreed that it was essential to balance the budget, but he also expressed the belief that spending could be trimmed so that no tax increase would be needed.

Chairman George, Democrat, Georgia, of the Senate Finance Committee, said: "I am withholding any comment on raising taxes in the amount of $4,000,000,000, or any other amount at this time." He added that he wanted to see the budget first.

Rep. Cox, Democrat, Georgia,

OPENING DAY

Congress Starts On Truman Plea

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Senate and House met in joint session to hear President Truman make a series of broad fiscal, economic and social recommendations. These included $4,000,000,000 more in taxes, repeal of the Taft-Hartley Law, more and bigger Social Security benefits, a higher minimum wage, Federal school aid, low-rent housing, universal military training, civil rights guarantees, and other legislation.

His backers began introducing bills to make the changes he urged, and all soon will be before the appropriate committees for consideration.

Meanwhile Republican Senators protested that the Democrats, by taking eight of the 13 seats in the Foreign Relations Committee, were endangering the bi-partisan foreign policy. The Republicans, when in a majority, held only seven of those seats. Democrats said there was no substance to the Republicans' complaints.

Truman Message Seeks Social Gains And $4,000,000,000 Additional Taxes

WASHINGTON—(AP)—President Truman called on the Democratic Eighty-First Congress yesterday for a "Fair Deal" program — a vast extension of social and economic legislation going far beyond the Roosevelt New Deal.

To help finance it, he urged a $4,000,000,000 increase in taxes, aimed chiefly at corporations. Further big boosts in taxes would result if the whole Truman program were enacted.

It provides, among other things, for bigger Social Security benefits; prepaid medical and health insurance; 1,000,000 new public housing units in seven years, and aid to education.

Among other recommendations that stood out in the 3,500-word "State of the Union" message the President delivered in person were:

Power to impose sweeping economic controls, including curbs on some wages and prices; authority to build steel plants and other factories if deemed necessary in view of shortages; repeal of the Taft-Hartley Labor Law; universal military training; aid to farmers and civil rights laws.

Thirty-seven different salvoes of applause rang out in the packed House chamber where Representatives and Senators heard the speech. But all was not unanimity, by any means.

Southerners sat on their hands as he called for the civil rights program which tore the party last year. And the whole message brought a mixed reaction in statements issued later.

Mr. Truman, who saw his program riddled by the last Republican Congress, laid special emphasis on "co-operation" in promoting

TRUMAN ADDRESS SENDS STOCKS UP

NEW YORK—(AP)—Stock market prices slanted upward yesterday soon after the President started delivering his State of the Union message to Congress.

Immediate reaction was a slight dip in a handful of issues, notably in the steel group. Less than half an hour after contents of the speech were made public, prices started to advance. Steel, rail and automobile stocks did better than most other sections of the market.

Wall Street on the whole was fairly well satisfied with the President's program. The recent action of the stock market, which has declined almost to the 1948-49 low, indicated that policies more oppressive to business had been anticipated.

Rep. Alverson Would Curb City Council

As Council's Finance Committee yesterday asked more home rule powers, Luther Alverson, Fulton Representative in the Legislature, announced he will offer a bill to restrict further the Atlanta City Council.

Councilman John A. White, Finance Committee member, obtained committee approval to a request to the Legislature to discontinue the practice of setting salaries of nearly a dozen City Department heads. Under the White proposal, the Mayor and Council would set the salaries as it does now for those not fixed by the Legislature.

Almost at the same time the Finance Committee was passing its resolution, Alverson announced he will ask the Legislature to amend the City charter so that no ordinance may be passed at the session in which it is first offered, except emergency measures dealing "with preservation of the public peace, health and safety."

At the present time, ordinances require two readings, but a two-thirds majority of Council can place it on second reading at any time and it then can be passed by a majority vote.

Informed of the action, Mayor Hartsfield asked if Alverson is "planning the same restrictions for Fulton Commissioners and for all other municipalities in Fulton County."

Solons Push One-Big-City Referendum

State Sen. Roy LeCraw said last night that the Fulton County delegation in the General Assembly will introduce legislation calling for the people of metropolitan Atlanta to decide in a referendum in November, 1950, on some form of consolidation of government.

The plan, he said, would require a Constitutional amendment, and the legislation would authorize appointment of a committee to make a complete study of "one government," the borough form of government and all forms of consolidation and annexation.

The committee would then submit the plan or plans to the people of all the area affected, within and without the corporate limits of Atlanta.

Sen. LeCraw said all members of the delegation are in agreement on the proposed legislation and that he would introduce it in the Senate and Rep. Luther Alverson in the House.

Queen Mary, 125-Ton Patch, Sails for N. Y.

The giant ship was blown aground in Cherbourg Harbor Saturday. She got off the sandbar 12 hours later, and returned here but damages to her hull have caused two postponements of her departure.

Seventeen impatient passengers, including Russia's UN Delegate Jakob Malik, left the Queen Mary because of the delays. Another 1,730 remained on board.

Bad weather and the mud wallowing delayed the liner four days. The delay was estimated to have cost $80,000.

Citizen Group Given Funds By Talmadge

Gov. Talmadge put up money yesterday to keep the Georgia Citizens Council in existence until the Legislature can decide whether to abolish it.

He approved the present quarterly budget of the agency. Some Talmadge leaders had suggested abolishing the Council—whose annual appropriation is $60,000—as an economy measure.

ASK FOUR-LANE ROAD—Chester Chapman (at left, shaking hands with Gov. Talmadge) and Charlie Bloch (standing behind Governor) led a delegation of Macon people here yesterday to ask the State for a four-lane highway between Macon, Atlanta, and Chattanooga.

Cravey Flouts State Self-Insurance Plan

State Insurance Commissioner Zack Cravey yesterday denounced a proposal that the State insure its own property and save more than $100,000 annually in premium payments, and asked Gov. Talmadge not to follow any such plan.

He said it would be unfair to 20,000 insurance agents for the State to go into competition with private enterprise.

Noting that an Atlanta Constitution article implied that it would be a relatively simple matter for the State to become a self-insurer and benefit by premium savings, Cravey said such a plan would be complex. It would require expert personnel in planning, maintenance, adjusting of losses, etc., which the State does not have.

Cravey said the plan was too absurd for comment, except for the fact that it bore the indorsement of State Auditor B. E. Thrasher. He said Thrasher failed to observe that $60,000 of the $294,000 paid by the State in insurance premiums goes to "agents right here in Georgia as commissions."

Hike Income Tax Favored By Anti-Sales Tax Group

Retailers and labor leaders favor increasing the income tax instead of enacting a sales tax, to finance expanded State services.

The co-ordinating committee for a State-wide campaign against a sales tax—composed of representatives from the AFL, CIO and independent labor groups and the Associated Retailers of Georgia—conferred in Atlanta yesterday.

It reaffirmed its support of the Minimum Foundation Program for Education and other expanded services, but repeated its opposition to a sales tax. It called for general tightening up in the administration of present tax laws to recover millions of dollars in lost revenues.

The committee favors modernization of the property tax procedures to eliminate the "gross inequalties in assessment and the evasion of proper levies." It says the tax on intangibles should be revised and increased on some kinds of intangibles.

The group favors adoption of an inheritance tax, and advocates a revised corporation franchise tax comparable to that of other Southern States.

It said that an income tax is "both the fairest and most potentially productive tax," while a sales tax places the burden on those least able to pay.

Health, Labor Leaders Talk Retirements

The State Departments of Health and Labor apparently are taking their appeals for a retirement system to the home towns of the Legislators.

From Waycross last night came a report that Labor Commissioner Ben T. Huiet and Dr. T. F. Sellers, Director of the State Health Department, and a group of their departmental leaders conferred with legislators from that section. The legislators included Sen. Sam Wright and Reps. J. L. Ryle and Wayne Hinson, all of Waycross, and Sen. Cecil Rhoddenberry, of Nahunta.

Huiet said a bill would be introduced to provide for a retirement fund for employees of the Labor, Health, Welfare and Public Safety departments. The Federal Government would put up a quarter of a million dollars to help finance this, he said.

Milledgeville Hospital Has New Director

Dr. T. G. Peacock, a Harvard graduate, who has been on the staff of the Milledgeville Hospital for a year, is the new director of the Hospital.

State Welfare Director Jack Forrester announced Dr. Peacock's appointment last night in Milledgeville. Peacock replaces Dr. Sam Anderson, who became acting director three weeks ago when Dr. Y. H. Yarbrough left the superintendent's post to devote his full time to medical duties.

Anderson said he was offered the post of assistant superintendent, but declined it. He said he would leave the hospital for another position.

Forrester also appointed George McFarland as business agent for the hospital, succeeding Herman Hendricks. He named J. Dean Rogers as purchasing agent.

Truman's Push for UMT To Help Our Diplomats?

By J. M. ROBERTS, JR.
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

President Truman, in renewing pressure for universal military training, probably is thinking as much of the nation's diplomatic position as of the military.

The U. S., during 1949, undoubtedly will renew its efforts to ease tension with Russia, even if only for the record. We are moving already for a new approach to the problem of a peace treaty for Austria. The President's recent assertion that there are some amenable Soviet officials could very well have been made to prepare the ground for moves in other directions. Something like the pre-election proposal to send a presidential envoy to Moscow may crop up again. Ambassador Bedell Smith's successor may be chosen specifically with such a project in mind.

This would not be a softening of American policy.

Some leftist wishful thinkers may profess to see signs of such a softening in the President's "friends in the Kremlin" speech. Already some of them have tried to show that Truman's emphasis on his desire for peace was an election factor. It seems to me far more likely that, in so far as foreign affairs played any part in the election, the voters were approving the firm policy already being followed. The mere fact this is a bipartisan policy would seem to be ample proof that the people are behind it. If there were any important group of dissidents the Republicans most certainly would have attempted to make some use of it. Henry Wallace tried to find such a group and failed.

The firm policy, however, always has had an open door through which the Administration watches for even the faintest signs that Russia might be willing to enter into a comity of nations. If she ever puts hand to the knocker she will be almost dragged into the house.

But the President seems to be well aware that, under present circumstances, every olive branch is likely to be interpreted by the Russians as a sign of weakness. Only the present policy of Western rearming, economically, politically and militarily, will provide an atmosphere in which negotiations can be conducted safely.

Adoption of universal training simultaneously with new approaches for a settlement would be like saying to Russia that she can do business with us if she wants to do so honestly, but that there will be no forced sale.

The President also may consider universal training as a good answer to any Russian "peace offensive," which many observers expect her to renew this year.

Russia knows as well as anyone else that the most dangerous period for the democracies will come with any general acceptance that peace is here and preparedness is unnecessary. They may try to disarm the West by sly approaches, quiet the war fears which are the greatest spurs to the present era of Western co-operation, and thereby weaken the anti-Communist forces for the kill.

The Administration seems to be following the line recently expressed by Bedell Smith:

"We cannot afford to allow ourselves to be lulled into a false sense of security; neither can we afford to become hysterical. . . . We must view this as a long-term thing. The Russian Politburo also thinks in terms of years."

The big, strong man can ignore insults and threats and can attempt to appease his critics without having his courage questioned or his position endangered. Only the weak must fight.

LABORITE HORRIFIED

England Become 49th State?

It would be "quite horrifying," Laborite member of Parliament Benn Levy said last night.

Levy, British playwright and husband of American-born film actress Constance Cummings, gave this answer when asked at a Labor meeting if Britain could solve her economic problems by joining the United States:

"The possibility of being ruled by the U. S. Congress, the possibility of finding ourselves dominated by their vastly inferior Constitution, and the possibility of finding ourselves submerged in a country which is at least 25 or 30 years behind ourselves, are quite horrifying."

New Judgeship Asked for Ga.

Creation of 22 additional Federal judgeships—one for the Northern District of Georgia—was proposed in Washington yesterday by Sen. McCarran, of Nevada.

McCarran said in introducing the bill that the need for additional manpower on the bench in certain areas has become increasingly evident in recent months.

Since the retirement of Federal Judge E. Marvin Underwood from the bench last March, Judge Robert L. Russell has been responsible for the Northern District of Georgia. Judge Underwood, although past the retirement age, sits on the bench almost as much as before he retired and the volume of work is still very heavy, the Clerk's office reported.

Russell Nips Anti-Talk Move

WASHINGTON—(AP)—A Southern Senator yesterday nipped in the bud a surprise Republican move to abolish the filibuster—the tactical weapon used to talk a bill to death.

Sen. Russell, Democrat, Georgia, leaped to his feet with a protest after Sen. Morse, Republican, Oregon, offered an anti-filibuster amendment to the Senate rules and unexpectedly asked for an immediate vote.

Russell's objection sidetracked the amendment, but only postponed a bitter new fight over the parliamentary device. The filibuster has been exploited by Scuthern Congress members for many years to combat civil-rights legislation, and by Northerners in other causes.

Truman Rent Control Plea Opposed Here

A majority of Atlanta real estate men, polled on the issue, expressed disapproval yesterday of President Truman's recommendation that Congress extend and strengthen rent control.

Jesse Draper voiced approval, saying, "Frankly I am in favor of continued rent control until the market reaches more of a supply."

Draper said he believed rent control should be on a zonal basis, however, and should be removed in certain areas when real estate people start looking for customers instead of vacancies. Atlanta, he said, had not yet reached that point.

W. J. Hogan, Jr., of Rankin-Whitten, disapproved.

"I think it is wrong," he said, "to pick out one industry and say to it that 'you can't enjoy the boom; it's only for the majority and you are a minority'."

Jack Adair, of the Adair Realty and Loan Company, was conservative in his answer. He said he was somewhat on the fence, but that he believed property owners were entitled to some increase in rentals since their cost of maintenance had gone up. The housing shortage in the $80-to-$100 rental brackets had been alleviated in Atlanta, Adair said, and the shortage should be lessened in the lower brackets during the coming year.

George, Russell Get Major Posts

Georgia's two Senators received major committee assignments in Washington yesterday.

Sen. George returned to the chairmanship of the Finance Committee. He also became a member of the Foreign Relations Committee.

Sen. Russell was named a member of the Appropriations Committee and the Armed Services Committee.

Atlantans Mostly Okay Message

By MARJORY SMITH

Atlantans — who, with voters across the country, upset the Gallup applecart to return Harry Truman to office last November—generally had no immediate regrets after hearing his State of the Union message.

Local comments following broadcast of the President's message to Congress yesterday ranged from a hearty, "It's the best, most forceful speech he ever made!" to a grudging "We-e-ell, at least he's cooled down a little on the civil rights issue."

Labor leaders here unanimously were jubilant over Truman's housing, education and health programs, predicting they "are going to make for better living for everyone." Mr. and Mrs. Man-on-the-Street, admittedly "a little foggy about some of those recommendations," received an over-all impression:

"Truman's a good man. He's doing his level best to keep us out of war and inflation. His speech made me realize just why he was re-elected."

Numerous citizens — including Gov. Herman Talmadge, County Manager A. E. Fuller and Mayor William B. Hartsfield—were unable in the press of the day's duties to hear a broadcast of the President's message, and declined comment until they "had time to read and digest it thoroughly."

At least one Atlantan, Attorney Hughes Spalding, "wasn't interested in Truman or what he had to say."

Typical comments follow:

Ken Douty, Georgia Director, Textile Workers of America (CIO): "A magnificent statement of our economic needs and the first steps we must take toward the solution . . . President Truman's concept of an expanding democracy marks a new beginning toward the goal of providing security for the average person."

Mrs. A. L. Henson, of 68 Alden Ave., N. W., housewife, active in American Legion Auxiliary work: "I listened while I was getting ready for guests. I was a little pleased that Truman wasn't quite so rambunctious about the civil-rights question and other matters that are going to affect the South. I was afraid he might be a little vicious after that overwhelming victory . . . but I even liked the tone of his voice!"

Henry Chandler, Secretary-Treasurer of the Georgia Federation of Labor: "With the exception of his civil-rights stand—and he didn't have too much to say about that—it was a grand speech."

Charlie Gillman, State CIO Director: "When he finished speaking, everybody in this office said it was the best speech he ever made. Of course we are very much interested in his housing, education and health program. I think they're going to make for better living for everyone."

Dr. Louie D. Newton, Pastor of the Druid Hills Baptist Church: "I thought it a very forthright declaration of his intentions to carry out his campaign pledges, and was particularly impressed with the closing passages, in which the President called upon the American people to unite in spirit and in prayer."

TRUMAN ON TAXES

what he called a "dynamic economy."

"I hope for co-operation from farmers, from labor and from business," he said. "Every segment of our population and every individual have a right to expect from our government a fair deal."

And he departed from his prepared text to plead for teamwork by Congress. Recalling that when he succeeded Franklin D. Roosevelt, he had asked co-operation, he continued:

"Now we are taking a new start in the same situation. It's absolutely essential that your President have the complete co-operation of Congress to keep the peace in this world and to keep this country powerful."

Mr. Truman said an aim of the nation should be to create wealth "for the benefit of all."

"We have rejected the discredited theory that the fortunes of the nation should be in the hands of a privileged few," he said. "We have abandoned the "trickle-down' concept of national prosperity."

Jammed galleries heard the message and the four major radio networks carried it to millions of listeners across the land.

The President said he was happy to report that "the State of the Union is good," and he sought to ease nervous qualms against Government interference with business by declaring:

"The Government is firmly committed to protect business and the people against the dangers of recession and against the evils of inflation."

"Our farmers still face an uncertain future. And too many of them lack the benefits of our modern civilization.

"Our first great opportunity is to protect our economy against the evils of 'boom and bust.'

To carry on our prosperity, Mr. Truman said, the government must have the help of business in a team-work job to achieve more employment and more production.

"So far as business is concerned, it should plan for steady, vigorous expansion—seeking always to increase its output, lower its prices, and avoid the vices of monopoly and restriction.

"So long as business does this, it will be contributing to continued prosperity, and it will have the help and encouragement of government."

In asking powers to combat inflationary pressures at "a number of critical points," Mr. Truman specifically requested:

Standby authority "to impose price ceilings for scarce commodities" affecting the cost of living "and to limit unjustified wage adjustments which would force a break in the established price ceiling."

He also asked legislation to:

1. Extend and strengthen rent control.
2. Grant authority to regulate speculation on the commodity exchanges.
3. Continue the power to control consumer credit and enlarge the power to control bank credit.
4. Continue export control authority.
5. Authorize priorities and allocations for key materials in short supply.

Touching on foreign policy, Mr. Truman said that in the European Recovery Program, the Good Neighbor Policy and the United Nations, "we have begun to batter down those national walls which block the economic growth and the social advancement of the peoples of the world."

Beaming approval at the decisive though not entirely docile Democratic majority in the new Congress, Mr. Truman said cheerfully:

"In the months ahead I know that I shall be able to co-operate with this Congress."

But he cracked a figuratively mule-skinner's whip around the ears of those who might balk at his program — Republicans and some Democrats—as he admonished them sternly:

"This is the task before us. It is not an easy one. It has many complications, and there will be strong opposition from selfish interests."

While declaring that conditions generally are "good," the President said there are "danger spots" and "we still have a long way to go."

"We are suffering from excessively high prices. Our production is still not large enough to satisfy our demands. Our minimum wages are far too low. (He asked that they be increased from 40 cents to 75.) Small business is losing ground to growing monopoly.

The President recommended that the proposed $4,000,000,000 in new taxes be levied principally against corporations, but he said "a portion" should come from revised estate and gift taxes, and "consideration" should be given to raising personal income taxes in the middle and upper brackets.

The President declared that the Taft-Hartley Act should be repealed because it "hampers our system of free collective bargaining" and because it discriminates "unfairly" against workers.

In its place, he said, Congress should re-enact the old Wagner Labor Relations Act with "certain improvements."

On the explosive topic of civil rights, Mr. Truman called for enactment of the entire slate of proposals he urged last year—measures which cost him four Southern States in the November election.

"I stand squarely behind those proposals," he said.

$4,500 Brooch Missing Here

The loss of family heirloom jewelry valued at $4,500 was reported yesterday by Mrs. Frank E. Lowenstein, Jr., of 1215 Ponce de Leon Ave., N. E.

Mrs. Lowenstein said a platinum brooch containing a one and one-half carat diamond and several smaller stones was taken from a locked closet in the home. She told Sgt. Bill Lyle and Det. Henley Wilbur the brooch was made from a necklace which had been in her family for many years.

The thief overlooked a quantity of other expensive jewelry to take the brooch, detectives said. They added the thief apparently entered the closet by picking the special lock which had been placed on the door to insure safety of the jewelry.

Mrs. Lowenstein said she placed the item in the closet on Dec. 10 and found it missing six days later when she began packing for a trip to visit relatives in Mexico City. She added the home had been thoroughly searched to determine if the brooch had been mislaid.

Four U. S. Fliers Seek Missing Plane in Cuba

HAVANA, Cuba — (AP) — Four American Air Force planes searched the north coast of Santa Clara Province yesterday for wreckage of a missing charter airliner which disappeared Dec. 27 with 32 persons aboard. The plane was en route from San Juan to Miami.

Taking part in the search near Caibarien were three Catalinas and a bomber.

One of the planes landed at the Caibarien Airport to check a report from Gerardo Valdes, a farmer, who said he had seen a plane flying low the day the charter planes was reported missing.

Luis del Valle, Manager of the Caibarien Airport, said that the American planes were covering a wide area around Caibarien, flying as far as Zulueta and Mayajigua.

Foot parties which set out Monday for the region where Valdes said he saw a plane had not reported back yesterday.

said it looks "as if we are going the way England went and without the restraint and caution."

Cox predicted approval of the civil rights program but said it could mean "creating the greatest social disturbance the country has ever known."

Rep. Martin, of Massachusetts, House Republican leader, said of the President's program generally:

"The President has recommended, as everyone expected he would, that Congress provide many billions of dollars to pay for his campaign promises. If the Democratic Congress agrees to his request in full, the country is in for some dizzy days."

Senator Wherry, Nebraska, Senate Republican floor leader, said "it is difficult to accept the sincerity of the President's message." He said the nation can not have Mr. Truman's program and solvency too.

Senator Kem, Republican, Missouri: "The President has given us a pattern for a socialized state and a new era of unbridled public spending. He has charted a course that is not in the American tradition."

Rep. Wadsworth, Republican, New York: "The message bore a close resemblance to a Sears-Roebuck catalog. It would take two Congresses to even begin to give thought and consideration to the tremendous list of proposals."

Rep. Chelf, Democrat, Kentucky: "He's still the champ."

U. S. Digging Out; 10,500 Marooned

The big snowstorm petered out yesterday and the tremendous task of digging out of the drifts began.

Some fresh snow fell in North Dakota and parts of South Dakota. Winds that ranged up to 48 miles an hour buffeted those States and piled up drifts in Western Nebraska and Northern Kansas.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Thousands still were marooned in the wake of the three-day heavy storm. The Red Cross and other sources estimated 10,500 travelers were stranded in parts of Wyoming, Colorado, Nebraska, Utah and Idaho.

At Rockport, Colo., 465 persons were stopped cold. More than 300 of them took shelter in a tavern.

Many persons in the snow belt suffered from exposure. But only two deaths were reported—one in Colorado and one in Wyoming.

The Chicago and Northwestern Railroad cancelled all passenger service west of Omaha until further notice.

One weather element favored the snow plow crews striving to reopen rail lines and highways. Temperatures were about normal—under freezing but above zedo.

Killing frost clamped down on Southern California for the second day in a row. Early estimates placed the loss to citrus growers at approximately $10,000,000.

Los Angeles had a low reading of 31 compared with a record 27.9 on Tuesday. At Redlands the thermometer went down to 21.5.

Rain fell in the Northeastern section of the U. S. and in Eastern and Central Ohio.

The weather story had one twist. It was a nice time to travel—if you went high enough and far enough. Airlines reported coast-to-coast flying weather has been "swell." Tuesday was the busiest day on record at the Los Angeles airport.

Jews Claim War Strike 30 Miles Into Egypt

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

An Israeli spokesman disclosed last night that Jewish troops struck 30 miles into Egypt on a raid, and withdrew after three days' fighting.

At the same time a private source said the Israeli Government had decided to accept the United Nations Security Council's ceasefire order. An end of fighting in that area is expected soon.

A high British Government source said Britain may ask the United Nations Security Council to lift its embargo on arms shipments to Arab countries if Israeli patrol activity on the Egyptian border continues.

The British source said there was absolutely "no question" of Britain going to war with Israel, as suggested by some British newspapers. He called such reports dishonest propaganda.

Britain, this informant disclosed, has sent a garrison force to Aqaba in Trans-Jordan near Israeli territory. An Israeli spokesman charged the British also have sent planes into Trans-Jordan and are holding landing exercises in Tripolitania. The British refused comment on those charges.

Britain's Foreign Office accused Israel of "most flagrant and staggering violation" of UN Security Council orders in the Negev, and said the United States also is pressing the Israelis to make peace with their Arab neighbors.

In China, the Communists spurned Chiang Kai-shek's peace offer. The Nationalist Government was reported packing for possible flight from Nanking, as the Communist radio threatened to "fight to the finish" and attack Peiping.

Dutch ceasefire orders, extended to all Indonesia 11 days after the Security Council ordered hostilities ended, met an Indonesian Republican threat to continue the fight.

The Indonesians said they would harass the Dutch with guerrilla raids until the occupation force releases captive Indonesian leaders, withdraws from cities it has seized, and agrees to quit Indonesia and permit the country to have an all-Indonesia Government of its own choice.

American sources in Berlin said the Soviet blockade has cut the city's industrial output 60 percent, and that factories consume raw materials faster than the airlift can fly them to the city.

A commandeered Hungarian plane landed in Munich, and 22 of its 25 occupants said they had appropriated it to escape "constant Communist terror" in Hungary. The other three occupants said they wanted to return.

LOOKING through the figures in this bank statement, you see a true reflection of the people behind the figures . . . their lives and affairs and needs . . . and of how The Bank of Georgia serves them all.

More than 32,000 customers now utilize our many services. People who save to build better lives for their families, or to prepare for future opportunities . . . thousands of other individuals and businesses who maintain checking accounts, or call on us for loans for various worthy purposes.

An accurate barometer of our service to the people, as well as of the bank's solidity, is the item marked "Loans and Discounts." As Dr. Joseph Stagg Lawrence, eminent economist, wrote: "A substantial position in consumer loans means a broad diversification of risk, a steady succession of maturities, the heavy amortization of principal, and an extremely low loss ratio. A careful analysis of consumer loans shows that they serve a constructive economic purpose."

Our statement, then, not only shows the condition of the bank, but reflects the growth and progress of the entire community it serves. For a bank prospers only as the people behind the figures prosper.

If State Does Not Help, New Schools Will Not Be Built, Educators Say

(Editor's Note: This is the fourth in a series of articles on the proposed Minimum Foundation Program for Education—the No. 1 legislation facing the General Assembly which convenes here next week.)

By M. L. ST. JOHN

When economy-minded Legislators gasp at the size of the check to cover the proposed Minimum Foundation Program for Education, the first thing they think of eliminating is a $4,500,00 item for constructing school buildings.

The State, they say, is not yet ready to move into the construction field.

Educators give this answer:

If the State doesn't help build schools, they won't be built—because the counties, even bonded to the hilt, cannot finance the schoolhouses they need.

The purpose of the Minimum Foundation Program for Education is to equalize educational opportunities for all of Georgia's children. Educational opportunities are not equalized when some children go to school in palaces and some try to study in huts. Educational advantages are not equalized when teachers get reasonable salaries but are not given acceptable facilities with which to work.

Within the past few days, the State Health Department gave serious conditions to forcing some schools to close their doors because sanitary conditions endangered the lives of the children. It decided against these police measures, however, when it noted that these were not isolated instances—but were common faults of many Georgia schools. The Health and School Departments are working with these schools to try to improve these dangerous conditions.

"The majority of schools in Georgia do not meet desirable standards for sanitary and other health facilities," Pembleton Mitchell, Director of Schoolhouse planning for the State Department of Education, says.

Mitchell reports that recent surveys disclose the following conditions: Many schools are hazardously heated with unjacketed stoves; many schools are lacking in provision for daylighting and for supplementary artificial lighting; many schools have unsanitary toilet facilities or none at all; many schools are not safe in regard to exits, stairways, etc.; many schools are not provided with lunchrooms and other service rooms; many schools are poorly situated on sites which are both too small and poorly located; many schools are not built for educational purposes (churches, lodges and other buildings are used for Negro schools, many schools have an inadequate water supply and drinking fountains.

The $4,500,000 proposed for capital outlay in the Minimum Foundation Program will hardly be a drop in the bucket toward solving Georgia's school building needs, Mitchell points out.

He estimates that the total minimum school building needs for the next six years will cost $132,428,595.

Georgia needs 7,017 classrooms costing $31,471,245— to replace plants unfit for use. It needs to remodel 11,787 classrooms at a cost of $17,621,565. It needs 4,184 specialized classrooms costing $25,020,320. It needs 631 classrooms costing $2,830,035 to relieve overcrowded conditions. It needs 836 classrooms costing $3,749,460 to take care of increased enrollments due to the increased birthrates. And it needs 834 classrooms costing $3,740,490 for increased enrollments due to transition into the twelfth grade program. That's a breakdown by Mitchell on his estimated total cost of $132,428,595.

While the $4,500,000 won't be much toward this $132,428,595 total need, Mitchell says that the move of the State to aid in building schools would stir local communities to do more themselves and would influence the Federal Government toward putting up some money.

(Tomorrow, everybody's for the teachers.)

Lions' Zarza Talks To George Brodnax

Chances are fair to middlin' the fellow sitting next to you on the bus last night was a professional football scout.

This is open season for the pros and their representatives turn up in the strangest places. Their mission is the signing of college stars which have been "drafted" and, at the same time, pluck some lad from the bushes who has escaped all the rave notices yet has the stuff necessary in the money ranks.

The latest such ivory hunter to show up in our neighborhood was Mr. Louis Zarza, the end coach for the Detroit Lions. He had conversation with Georgia Tech's George Brodnax before departing for other localities.

No official announcement of what transpired in the interview was made but Brodnax expressed interest in the offer. However, he didn't sign and will wait until Spring before making a decision. The San Francisco 49ers have drafted him in the All-American League and he may await offers from them.

Another Jacket the pros are after is Frank Ziegler, the hard-running fullback. The champion Philadelphia Eagles have draft rights on him and his present plans are to go to Philadelphia for a conference in the near future.

Works for Bo Zarza works for Mr. Bo McMillin, the former Indiana coach whose debut in professional ranks was something less than spectacular in the 1948 season.

"It was a building period," Lou said. "We had some good youngsters who will be a lot better next season with a year's professional experience."

Zarza was particularly interested in the capabilities of Johnny Rauch, Georgia's T-formation quarterback, and for good reason. He wants to know if his club made a bad bargain.

You see, Rauch was the Lions' first draft choice but the rights on him were traded to the Boston Yanks for Doak Walker, who has another year of eligibility at SMU.

Produced No Fireworks Back during the confusing scramble for bowl teams, the Sugar Bowl came up with Oklahoma and North Carolina and immediately started receiving congratulations.

But as things worked out, the Tarheel-Sooner 14-6 contest was something less than spectacular and not at all to the liking of the New Year nuts who pay the freight.

Furman Bisher says as much in his sports column in the Charlotte News:

"Eighty-five thousand listened wistfully in the Sugar Bowl Saturday afternoon while the public address announcer droned out the progressively inflationary score of the Orange Bowl game between Texas and Georgia. That was the kind of excitement they had thought they were paying for, the best bowl match in the country, a distinction these New Orleans people proudly claim. In Carolina and Oklahoma, though, they had overmatched themselves. What had seemed sure to be a dizzy exchange of touchdown thrusts became a Saturday afternoon brawl. . . . For their money, the Sugar Bowl customers were given five major plays . . . the rest of the game was straight power football. . . ."

Whatever else may be said about the Texas-Georgia clash, there was never a dull moment and both teams lived up to their reputations of being crowd-pleasers.

Nevada Overmatched Apparently, the biggest overmatch of New Year's Day, however, was in the Harbor Bowl, pitting Villanova against Nevada.

Despite Nevada Coach Joe Sheeketski's howling about poor officiating, Villanova emerged with an easy 27-7 victory and the highly publicized Stan Heath emerged with a couple of cracked ribs, period.

The Wildcats aren't the best team in the country, by any means. But they are a major college team, which apparently has all it takes to whip Nevada, as Santa Clara was the only other team to accomplish the trick.

It seems that it was a mismatch with a good big team having it all over a good little one.

Citation Okay After 'Firing'

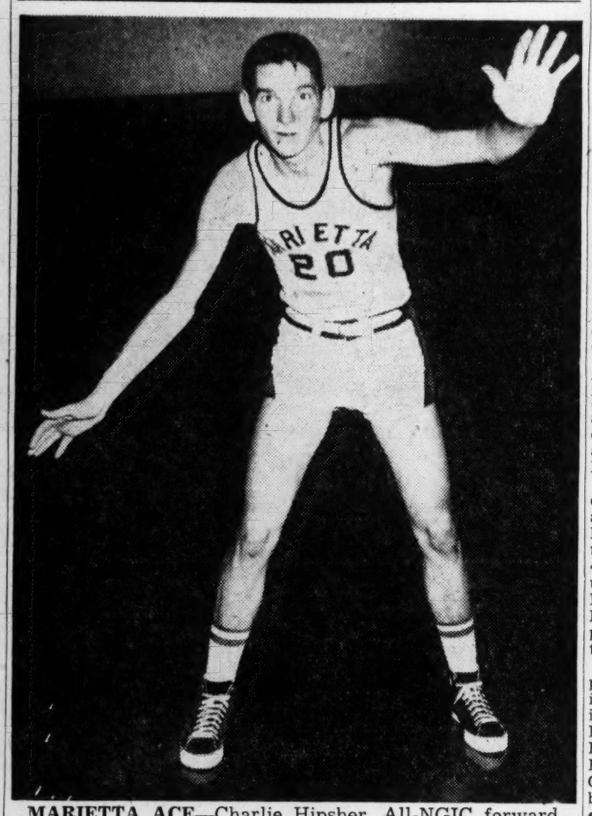
MIAMI, Fla.—(AP)—Calumet Farm's Citation, "fired" a week ago for a leg injury, has recovered and is being walked daily, it was reported yesterday.

All the swelling is gone from the injured member and the second highest money winning horse in turf history is being walked twice daily, Hialeah Park officials said. He is walked an hour each morning and 45 minutes each evening.

"I've never seen a horse recover so rapidly from a firing operation as Citation did," said Trainer H. A. (Jimmy) Jones.

The wonder horse, who won the triple crown last Summer by taking the Kentucky Derby, Preakness and Belmont Stakes, has put on about 60 pounds since his leg was injured Dec. 11 at Tanforan in California. He now weighs about 950 pounds.

SPORTS



MARIETTA ACE—Charlie Hipsher, All-NGIC forward for the past two seasons, has averaged 20 points per game in pacing the Blue Devils to 12 triumphs in 13 starts this season. Hipsher has already exceeded his 255-point total for last season. He hopes to enter the University of Georgia after completing his prep career.

TEXANS BACK LOSER

Derby Prospect Beats Famous Quarter-Horse

CORAL GABLES, Fla.—(UP)—A thoroughbred Kentucky Derby prospect beat the famed quarter-horse Stella Moore yesterday in a special quartermile straightaway race at Tropical Park.

Olympia, three-year-old racer owned by Fred Hooper, finished half a head in front of Stella Moore in a new test of the old argument over which is faster over a quarter mile—a good cattle range horse or a thoroughbred.

There was no pari-mutuel betting on the race, a special event run between the fifth and sixth races on the Tropical card, but the respective owners are reported to have backed their entries with five-figure wagers. Wealthy Texas oil and cattlemen here for the Orange Bowl festivities also put up sizable bets on Stella Moore. Most of the overheard betting was at even money.

With Jockey Milo Trevino, flown here from New Mexico to ride Stella Moore, driving her down the straightaway, the little Texas filly was wearing down Olympia when they crossed the finish line.

Olympia's time was 22 3/5 seconds, a fifth of a second slower than his training mark over the distance. He was ridden by Jockey Willie Garner.

Roberts purchased Stella Moore when she was five months old. Two years ago she outran Miss Princess, regarded by cattlemen as the fastest quarter-horse ever bred, until the final few yards of a race run at Del Rio, Texas.

Smith, Bass, Brown Open Campaigns

By CHARLIE ROBERTS

Murphy and Roosevelt, having drawn first blood in league games Tuesday night, will sit on the sidelines tonight as Smith, Brown and Bass quintets open their City League cage campaigns for 1949 at Grady court.

Roy Rowlett's Brownies, surprise runners-up to Murphy in the Atlanta Division, University of Georgia's pre-Christmas tournament, will tangle with Max (Red) Ivey's Bass five at 7:30, Smith, runner-up to Murphy for the loop diadem last season, will tear into O'Keefe in the afterpiece.

Shirley Watkins' Smithies have been a bit disappointing to date but figure to be in the running all the way with such stalwarts on hand as W. A. Skelton, Bobby and Leon Tuck, Herb Mendel and Burton Clein.

Gene Sackett's Irish conceivably could give the Smithies a whale of a fight if they play as they did in leading Roosevelt until the last two minutes Tuesday, only to bow, 45-52. James Perry, who racked up 20 points, Fred Carey, Opal Moon, Warren Harper, Jimmy Nisewonger and Jerry Seigel all played top-flight ball over most of the route.

Franklin (Pepper) Rodgers, apparently almost as much improved in basketball as he was in football in one year, Bobby Smith, Bill Darden, Charlie Brannon and Bill Bartlett figure to make the Johnny Rebs about as good as any of them. Coach Rowlett's slow, deliberate brand of basketball proved highly effective last year, and only the lack of a good point maker kept the Rebs from finishing even higher.

Red Ivey will be making his debut as a hardwood coach with few experienced players on hand. Jimmy Ransbotham, Don Fuller, Sonny Scott, Albert Griffith and Graham Bell seem to be the best of the lot, but the Wave hardly figures to give the Brownies trouble tonight.

One of the big games of the infant season will be on tap tomorrow night at Canton where D. C. Smith's Greenies, winners of 14 straight without a defeat, will battle Harrison Anderson's Marietta Blue Devils, triumphant in 12 of 13 tilts.

Friday night games involving Fulton County teams include North Fulton at College Park, West Fulton at Hapeville and Fulton at Avondale. All are double bills, starting at 7:30. The Hapeville girls will meet the Napsonian lassies since West Fulton has no feminine sextet. Decatur will invade Griffin for its Friday contest.

Lewis Named Miss. State Line Coach

STATE COLLEGE, Miss.—(AP)—Athletic Director C. R. (Dudy) Noble announced that Arthur (Slick) Morton, new Maroon head football coach, had signed Arthur Lewis, head football coach at Washington and Lee, as Mississippi State line coach.

Lewis, head coach at Washington and Lee for the last three years, is a graduate of Ohio University.

After completing his collegiate career in 1936, Lewis played three years of professional football with the New York Giants and coached and played for three seasons with the Cleveland Rams. While in the Navy Lewis coached at St. Mary's for one year.

Lewis' resignation was accepted at Washington and Lee yesterday. He will report with Coach Morton for his new assignment on Jan. 12.

NO WORRIES FOR WYNN—Early Wynn, chubby pitcher who was recently traded to the Cleveland Indians by Washington, piles on the calories after Owner Bill Veeck told him not to worry about his poundage. Wynn, now 215, says he was not effective last season because he weighed a mere 190.

NOT WORRIED AT ALL

Veeck, Wynn Agree About Salary, Weight

VENICE, Fla.—(AP)—Early Wynn, the Cleveland Indians' new pitcher, lost a $20,000 cabin cruiser in a storm last week, but he isn't going to worry about losing another thing until the baseball season opens.

And even then it will be only ball games he'll be concerned with.

The precious poundage which the chubby hurler thinks so much of can stay right where it is.

Wynn, vacationing here, said yesterday Cleveland owner Bill Veeck had assured him in a long distance telephone conversation not to worry about losing weight—or about losing anything from the paycheck he got from the seventh place Washington Senators last year.

The big right hander won only nine games in the 1948 season, the word was that Clark Griffith, Washington boss, believed Wynn's effectiveness was hurt by his weight, even though Wynn had cut it from 225 to a "mere shadow of 190."

But Wynn recalled that in 1947, before he went on a diet he won 17 and topped all Washington pitchers.

"Veeck told me not to worry about my weight, or about my control, which we discussed very satisfactorily," he said.

"He told me to go ahead and eat anything I want and for me to decide what my best weight is, and I'm taking him up on that."

Wynn said he weighs about 215 pounds now and can afford to go up several pounds more. He stands an even six feet.

If he regains his 1947 form Wynn easily could be a 20-game winner with Cleveland.

All he would say about that, however, was "I figure I'll win my share of games this year with the world champions behind me."

Wynn, 29 today, said he believed he had "at least five or six big years ahead of me on a pitching staff with fellows like Feller, Lemon and Bearden to share the burden."

He declared he still admired Griffith and was on good terms with his former boss, but was very happy to move to Cleveland.

"You know, it is going to be great pitching for Boudreau (Lou Boudreau, Cleveland shortstop-manager) instead of against him," Wynn opined with a smile. "He always was the hardest man in the league for me to get out."

Sullivan Award Goes To Mathias

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK—(AP) Bob Mathias, the 17-year-old marvel from Tulare, Cal., who won the Olympic Decathlon Championship at London, has been voted the James E. Sullivan Memorial Trophy as the outstanding U. S. amateur athlete for 1948.

The award, most coveted in the world of amateur sports, has been given annually since 1930 to the amateur "who, by performance, example and good influence, did most to advance the cause of good sportsmanship during the year."

Mathias, now a student at Kiski Preparatory School at Saltsburg, Pa., was given 201 first-place votes out of 525 ballots vast by sports leaders throughout the country.

Harrison Dillard, the great Negro sprinter and hurdler, who won the Olympic 100-meter at London, placed second to Mathias with 119 first-place votes. Dillard also ran second last year, when the award went to Jack Kelly, the Philadelphia sculler.

Third in the voting was Joe Verduer Olympic breaststroke swimming champion from Philadelphia, chosen by 77 selectors; fourth, Henry Wittenberg, New York City's peerless wrestler, who won the Olympic 175-pound title, 64 votes; fifth, Bob Kurland, towering center of the Phillips Basketball Oilers, 36 votes, and Mrs. Alline Banks Sprouse, of Atlanta, the nation's leading women's basketball star, 28 votes.

Only the six candidates were on the ballot submitted to the selectors after field had been sifted by the Sullivan Award Committee at the annual meeting of the Amateur Athletic Union here.

The trophy will be presented to Mathias at a luncheon here on Feb. 20, the day after the National AAU Indoor Championships at Madison Square Garden, in which the California phenom may be a competitor.

In citing Mathias for the award, the AAU said:

"His extreme modesty, his excellent sportsmanship and his terrific competitive spirit have endeared him to all followers of sport.

"He is strictly a team player. When urged by the coach of the U. S. Olympic track and field team to refrain from basketball and high school track competition to concentrate on the decathlon, he refused, since he felt that he could not let his teammates down."

NEW YORK—(AP)—A New York County Grand Jury yesterday began an investigation of an alleged attempt by four men to "fix" a college basketball game with a $1,000 bribe.

The jury heard its first witness less than 20 hours after the game, between George Washington University, of Washington, D. C., and Manhattan College, of New York, was played in Madison Square Garden.

The witness was David Shapiro, of Brooklyn, 25-year-old co-captain of the George Washington team, to whom the $1,000 allegedly was offered. Authorities said he co-operated with them wholeheartedly in a four - month investigation which exposed the attempted gambling coup.

The four men accused of the "fix" attempt were arrested Tuesday just before the game and are held in $50,000 bail each.

District Attorney Frank S. Hogan, praising Shapiro's "honesty and courage," said the player came to the District Attorney's office last September and said he had been contacted by men who wanted him to "fix" games.

The player, a World War II veteran, with four battle stars, followed instructions of the law enforcement officials in his dealings with the men from then on, Hogan said.

The District Attorney said Shapiro told him the quartet wanted him to see that Manhattan won Tuesday night's game by at least 18 or 19 points.

The New York school was a 13-point favorite in the betting but George Washington won, 71 to 63. Shapiro, primarily a defensive player, did not score a point; he left the game on five personal fouls.

Jack Levy, 40, of Miami, Fla.
William Rivlin, 43, of New York.
Joseph Aronowitz, 35, a cloth cutter, of Brooklyn.
Philip Klein, a linotype operator, of Brooklyn.

All four denied offering the bribe.

Hogan said in a statement that "the contamination of vultures such as these defendants can be effectively removed if other young men will follow the courageous course of David Shapiro . . ."

The District Attorney gave this account of the affair:

Shapiro first was approached by Aronowitz The player went to the District Attorney's office, was told to stall Aronowitz along and continue contacting the office for instructions.

On Sept. 14, Aronowitz and Klein told Shapiro he could make up to $10,000 during the cage season by seeing that his team won or lost by a certain number of points.

Five more meetings were held, with the men suggesting that George Washington's games with North Carolina State, Washington and Lee, and Virginia might be fixed.

Shapiro put them off, but acting under Hogan's instructions, agreed to accept the $1,000 bribe in connection with the Manhattan game.

The money was to be paid to an "uncle" before the game. The "uncle," a detective, arrested Klein and Aronowitz. Levy and Rivlin were arrested earlier at an airlines terminal.

Football Coach Busy Man All Year Round

By GEORGE TISINGER

If you think a football coach's life is a serene one at any time of the year you have another think or two coming.

The regular season is tough enough when they are under the constant pressure of meeting a different team every week. They have not only the problems of the playing field and preparation for actual combat but also outside problems which are just as difficult if not more so.

The Fall of the year is the time when the coach sees his family only in passing. He is either on the road to and from a game, on the practice field, at a blackboard session or in conference with his assistants and scouts about the upcoming opponent, or doing any number of other things which come up in a "normal" day's work.

At the end of the season if he and his team go to a bowl that means another month of hard work. He may slip away for a day or so around Christmas to spend some time with his family. Maybe not.

If this team isn't playing in a bowl he generally takes one in anyway, just to be on the scene and get a few slants on how the other boys are doing it.

After that the Banquet Circuit begins. For the next month or so all the civic and touchdown clubs want him on hand for their parties. And if for some reason he can't make one, they can't understand and feel slighted. He doesn't want to hurt anybody's feelings so he usually makes one right after another—often as not at his own expense.

Too Busy for Visitor

A fellow dropped around the Georgia Tech athletic offices yesterday just to ask a question or two and see how things were going.

Here's what happened—and remember this is an offseason.

On walking in, he learned that the coach he wanted to see was shut up in his office with a long-distance telephone call.

Before the visitor left, the coach had made two more long-distance telephone calls and had answered five local ones.

He sad solved a problem of eligibility of a player. He had made arrangements for a plane trip. He had made arrangements for a friend to come to see him via air. He had answered four questions by an assistant on what to do about certain prospective players. He had dictated a couple of letters to touchdown club secretaries accepting invitations to attend their meetings. He told another assistant when he would return so they could get together about plans for a party for the players. He had checked the airport about possibilities of a plane being grounded later that afternoon. He called home and told his wife he couldn't make it by home until next Sunday as he was going to have to go by auto to a distant city, since the weather kept him from flying. He had solved a couple of personal problems for members of last year's team. He put on his coat and hat and ran out the door for the long drive to the distant city.

He did say good-bye to the visitor but the visitor never did get a chance to ask his questions.

COACH ALEX SNOW-BOUND IN NEBRASKA

W. A. Alexander, Georgia Tech Athletic Director, and Charlie Griffin, Business Manager, may or may not ever get to their destination—the important NCAA meeting in San Francisco.

The two, en route by train through the North, are among the many who are snow bound by the blizzard. They are "sweating it out" at Tyndal, Neb., at present.

Army-Navy Tie Is Year's Top Surprise

NEW YORK — (AP) — The year 1948 was chock full of sports surprises. It was the year the Boston Braves won their first pennant in 34 seasons and the Cleveland Indians won their first championship in 28 campaigns.

It was the year Satchel Paige, a legendary figure in the Negro leagues for more than 20 years, finally got his long-awaited chance in the major leagues, It was the year Babe Ruth died.

The biggest single surprise, according to the experts participating in the year-end poll of the Associated Press, was the spine-tingling 21-21 tie between Army's and Navy's football teams. Rated a close second was the pulse-pulse-pounding 14-14 deadlock between Notre Dame and Southern California.

Of the 96 sports writers who voted, 32 selected the Army-Navy game and 17 the Notre Dame-Southern California contest. The service classic also received 21 second-place votes and 13 thirds for a total of 151 points. The Irish-Trojan game got 27 seconds and 16 thirds for 121 points.

In all, 29 surprises were listed. The strange managerial maneuvers of last July which resulted in the release of Mel Ott and Ben Chapman, the switch of Leo Durocher from the Dodgers to the New York Giants, the return of Burt Shotton to Brooklyn and the naming of Eddie Sawyer to head the Philadelphia Phils got third billing with seven firsts, 10 seconds and six thirds for 47 points.

Six selectors named the venerable Connie Mack and his first division Philadelphia Athletics as the No. 1 surprise. The same number regarded Harrison Dillard's failure to qualify in the Olympic hurdles as the biggest stunner. Dillard picked up 10 seconds and 11 thirds to five and six by the A's to win fourth place with 45 points. The Athletics nabbed the fifth spot with 34.

Marcel Cerdan's knockout triumph over Tony Zale for the world's middleweight crown got sixth place with 23 points, one more than Sandy Saddler's kayo win over Willie Pep for the featherweight title.

Eighth place went to Pancho Gonzales for his upset victory in the United States men's singles tennis competition. His feat was worth 16 points, two more than the Pittsburgh Pirates received for vaulting from last place tie in 1947 to a fourth place finish last season. The Cleveland Indians picked up a tenth-place 11 points for their World Series triumph.

CAGER HANDS HIS SHIRT TO REFEREE, DRAWS $100 FINE

NEW YORK — (UP) — Taking off your shirt on the court is bad enough, but handing it to the referee is disgraceful, President Maurice Podoloff of the Basketball Association of America decided in fining Player-Coach Grady Lewis of the St. Louis Bombers $100 for the offense.

The strip tease occurred in a game between the Bombers and the Rochester Royals on New Year's night. Referee Max Tabacchi had just called a sixth personal foul on Lewis which ejected him from the game. Lewis left the floor but not until he had presented Tobacchi with a very damp red shirt.

Grant Beats Windham in Dixie Tourney

TAMPA, Fla.— (AP) —Unranked George Winchell, of St. Petersburg, threw a scare into sixth-seeded Ricardo Balbiers in the Dixie Tennis Tournament here yesterday, but the Chilean star pulled out a 7-5, 6-3 win.

Winchell is a student at Florida Southern College. Balbiers plays for Rollins College.

Other matches went according to form.

Buddy Behrens, of Fort Lauderdale, seeded second, whipped Leon Wilson, of the University of Florida, 6-0, 6-2.

Gardner Larned, of Chicago, No. 3, practiced up with a 6-0, 6-1 win over Bill Bradley, Bradenton; then took the measure of Berney Segal, of Tampa, 6-4, 6-1.

Atlanta's perennial Bitsy Grant, No. 4, in better form every day, whipped Him Windham, of Orlando, who had looked good in two earlier matches.

Russell Bobbitt, of Atlanta, No. 5, had less trouble than expected in defeating Johnny Dennis, of St. Petersburg, 6-3, 6-1.

Sidney Schwartz, of the University of Miami, trounced Dan Sullivan, St. Petersburg, 6-0, 6-2.

Schwartz is seeded seventh and Dickson eighth.

Closest battle was the 7-9, 6-3, 7-5 victory of Ivey Wilson, of St. Petersburg, over Bruce Johnson, University of Miami.

Garrison warned the school people that "some vested interests" are opposing the Minimum Foundation Program for Education.

Attending the dinner were Joseph Hunt, of Washington, assistant national director of vocational rehabilitation; P. G. Sherer, South Carolina Director; Charles H. Warren, North Carolina Director; Henry Smith, Tennessee Director; H. B. Cummings, Regional representative; members of the State Board of Education and State officials. Dr. Sam's Marianna Cops Amateur All-Age Stake

By BERT PRATHER,
Constitution Sports Writer.

EUFAULA, Ala.—Running in the final brace in a driving rain, Dr. Sam's Marianna, a liver-and-white pointer male from the kennel of Jack Russell, of Columbus, turned in a big race and climaxed it with a covey find to win the coveted Chattahoochee Valley Field Trial Association's Amateur All-Age Stake here yesterday.

Dr. Sam's Marianna, who is trained by Bill Etchells, of Leesburg, Ga., showed plenty of style in handling his covey, and it was apparent to most of the oldtimers in the water-soaked gallery, that he had turned the trick when he made the find. He was handled by E. P. Hicks. Marianna ran in the heat with Wyecott's Hallie, who was to have been a bye dog, but was moved up when June Welchell scratched Stein City Sue.

Another Columbus owner picked up second place silverware. In this event, when Sid Dykes, President of the Chattahoochee Club, piloted Accolade's Ann, a white-and-liver pointer female, through a creditable race and one covey find. Ann is trained by George Crangle, of Waynesboro, Georgia.

A setter, Wyecott's Ace Essig, owned and handled by Raymond Trammel over whose Cross Creek plantation this famous old bird dog fixture is run each year, grabbed third place. He was called back after the completion of the trial in order for Judges Henry Banks, of Gurreyton, Ala., and Lester White, of Orlando, Fla., to see his owner shoot over him. On his find during his regular run, Trammell did not fire over him.

The stake, which drew 31 entries, was run off almost entirely in rain. The elements, of course, hampered the dogs, but is was considered a good stake.

The rain became so bad and the course so boggy, that President Sid Dykes, Secretary Tom Devane, and the Judges, decided to wait until today to start the Open All Age Stake, which will be worth better than $1,300 to the first, second and third-place dogs.

Most of the leading professional handlers are here for the Open Stakes. Allegheny Dan, big running pointer, owned by Guy Stancil, of Gainesville, Ga., is the defending champion. He will be handled by his professional trainer, Herman Smith.

Another outstanding entry in this stake is Duration Bob, who is owned by Jack Curran, of Atlanta, and who will be handled in this big money stake by George Crangle. There are 48 dogs entered in the Open All-Age. The Open Derby, which will conclude the trials drew a field of 17 young pointers and setters. It is expected that the trials will be completed Sunday afternoon.

Baylor Five Wins

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark.—(AP)—Defending champion Baylor defeated Arkansas, 41-37, here last night as the two teams opened their Southwest Conference basketball season.

Villanova Boys Deny Dirty Play

Nevada's Coach Joe Sheeketski called the officiating at the contest "the poorest, the lousiest, I have ever seen in my career in football."

Art Raimo, assistant Villanova Coach, said that Sheeketski is "peeved now" and quoted the coach whose team lost 27-7 to the Wildcats as saying after the game that the better team won.

"Take the two men they had injured," Raimo said. "Heath hurt himself putting a block on Danny Brown and Sherwood Howard had his head cut on a legitimate head-on tackle."

Billikens Win, 57-44

ST. LOUIS—(AP)—The St. Louis University Billikens broke loose in the second half to win their first Missouri Valley Conference game of the season—defeating Bradley University, 57 to 44, last night.

DePaul Five Upsets Oklahoma Aggies

STILLWATER, Okla.—(AP)—The DePaul University Demons played almost perfect basketball in the second half to upset the highly-favored Oklahoma A. and M. Aggies, 39 to 32, here last night.

It was one of the most sensational court performances ever witnessed at Gallagher Hall as some 8,500 fans saw the Demons overcome an eight-point deficit to hand the Aggies their second defeat of the season.

The victory was eccomplished at the expense of the Aggies' own game—a rugged defense. So tight was the Chicago club's basket tending in the second half that the Aggies were held to six points after attaining a 26-18 halftime lead.

Diamond Leads Delta To 58-30 Win Over 'Y'

Delta Air Lines rolled over the YMCA five, 58-30, last night at the Y court. Diamond led the winners' attack with 17 points, while Leahy scored seven for the Y.

Thompson To Sell Eagles If He Can Get $250,000

PHILADELPHIA — (AP) — Owner Alexis Thompson agreed yesterday to sell his champion Philadelphia Eagles of the National Football League if he gets at least $250,000.

Thompson said he is anxious to sell — but only "if the price is right." He claims he lost money on the Eagles the last two seasons despite winning teams.

Gen. Mgr. Charley Ewart has been given 60 days to sell the club — at Thompson's price and if Thompson gives a final okay.

"My figure is no less than $250,000 and no higher than $300,000," Thompson said at his New York office. "The difference will be settled on the basis of new equipment we've purchased and ticket sales for next season."

And the sale price, Thompson insisted, doesn't include the Eagle training camp at Saranac Lake, New York.

An offer for the club's purchase was made two weeks ago by James P. Clark, former Democratic City Chairman. He declined to say what the offer was but indicated it was less than $200,000.

4 OTHER CHANGES RECOMMENDED

Coaches' Rules Committee Wants To Liberalize Free Sub System

SAN FRANCISCO—(AP)—Football's most controversial rule of the 1948 season—the free substitution system—will be liberalized rather than curtailed if recommendations of the American Football Coaches' Association are accepted.

The Coaches' Advisory Rules Committee, after a long session here yesterday, voted to recommend to the National Collegiate Athletic Association, governing body, that legislation be passed to permit free substitutions between plays when possession of the ball changes from one team to another, as well as when time is out.

At present, a coach may send in an entire new team only when time has been called.

The coaches also recommended to the NCAA Rules Committee that the rule prohibiting a reverse center, that is, turned around from the orthodox manner, be abolished. Until and including the 1941 season, centers were permitted to center the ball in reverse, facing their own backfield men. There is no ruling either against other linemen facing the opposite way.

The reverse center was ruled out in January, 1942, and the coaches now want to see it reinstated.

The committee also recommended adoption of a rule to make any back who is stationed close enough to the center to receive a hand-to-hand exchange of the ball be declared ineligible to receive a forward pass. This would affect the quarterback in the T formation, thus eliminating one receiver. It would eliminate two receivers in the double quarterback formation.

Another recommendation, if adopted, by the National Rules Committee, would make a forward pass grounded over the goal line of the offensive team be declared a down instead of a safety. The ruling would tend to encourage more goal line passing by the team in possession of the ball.

The coaches also recommended that on a kick from scrimmage the receiving team be allowed the option of running the ball out of the end zone, the same as on a free kick or kickoff. At present any punt that goes over the goal line is ruled an automatic touchback and the ball is placed in action on the 20-yard line.

The State of the Union

There have been few presidential messages of greater strength and clarity than the one which Harry Truman delivered to the Eighty-first Congress yesterday.

While many will doubtless take immediate and vigorous issue with some of the proposals which the message carried, all but the most biased must recognize that it was a masterpiece of forthrightness, setting forth adequately yet concisely the conditions in which our Government presently finds itself and the program to meet them which the recently re-elected Chief Executive proposes.

The analysis which Mr. Truman has made of the state of the Union and its present and probable needs is neither original nor startling. The consensus of enlightened opinion has held virtually the identical conviction for a period of many months. But the President has stated it succinctly and statesmanly. And a lot of citizens will take note of his words who have been unimpressed with the testimony of economists and other authorities who have formulated their opinions firsthand.

There will, inevitably, be those who will react with indignation at the recommendations which Mr. Truman made. But, save for one or two minor exceptions, there is little in his program which should have come as any surprise. Indeed, the vast majority of it was brought over, almost verbatim, from his message to the Eightieth Congress two years ago.

This time, of course, the President has a good chance of getting the bulk of the legislation for which he asks.

That is good.

Whether one, as an individual, favors it or not, the fact remains that the majority of the people voted last November for a man who had consistently espoused stronger inflationary controls; repeal of the Taft-Hartley Act; expansion of social benefits including Federal aid to education; an expedited housing program; development of rivers and other natural resources, and restoration of fully effective reciprocal trade agreements.

That man yesterday went before Congress with a call to action, enumerating one by one, the legislative reforms for which he considers his re-election a mandate.

On Nov. 2, Harry Truman gained considerable stature as a political prophet.

Yesterday, he added materially to his measure as a statesman.

Farm Price Supports

Rep. Stephen Pace, of Georgia, has endeared himself to the farmers of the South and nation by introducing a bill to continue present 90-percent parity supports for the basic crops of cotton, wheat, corn, tobacco, peanuts and rice.

Whether he also endeared himself to the consumer, who will foot the bill in continued high food prices, and the taxpayer, who will pay for farm surpluses, remains to be seen.

Rep. Pace's measure would repeal the Hope-Aiken measure passed by the Eightieth Congress. This act reduces farm price supports to a sliding scale ranging between 60 and 90 percent of parity, depending upon crop surpluses. It becomes effective next Jan. 1.

Ninety-percent price supports were adopted during the war when there was distressing need for greater farm production. Labor was scarce. A great many farm youths had entered the Service and this country was faced with the terrific task of feeding our armed forces overseas, sending supplies to our allies and making sure that enough was left for the needs of the homeland.

It was agreed at the time that these emergency price supports would continue until two years after hostilities ceased, thus giving farmers ample time to readjust themselves to a peacetime economy.

It is important that farmers remember these facts.

Under the price support program the farmer has fared better than ever before in history. And, indeed, it was about time he gained some economic recognition that Government too long had reserved for Eastern manufacturers who for many, many years have been recipients of bounties in the form of high tariff rates. Until recently the farmer was forced to buy his goods on a protected market and sell on a world market. What he bought came dear; what he sold went cheap. That, of course, was utterly unjust. Parity payments are designed to correct that obvious inequity.

The farmer must realize, however, that high crop subsidies are not going to be paid for uncontrolled production. Even the U. S. Government can hardly afford that. For parity payments are non-recourse loans. The Government may lose, but the farmer never can. Warning of acreage controls already has come from Rep. Cooley, of North Carolina, a staunch supporter of 90-percent subsidies. And a bill has been introduced to prohibit basing 1950 cotton quotas on uncontrolled 1949 acreage. The same doubtless will be applied to other price-supported crops.

THOMAS L. STOKES

But Bottlenecks Are Still There

WASHINGTON—The House Democratic leadership accomplished quite a reform, indeed, in eliminating the veto power of the hitherto often arbitrary Rules Committee which in the past had blocked Roosevelt and Truman measures. However, there are other blockades in congressional mechanism and procedure that still exist, untouched. The public should know this and should likewise know the limitations of the single rules reform already effected so there will be no false optimism that will obscure the difficulties still ahead for President Truman's program.

In itself, removal of the House Rules Committee veto should be very helpful as regards the social welfare phase of the program. This includes, first and foremost, the long-range housing bill with its public housing provisions that was sidetracked by the Rules Committee in the last Congress. It includes also Federal aid to health and education, expansion of social security and increase of old-age insurance payments and increase in the statutory minimum wage, now 40 cents an hour.

But, except for the housing bill, the Rules Committee was not the culprit on this program in the last Congress. Legislative committees bottled up these other measures. The Rules Committee might have stopped them, but they never got that far. So the trail of who was to blame leads back to legislative committees.

The reason those measures never got out of legislative committees was that those committees were effectively controlled by a coalition of Republicans and conservative Southern Democrats working in cahoots with the Republican leadership. The way to remove this blockade is to liberalize the personnel of those committees.

Well aware of that, the Democratic leadership took initial action recently at the instigation of President Truman. The key to this situation is the Democratic committee on committees which makes assignments to other committees and, for Democrats, this is made up of Democratic members of the House Ways and Means Committee. In filling six Democratic vacancies on this Committee, on which Democrats will have 15 members in the new Congress, the caucus approved six members who are friendly to the administration to outweigh Southerners on the Committee already. This Committee on Committees now is filling slates for other committees, a process that will require 10 days or two weeks. This will be watched closely by the progressive element in the party.

President Truman's civil rights program is another important administration objective. On several occasions the House has passed antipoll tax and antilynching bills, though the Fair Employment Practices Commission, FEPC bill, never has gotten out of committee. Civil rights is not so much of a problem in the House.

The blockade is in the Senate, in the filibuster by which Southerners have stopped those measures too often. Limitation of debate to check filibustering is a much-needed reform. The Republican leadership advocates it. A number of Democrats outside the South favor it. But the administration has not moved on this issue yet. Unless it does, the civil rights program is doomed, and the public might as well know that.

An incipient danger in this Congress, though not so great as in other recent Congresses, is the old familiar coalition between Republicans and conservative Southern Democrats. Involved here for the Democrats are party responsibility and party discipline, which in the House rests largely with Speaker Rayburn and his lieutenants. The Speaker maintained unusually good discipline for Democrats in the House Rules Committee battle the opening day, with only 31 defections, all Southern Democrats. But other upcoming matters will be more controversial.

In the rules battle, Mr. Rayburn used the party caucus to bind as many Democrats as possible. Unfortunately, he has announced that this device, formerly used quite often, will not be used on legislation in this Congress.

Reform to effect real party responsibility is needed. A solution proposed by the Joint Committee on Congressional Reorganization, but not embodied ultimately in the 1946 Reorganization Act, is creation of policy committees in each party, representative of all groups. These would formulate policy, the majority party in co-operation with the President, and be responsible for carrying it out.

Until the blockades, bottlenecks and dilatory procedures that still exist are removed, Congress cannot be a completely responsive body, and the public might as well know this in advance to temper disappointments that will come through loss of measures in the legislative maze.

'BUGS' BAER

Universal declaration of human rights sounds as wonderful as bells on a frosty morning. But we are afraid Mrs. Roosevelt is bobbing-for-apples in the crocodile pool.

All the United Nations can do is to break a promise with a bigger promise. And whether you like it or not the fact remains that destruction is a form of improvement.

But even paper dolls get out of line in a breeze. And the world diplomats who met at Paris are certainly not copper-riveted.

RALPH McGILL

Did You Know This About Georgia?

Ralph McGill is on vacation. During his absence, this space will be used for a series of interesting articles on Georgia, especially prepared by Gus Bernd, Historical Research Assistant in the Office of the Secretary of State.

The Founding Fathers of America did not contemplate political parties when they framed the Constitution and organized the national government. But Thomas Jefferson pledged "eternal hostility against any form of tyranny over the mind of man"; and thus set in motion controversial party politics in the United States. Factions and parties ultimately developed in every state, changing drastically the non-partisan conception of government of George Washington's time. A summary of the local and national parties and groups on the Georgia scene since Revolutionary days forms a spectacular story.

From her entrance into the Union down to the present, Georgia has had several outstanding political cleavages. Disagreements exist among analysts as to the best labels for the various elements involved; but the records indicate their intensity and significance. The first great split involving Georgia was the Anti-Federalists versus Federalists fight which started over the adoption of the Constitution itself and soon afterward gave rise to the Jeffersonian versus Hamiltonian theories of government. The Federalist Party was never very strong in Georgia.

Early Democrats After the Federalist Party died, Democratic-Republicans, forerunners of today's Democrats, occupied the driver's seat. Local and personal frictions continued during this so-called "Era of Good Feeling". In Georgia the Troup and Clark parties stirred the State. Then came Jacksonian Democracy based about the leadership of Old Hickory. A party called the Whigs took up the challenge and branded the Jacksonian program as "radical". It became a struggle principally between aristocratic and well-to-do elements and the common people. The Whig Party died when the slavery issue divided the sections; and the principal national cleavage became Democratic versus Republicans versus Free Soilers.

In Georgia it became principally a fight between Unionists and States' Rightists or Secessionists, though there were intermediate groups. The Unionists split; and the Secessionists won and took the State into the Southern Confederacy. Prominent on the Unionist side were Alexander Stephens and Benjamin H. Hill. Two outstanding Secessionists were Howell Cobb and Robert Toombs. Except for a split, Georgia might have gone Unionist in 1860. Hill supported the Bell ticket. Stephens aided the cause of Stephen A. Douglas. And so the Breckenridge group carried Georgia.

After the War Between the States, the bitterest struggle of them all occurred—that between the Radical Reconstructionists, made up of Carpetbaggers, Scalawags, etc., backed by the Federal power on one side and the patriotic native Georgians on the other. There were patriotic citizens who compromised with the Reconstructionists in good faith; but they were few. Much suffering and corruption ensued before the State was finally redeemed.

'New Departure' At the end of Reconstruction the "New Departure" Democrats challenged the old order and ushered in a new. Ben Hill, John B. Gordon, Alfred H. Colquitt, and Henry Grady were some leaders of this movement. It was a "Bourbon" democracy and was opposed by the unreconstructed elements who clung to the theories of the ante-bellum South and by many ruralists and laborers who had little enthusiasm for an absentee-owned industrialism. Nevertheless, the "New Departure" was highly successful politically in its day.

A revolt against Bourbonism came about in the early '90s under the leadership of Thomas E. Watson. At its peak, Populism plus other political insurgency almost captured Georgia. It did win many benefits for the farmers and workers. But it was a protest movement born of economic hardship; and when prosperity returned, the tide of Populism receded rapidly; and Bourbon Democracy regained control.

Until the advent of the national New Deal under President Franklin D. Roosevelt, this Bourbon democracy was not again successfully challenged. With the national New Deal various offsprings appeared on the Georgia scene. The State's political fights then raged between the pro and anti groups regarding these various New Deal offsprings. The terms "liberal", "conservative", "radical", "reactionary", and "moderate" came to be used frequently as labels. These terms in their various applications often promoted confusion. It often requires the mention of personalities to link a person. To date the Republican Party has lagged in Georgia politics. The ancient struggle between proponents and opponents of the status-quo has been the leading central issue.

---From Them That Hath

The war is over, but the duration lingers on.

Only now are the wealthy beginning to realize what those who renominated him meant when they described Harry Truman as a man of limitless imagination.

In fact, a great many Republicans are now ready to admit that President Truman is evidencing many of the traits and qualities of a great historical character . . . Jesse James.

However, it strikes me as peculiar that, as a self-professed authority on turnips, the President seems ignorant of the most widely recognized fact about them, namely, that you can't get blood out of one.

Incidentally, Truman's request for four billion dollars in additional revenue comes as a distinct surprise to the average citizen, who had assumed that the budget would be more than balanced by Jack Benny's reluctant contribution.

Let's Not Quarrel Over Trivialities

Hereby I break the only New Year resolution I made. That was not to write here anything about good resolutions. It seemed to me to be a futile sort of subject. Now, however, just a few days after the making of that promise I thought of a resolution which, if adopted by all us, would go so far to making life happier for all of us I must write about it and thus violate my own pledge to myself.

My suggested resolution is that we determine for 1949 not to permit ourselves to engage in a quarrel with anyone unless the cause, the reason for, that quarrel is worth fighting over.

Let us act, in all our personal contacts, as adults instead of children. Let us have respect for our own dignity, not indulge in emotional outbreaks unless, after careful thought, we can honestly feel the origin of the quarrel is warrant for adult dispute or debate. If it is not fully justified on such a basis, let's relegate it all to the limbo of infantilism and forget it. Laugh at it and then ignore it.

I have so often seen otherwise intelligent people act like babies over some imagined slight, or affront, and lose all sense of proportion in the throes of bad temper. I've been guilty of such offense myself many times.

And the result of such adult tantrums has amounted to so much unhappiness the total of unnecessary misery is appalling.

Was It Worth It? I wonder how many families which could have been happy together have wrecked in the divorce courts as the result of quarrels which began over so trivial a dispute any reasonably sane individual would blush to admit quarreling over such a little thing. If only every estranged husband or wife would think calmly of the basis of their quarrel and look upon it with sane reason, I am convinced our deplorable divorce rate would drop drastically.

Even more, the homicide rate would shrink to but a fraction of the present rates if every murder, committed in the heat of anger over some tiny cause which even a child of 10 years would scorn to fight about, were prevented. If only a few thousand individuals would accept my proffered resolution and live up to it, the homicide rate itself would drop.

Think before you quarrel. And refuse to quarrel unless you, as a reasoning adult, accept the cause as adequate. Laugh away the silly tantrums and save your anger for something worthy of an adult's resentment.

On Wider Scale Applying this thought on a wide scale, I wonder how many wars would never have been fought if the disputing nations had paused long enough to ask if the cause they champion is worth all the death and sorrow and suffering and privation and hunger and disease that war inevitably brings to victor and vanquished alike?

After all, the assassinations at Sarajevo seem, in retrospect, pitifully small cause for the World Wars which they precipitated.

Few of us, however, can bring any influence to bear upon the affairs of nations. Not directly, that is.

But we can affect our own lives and make them happier, more content. And, if enough of us refrain from groundless, senseless squabbling with our own families, friends and acquaintances, the effect of such widespread personal peace will have its sure influence of the affairs of nations, too.

The next time you feel anger arising, ask yourself if it is anger worthy of your adult intelligence. Before you quarrel, question the cause of your resentment. Think before you fight.

And don't make yourself absurd by losing your temper for a cause only a baby would shed tears over. That, you know, is infantilism. Surely you are not afflicted with such a mental disease.

ALTAR STAIRS — By John Marvin Rast

And in the day time he was teaching in the temple, and at night he went out, and abode in the mount that is called the Mount of Olives—Luke 21:37.

Our Lord gave Himself fully to the task of preaching, teaching, healing and counselling. When night came He needed the quiet of a restful home.

This he found in the Mount of Olives across from the eastern gate of Jerusalem. It was from that comforting retreat that He eventually ascended to heaven.

If we be inclined to feel that times of retirement are a loss of time and too costly, we need to consider how the Master planned for them and used them in His ministry. The King's business requires haste, a sense of urgency, but it also requires bodies and spirits refreshed and returned.

Lead us, Good Shepherd, in green pastures, besides the still waters. There revive our hope, renew our faith, rekindle our love. For Thy name's sake.

Chattanooga Law

Editor Constitution: I noted recently in the Atlanta papers the Chattanooga Automobile Club's protest with reference to a "speed trap" in South Georgia. I know nothing about that, but I do know that I have been traveling through that territory now for a little over five years, and have often commented to myself on the laxity of the enforcement of speed laws, and laws against reckless driving.

But I would like to call your attention to this matter:

Last Spring, because of the serious illness of my family I had wired my son to come down immediately, having his wire that he would fly to Chattanooga, but on account of difficulty on the road I was just a few minutes late at the airport in my effort to meet him there. I immediately returned to town, and feeling that perhaps he would go to the Reid House I drove into that territory, and the only open parking space I could find was beside the NC depot, where my car was the third in line, and took the last available space. When I returned to the car I found it gone, and on inquiry was advised by a taxi driver that it "was our space" and when a car is parked there "we make" them "haul it in". Sure enough, the police had towed the car in because it was illegally parked.

I returned to the space, and found that there was no curb marking, and there was no marking sign at the entrance to this parking zone, but that there was at the "far" end a sign in letters so small that it could not be easily read at night, advising that this was a restricted zone.

A few days later, when again in Chattanooga, I discussed this with a friend, who told me there was nothing I could do about it, since this was a City Law, one of the protagonists of which was a councilman (or commissioner) who owned the garage which did the towing, and who was also interested in the taxi business.

This cost me $4 and was just as sincerely a steal as if someone had taken a gun and removed that much money from my pocket, and you may rest assured that I do not feel very kindly toward the City of Chattanooga.

22 Months Behind

Editor Constitution: Now, M. E., if you found funds to pay the school teacher and bus driver their increase for November and December, why didn't you provide for their increase 22 months before you did instead of waiting until you were ready to step out?

Why, anybody can see through that. So, just throw it at Herman—he's able to stand without crutches now. READER.

Good Job by St. John

Editor Constitution: The initial presentation of a series of articles on the proposed Minimum Education Foundation Program, by M. L. St. John reveals the alleged complexities of this desirable movement with unusual clarity and simplicity.

In his characteristic manner, Mr. St. John states the case in language that even the gullible can assimilate. Georgians will do themselves and the State a great service if they will only take the time to follow his discussions. The Constitution renders another of its conspicuous services to our citizens by publishing this series.

Let us all support the enactment of this necessary program. It will require more money, which calls for higher taxes. The results will justify the sacrifice. It is nothing more nor less than a can't-lose investment in our children and their children, whom we shall expect to carry on when we are gone and have been forgotten. A bit less beefsteak and a few more turnip greens and corn pone would do the trick. We seem to relish such lowly victuals when we want other things badly enough. We owe it to those who must take our places to want this program badly. It is, in deed and in fact, Georgia's greatest want. It will provide the solution to all our problems.

Decatur. LEON S. HOLLINGSWORTH.

Forget Politics

Editor Constitution: I, for one, have no kicks against our Governor. Some writers in your Pulse of the Public just can't see but one side, when anyone knows there are two sides to every story. These diehards, as I call them, are against our Governor no matter what he does, just because they happened to be on the other side of the fence in the election in September. I, for one, knew he would be our next Governor long before election. But, Mr. Editor, we all must pull together in order to make progress.

Regardless of what side of the fence we stand on we all must help for better schools, for better old-age benefits and more aid to hospitals, more aid to the blind, and aid to all who cannot help themselves. I know Gov. Talmadge has all these needs in mind and I know he understands all the poor people and their needs, and if all the people of Georgia will fight for these things and forget who they voted for until 1950 we can help all these people who are in need. They are the ones that count.

Joe Allen

Editor Constitution: Thank you for your editorial regarding Councilman Joe Allen.

It is, of course, regrettable that we have men in the City Government who misbehave, but if they do, it is good to have you start a movement to get them to resign or have them impeached.

Atlanta. F. GRAHAM WILLIAMS.

Why?

Editor Constitution: After more than a year of reading these sidewalk interviews conducted by both local dailies, it behooves me to ask why. What is the point in asking for an "opinion" of the passing public when it is evident that not one in 20 have an opinion, that is, in its true sense.

In a world compelled by geographic differences, steeped in the ignorance of tradition and prejudices, where objective thinking is too laborious and unpopular with what passes for intellectual concept asking people for an opinion on a general subject is flattering. Folk, like a cat whose back is being rubbed, enjoy the effect. It lends inspiration to a generally inflated ego and further lulls a somnolent brain that hibernated soon after being introduced to the three Rs.

Thinking necessitates treating the subject in the abstract and very few folk will do this, they are intellectually lazy or biased with personal attachment. We presume an intellectual honesty and mistake prejudices for opinions, we accept traditional and geographical customs as truths. We pose in the fashion of a sophisticated civilization, opinionated, morally secure and spiritually pure—stupid, vain, selfish and true only to personal ambitions, the very antithesis of the archetype we proclaim reverence. But ask us a question, the idea flatters us to leap for an answer even though we have never concluded the hypothesis of a single objective or subjective thought in all our young or old life, we are too busy being satisfied with ourselves to wonder why.

Mr. President, Mr. Speaker, Members of the Congress:

I am happy to report to this Eighty-first Congress that the State of the Union is good. Our nation is better able than ever before to meet the needs of the American people, and to give them their fair chance in the pursuit of happiness. It is foremost among the nations of the world in the search for peace.

During the last 16 years, the American people have been creating a society which offers new opportunities for every man to enjoy his share of the satisfactions of life.

In this society, we are conservative about the values and principles which we cherish; but we are forward-looking in protecting those values and principles and in extending their benefits. We have rejected the discredited theory that the fortunes of the nation should be in the hands of a privileged few. We have abandoned the "trickle-down" concept of national prosperity. Instead, we believe that our economic system should rest on a democratic foundation and that wealth should be created for the benefit of all.

The recent election shows that the American people are in favor of this kind of society and want to go on improving it.

The American people have decided that poverty is just as wasteful and just as unnecessary as preventable disease. We have pledged our common resources to help one another in the hazards and struggles of individual life. We believe that no unfair prejudice or artificial distinction should bar any American from an education, or from good health, or from a job that he is capable of performing.

The attainment of this kind of society demands the best efforts of every citizen in every walk of life, and it imposes increasing responsibilities on the Government.

The Government must work with industry, labor and the farmers in keeping our economy running at full speed. The Government must see that every American has a chance to obtain his fair share of our increasing abundance. These responsibilities go hand in hand.

We cannot maintain prosperity unless we have a fair distribution of opportunity and a widespread consumption of the products of our factories and farms.

Our Government has undertaken to meet these responsibilities.

We have made tremendous public investments in highways, hydroelectric power projects, soil conservation and reclamation. We have established a system of social security. We have enacted laws protecting the rights and the welfare of our working people and the income of our farmers. These Federal policies have paid for themselves many times over. They have strengthened the material foundations of our democratic ideals. Without them our present prosperity would be impossible.

St. Louis Post-Dispatch
Congressional Gallery Visitor

Reinforced by these policies, our private enterprise system has reached new heights of production. Since the boom year of 1929, while our population has increased by only 20 percent, our agricultural production has increased by 45 percent, and our industrial production has increased by 75 percent. We are turning out far more goods and more wealth per worker than we have ever done before.

This progress has confounded the gloomy prophets—at home and abroad—who predicted the downfall of American capitalism. The American people, going their own way, confident in their own powers, have achieved the greatest prosperity the world has ever seen.

But, great as our progress has been, we still have a long way to go.

As we look around the country, many of our shortcomings stand out in bold relief.

We are suffering from excessively high prices.

Our minimum wages are far too low.

Our farmers still face an uncertain future. And too many of them lack the benefits of our modern civilization.

Some of our natural resources are still being wasted.

We are acutely short of electric power, although the means of developing such power are abundant.

Five million families are still living in slums and firetraps. Three million families share their homes with others.

Our health is far behind the progress of medical science. Proper medical care is so expensive that it is out of reach of the great majority of our citizens.

Our schools, in many localities, are utterly inadequate.

Our democratic ideals are often thwarted by prejudice and intolerance.

Each of these shortcomings is also an opportunity—an opportunity for the Congress and the President to work for the good of the people.

Our first great opportunity is to protect our economy against the evils of "boom and bust."

This objective cannot be attained by Government alone. Indeed, the greater part of the task must be performed by individual efforts under our system of free enterprise. We can keep our present prosperity, and increase it, only if free enterprise and free Government work together to that end.

We cannot afford to float along carelessly on a postwar boom until it collapses. And it is not enough merely to prepare to weather a recession if it comes. Instead, Government and business must work together constantly to achieve more and more jobs and more and more production—which mean more and more prosperity for all the people.

The business cycle is manmade, and men of good will, working together, can smooth it out.

So far as business is concerned, it should plan for steady, vigorous expansion—seeking always to increase its output, lower its prices, and avoid the vices of monopoly and restriction. So long as business does this, it will be contributing to continued prosperity, and it will have the help and encouragement of the Government.

The employment act of 1946 pledges the Government to use all its resources to promote maximum employment, production and purchasing power. This means that the Government is firmly committed to protect buisness and the people against the dangers of recession and against the evils of inflation. This means that the Government must adapt its plans and policies to meet the changing circumstances.

At the present time, our prosperity is threatened by inflationary pressures at a number of critical points in the economy. The Government must be in a position to take effective action at these danger spots. To that end, I recommend that the Congress enact legislation for the following purposes:

First, to continue the power to control consumer credit and enlarge the power to control bank credit.

Second, to grant authority to regulate speculation on the commodity exchanges.

Third, to continue export control authority and to provide adequate machinery for its enforcement.

Fourth, to continue the priorities and allocation authority in the field of transportation.

Fifth, to authorize priorities and allocations for key materials in short supply.

Sixth, to extend and strengthen rent control.

Seventh, to provide standby authority to impose price ceilings for scarce commodities which basically affect essential industrial production or the cost of living, and to limit unjustified wage adjustments which would force a break in an established price ceiling.

Eighth, to authorize an immediate study of the adequacy of production facilities for materials in critically short supply, such as steel, and, if found necessary, to authorize Government loans for the expansion of production facilities to relieve such shortages, and furthermore to authorize the construction of such facilities directly if action by private industry fails to meet our needs.

The economic report, which I shall submit to the Congress shortly, will discuss in detail the economic background for these recommendations.

One of the most important factors in maintaining prosperity is the Government's fiscal policy. At this time, it is essential not only that the Federal budget be balanced, but also that there be a substantial surplus to reduce inflationary pressures, and permit a sizable reduction in the national debt, which now stands at $252,000,000,000. I recommend, therefore, that the Congress enact new tax legislation to bring in an additional $4,000,000,000 of Government revenue. This should come principally from additional corporate taxes. A portion should come from revised estate and gift taxes. Consideration should be given to raising personal income tax rates in the middle and upper brackets.

If we want to keep our economy running in high gear, we must be sure that every group has the incentive to make its full contribution to the national welfare. At present, the working men and women of the nation are unfairly discriminated against by a statute that abridges their rights, curtails their constructive efforts, and hampers our system of free collective bargaining. That statute is the Labor-Management Relations Act of 1947, sometimes called the Taft-Hartley Act.

That act should be repealed.

The Wagner Act should be reenacted. However, certain improvements, which I recommended to the Congress two years ago, are needed. Jurisdictional strikes and unjustifiable secondary boycotts should be prohibited. The use of economic force to decide issues arising out of the interpretation of existing contracts should be prevented. Without endangering our democratic freedoms, means should be provided for settling or preventing strikes in vital industries which affect the public interest.

The Department of Labor should be rebuilt and strengthened and those units properly belonging within that department should be placed in it.

The health of our economy and its maintenance at high levels further require that the minimum wage fixed by law should be raised to at least 75 cents an hour.

The President Outlines His Program

If our free enterprise economy is to be strong and healthy, we must reinvigorate the forces of competition. We must assure small business the freedom and opportunity to grow and prosper. To this purpose, we should strengthen our antitrust laws by closing those loopholes that permit monopolistic mergers and consolidations.

Our national farm program should be improved—not only in the interest of the farmers, but for the lasting prosperity of the whole nation. Our goals should be abundant farm production and parity of income for agriculture. Standards of living on the farm should be just as good as anywhere else.

Farm price supports are an essential part of our program to achieve these ends. Price supports should be used to prevent farm price declines which are out of line with general price levels, to facilitate adjustments in production to consumer demands, and to promote good land use. Our price support legislation must be adapted to these objectives. The authority of the Commodity Credit Corporation to provide adequate storage space for crops should be restored.

Our program for farm prosperity should also seek to expand the domestic market for agricultural products, particularly among low income groups, and to increase and stabilize foreign markets.

We should give special attention to extending modern conveniences and services to our farms. Rural electrification should be pushed forward. And in considering legislation relating to housing, education, health, and social security, special attention should be given to rural problems.

Our growing population and the expansion of our economy depend upon the wise management of our land, water, forest and mineral wealth. In our present dynamic economy, the task of conservation is not to lock up our resources but to develop and improve them. Failure, today, to make the investments which are necessary to support our progress in the future would be false economy.

We must push forward with the development of our rivers for power, irrigation, navigation and flood control. We should apply the lessons of our Tennessee Valley experience to our other great river basins.

I again recommend that action be taken by the Congress to approve the St. Lawrence seaway and power project.

We must adopt a program for the planned use of the petroleum reserves under the sea, which are —and must remain—vested in the Federal Government. We must extend our programs of soil conservation. We must place our forests on a sustained yield basis, and encourage the development of new sources of vital minerals.

In all this we must make sure that the benefits of these public undertakings are directly available to the people. Public power should be carried to consuming areas by public transmission lines where necessary to provide electricity at the lowest possible rates. Irrigation waters should serve family farms and not land speculators.

The Government has still other opportunities—to help raise the standard of living of our citizens. These opportunities lie in the fields of social security, health, education. housing and civil rights.

The present coverage of the social security laws is altogether inadequate, and benefit payments are too low. One-third of our workers are not covered. Those who receive old-age and survivors insurance benefits receive an average payment of only $25 a month. Many others who cannot work because they are physically disabled are left to the mercy of charity. We should expand our social security program, both as to size of benefits and extent of coverage, against the economic hazards due to unemployment, old age, sickness, and disability.

We must spare no effort to raise the general level of health in this country. In a nation as rich as ours, it is a shocking fact that tens of millions lack adequate medical care. We are short of doctors, hospitals, and nurses. We must remedy these shortages. Moreover, we need —and we must have without further delays—a system of prepaid medical insurance which will enable every American to afford good medical care.

It is equally shocking that millions of our children are not receiving a good education. Millions of them are in overcrowded, obsolete buildings. We are short of teachers, because teachers' salaries are too low to attract new teachers, or to hold the ones we have. All these school problems will become much more acute as a result of the tremendous increase in the enrollment in our elementary schools in the next few years. I cannot repeat too strongly my desire for prompt Federal financial aid to States to help them operate and maintain their school systems.

The Governmental agency which now administers the programs of health, education and social security should be given full departmental status.

The housing shortage continues to be acute. As an immediate step, the Congress should enact the provisions for low-rent public housing, slum clearance, farm housing and housing research which I have repeatedly recommended. The number of low-rent public housing units provided for in the legislation should be increased to 1,000,000 units in the next seven years. Even this number of units will not begin to meet our need for new housing.

Most of the houses we need will have to be built by private enterprise, without public subsidy. By producing too few rental units and too large a proportion of high-priced houses, the building industry is rapidly pricing itself out of the market. Building costs must be lowered.

The Government is now engaged in a campaign to induce all segments of the building industry to concentrate on the production of lower priced housing. Additional legislation to encourage such housing will be submitted.

The authority which I have requested, to allocate materials in short supply and to impose price ceilings on such materials, could be used, if found necessary, to channel more materials into homes large enough for family life at prices which wage earners can afford.

The driving force behind our progress is our faith in our democratic institutions. That faith is embodied in the promise of equal rights and equal opportunities which the founders of our republic proclaimed to their countrymen and to the whole world.

The fulfillment of this promise is among the highest purposes of Government. The civil rights proposals I made to the Eightieth Congress I now repeat to the Eighty-First Congress. They should be enacted in order that the Federal Government may assume the leadership and discharge the obligations clearly placed upon it by the constitution.

I stand squarely behind these proposals.

Our domestic programs are the foundation of our foreign policy. The world today looks to us for leadership because we have so largely realized, within our borders, those benefits of democracy for which most of the people of the world are yearning.

We are following a foreign policy which is the outward expression of the democratic faith we profess. We are doing what we can to encourage free states and free peoples throughout the world, to aid the suffering and afflicted in foreign lands, and to strengthen democratic nations against aggression.

The heart of our foreign policy is peace. We are supporting a world economic policy to create prosperity for mankind. Our guiding star is the principle of international co-operation. To this concept we have made a national commitment as profound as anything in history.

To it we have pledged our resources and our honor.

Until a system of world security is established upon which we can safely rely, we cannot escape the burden of creating and maintaining armed forces sufficient to deter aggression. We have made great progress in the last year in the effective organization of our armed forces, but further improvement in our national security legislation are necessary. Universal training is essential to the security of the United States.

During the course of this session I shall have occasion to ask the Congress to consider several measures in the field of foreign policy. At this time, I recommend that we restore the Reciprocal Trade Agreement Act to full effectiveness, and extend it for three years. We should also open our doors to displaced persons without unfair discrimination.

It should be clear by now to all nations that we are not seeking to freeze the status quo. We have no intention of preserving the injustices of the past. We welcome the constructive efforts being made by many nations to achieve a better life for their citizens. In the European Recovery Program, in our good neighbor policy and in the United Nations, we have begun to batter down those national walls which block the economic growth and the social advancement of the peoples of the world.

We believe that if we hold resolutely to this course, the principle of international co-operation will eventually command the approval even of those nations which are now seeking to weaken or subvert it.

We stand at the opening of an era which can mean either great achievement or terrible catastrophe for ourselves and all mankind.

The strength of our nation must continue to be used in the interest of all our people rather than a privileged few. It must continue to be used unselfishly in the struggle for world peace and the betterment of mankind the world over.

This is the task before us.

It is not an easy one. It has many complications, and there will be strong opposition from selfish interests.

I hope for co-operation from farmers, from labor, and from business. Every segment of our population and every individual have a right to expect from his Government a fair deal.

They have a right to expect that the Congress and the President will work in the closest co-operation with one objective —the welfare of the people of this nation as a whole.

In the months ahead I know that I shall be able to co-operate with this Congress.

I am confident that the divine power which has guided us to this time of fateful responsibility and glorious opportunity will not desert us now.

With that help from almighty God which we have humbly acknowledged at every turning point in our national life, we shall be able to perform the great tasks which he now sets before us.

FITZGERALD LEADER

Roy Harris Showing the Way

Roy Harris, the most abused public character in Georgia during the recent campaign, is beginning to be recognized as one of the most far-seeing statesmen of the State. Many of the papers who devoted much space to abusing Mr. Harris are now singing his praise for the far-reaching economies advanced by him for the employment of our State convicts in providing them machinery with which to manufacture the many articles that could be produced by the prisoners at Tattnall prison.

We have always held Mr. Harris in high esteem, having known him as a young man, and watched him grow from a young country lawyer to Speaker of the House, with not an adverse criticism during his many years in the Legislature.

The incoming Legislature would serve the best interest of Georgia by carrying out some of the suggestions made by Mr. Harris in his Augusta Courier.

Through the savings in money provided through this self-support of the State's institutions, enough money could be saved to carry out the Minimum Fundation Program for Education without levying any additional taxes. Roy is on the right track, follow him!

$1,000,000 Chop Needed To Balance City Budget

City Council's Fiancee Committee must apply the ax to more than $1,000,000 worth of budgetary requests if it accomplishes its announced intention of balancing the 1949 finance sheet.

After a three-hour hearing yesterday, the committee adjourned until 3 p. m. today and Councilman Ralph Huie, Committee Chairman, said the group planned to stay in session tonight if necessary to complete work on the 1949 sheet.

A parade of representatives from the public and department heads piled up demands for funds amounting to more than $1,000,000 over the $17,493,682 available for appropriation, itself the largest figure in history.

City Compt. B. Graham West estimated that fixed charges had absorbed all but $146,000 of the available funds even if a projected across-the-board increase to meet the rising costs of living was limited only to those employees in the low-pay brackets.

Included among the requests filed yesterday were $160,000 as the city's share of the cost of constructing a $600,000 health center; $34,765 for planning and surveys by the Greater Atlanta Traffic Improvement Association; $75,000 for construction of a swimming pool at Candler Park; $10,000 for animals for the Grant Park Zoo; $14,000 for improvements for Perkerson Park; $25,000 for the first year of operation for Ald. Donaldson's five-year plan to improve the downtown area; numerous requests for salary raises, reclassifications and increased automobile allowances.

As the committee prepared to meet, West submitted a report showing the bonded indebtedness of the city stood at $24,535,000 Dec. 31, that 96 employees were added to city payrolls in 1938 at a cost of $130,000, and the city provided the school system with $4,800,000 last year.

COMMISSION

tive and legislative functions, places responsibility for administration in a single nonpolitical executive, centralizes authority and places responsibility. The committee system violates all three of the above principles."

The statement further said that under the committees the county could have six administrative heads instead of one.

Commissioner Hailey declared the statement a misrepresentation of facts. He demanded to know how many members of the League had voted on the statement.

Mrs. Ritter replied that a full board of 20 members had voted on it.

"I bitterly resent," said Chairman Doyal, "any organization accusing me of what's not true. I don't intend to usurp any of Fuller's authority. I resent insinuations by the scuttlebutt. The committees are a fine way to assist the County Manager. During 1948, the Board adopted 90 percent of the Manager's recommendations. I don't think the voters want five 'yea men' on this Board."

Doyal, Hailey and Towns then voted to restore the chairmanships, Aldredge and Camp voting against it.

Present at the meeting were Mayor Hartsfield, and Councilmen Roy Bell and James Jackson. Hartsfield and Doyal pledged cooperation between city and county governments.

The Commission departed from the rotation system of electing chairmen by re-electing Doyal Chairman. Camp nominated Aldredge for the post, but when he received only one vote, Camp moved to make Doyal's election unanimous.

Aldredge then was re-elected Vice Chairman and ex-officio member of the Planning Commission. Towns and Doyal were elected members of the Pension Board and Hailey ex-officio member of the Health Board.

Doyal announced he would name committee chairmen later.

At the suggestion of Doyal, rival motions of Camp to create the post of Assistant Fire Chief under Civil Service and of Hailey to abolish the recently created post of Fire Chief were deferred until the February meeting.

Bureau Gain

COMMERCE — Although 12 counties in the Seventh and Ninth Districts lost membership in the Farm Bureau in 1948 compared to the total reported at the end of 1947, according to W. M. Storey, new Vice President of the Georgia Farm Bureau Federation, Jackson, Hall and Fannin Counties showed an increase of 278 families.

A Three Days' Cough Is Your Danger Signal

Chronic bronchitis may develop if your cough, chest cold, or acute bronchitis is not treated and you cannot afford to take a chance with any medicine less potent than Creomulsion which goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes.

LET'S SEE NOW

Romances Hang By a Hair

By DORIS LOCKERMAN

The man clutching the seat beside me in the aisle of the bus, shuddered. You wouldn't have noticed it, with the jam of riders in the early morning, sardined in with extra raincoats and umbrellas, but he followed the tremor with a statement.

"Girls with curlers in their hair in public make me sick all day." He spoke clearly, and his voice carried.

He clamped his teeth, and turned his sulky silence back on, glaring at the mist of the windows while the temperature of the bus arose indignantly from the Madonna sisterhood which meets each rainy day with heads decorously covered with scarves.

Nobody spoke until we came to a stop and the man extricated himself from the mob and made his way off the bus. Then another gentleman spoke, somewhat softer.

"Poor guy," he said, "probably never sees a girl with her hair in bobby pins without thinking it's his wife. Pretty grim thought, you know. . . ."

A quick count revealed eight pretty girls and one middle-aged woman with their crowning glory tortured into tiny round snails of hair, pinioned fast to their scalps by bobby pins. You couldn't see much of their heads but the front and sides, but viewed from a man's angle, they must have looked like facsimiles of a passel of Medusas.

They did look intimate, bathroomish, not in any alluring or exciting way, but with the same delight that a droopy, dirty housecoat must have for the average husband.

Only a wife, and she firmly welded to a man by a long-term legal merger, would really dare show himself to the love of her life in that way if she realized how unbecoming the get-up is to the other sex.

"It's just like a man coming out without his coat on and his suspenders hanging down . . . and I can't think of a scene more low-brow.

Of course, every female with stringy, straight hair is tempted to keep it up all day so that when night comes she will be the twin with the wave.

But what if she should meet her loved one in broad daylight and he'd find out those ringlets weren't real?

Dorothy Van Sant Creates Unusual Brush Subjects

By MAYNITA GERRY

Rembrandt was no piker . . . as painters go.

Dorothy Van Sant wields a pretty deft and inspired paint brush, too, but it doesn't stop there.

After a morning of espalier-ing intriguing Pennsylvania Dutch figures and landscapes across the face of an old dresser for the room of her rambunctious young son, Jimmy's room, she's apt as not to run up a wall bracket composed of three raisin crates, a coat of white paint and a scattering of dainty sweetheart roses for the pink-and-white boudoir of her 11-year-old blonde daughter, Diane.

The paint is barely dry on the cornflowers of Diane's crisp new pink taffeta party frock before her resourceful mother is sanding away at a delicate little French desk for the living room or delving into the encyclopedia for the physical characteristics of a cardinal (bird variety) to be painted on one of the numerous ties the Van Sants send out at Christmas and birthdays through the year.

Without ever having had a lesson in her life, except for the usual one-year art course in high school, Mrs. Van Sant paints like a demon on any and everything that strikes her fancy, from raw silk to kitchen tile, turns out reams of hand-painted glasses, luncheon sets, vases, blouses, aprons, tea towels, etc., and regards her accomplishments as highly amusing and entertaining from a purely personal standpoint.

Her friends and family, however, aren't likely to treat her ability so lightly . . . not when a birthday brings a set of cocktail glasses with hand-painted sailfish soaring across their facade, an anniversary nets some lucky couple a pale blue luncheon set with tiny Dutch figures pantomiming a love story in each upper right-hand corner, or a Christmas package yields a half-dozen tile plaques painted with bouquets of old-fashioned flowers.

At a tender grammar-school age, little Dorothy Carter (now Van Sant) relieved the monotony of readin', writin' and 'rithmetic by sketching, surreptitiously, on the flyleaves and margins of her textbooks. It was not until high school, however, that she got her first taste of (and for) oils. The first oil she ever did, a Spring landscape with lots of greens, yellows and browns, hangs over the living room mantel.

"Of course, I didn't have the vaguest idea about a formula for mixing paints," said Mrs. Van Sant, "so I worked out my own."

The same was true when she started painting on glass and cloth. The formula for each varies according to the medium and each was carefully tested for wearability and washing. On furniture she uses a mixture of clear varnish mixed with oils, which takes some time to dry, but is more durable in the long run. After she has removed all the old paint from a piece of furniture, she sands it down, paints it whatever color she wants, puts on one coat of varnish. Next she paints on the design, puts on another coat of varnish, antiques it with raw umber and then puts on the final coat of varnish.

Since practically all of her work is free-hand, she's learned one enlightening bit of information from her bird paintings. Bird lovers are a pedantic lot. You might be able to fake with fish, take a few liberties with trees, flowers and even dogs, but the friend's husband who asked: "What in the world are those?" when he spied a fresh covey of quail-painted glasses, sends her scurrying to the encyclopedia every time she tries her "free-hand" at sketching a new (to her) bird.

MRS. W. C. PUCKETT

Mrs. Puckett is the former Miss Julia Elizabeth Scott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Scott, Sr. Her marriage to Mr. Puckett, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Puckett, Sr., took place yesterday at the Peachtree Christion Church. Dr. R. W. Burns officiated. The bride is connected with General Motors Communications Section. Mr. Puckett is a student at the Atlanta Division of the University of Georgia.

SALLY FORTH Says:

Relatives From Bangkok Visit at Mimosa Hall

When Mrs. Granger Hansell and her son, Ned, returned home last week from Cuba, they had a most delightful surprise. Their cousins, Col. and Mrs. Reginald Vance, of Washington, D. C., and recently of Bangkok, Siam, had arrived with their charming daughter, Susan, en route from San Antonio, Texas, where they had spent the holidays with Mr. and Mrs. Heyward Hansell.

Granger was taking the best of care of the attractive visitors in his wife's absence. Col. and Mrs. Hansell left almost immediately after seeing Mrs. Hansell and Ned, but Susan remained behind for a week's stay at the Hansell home, Mimosa Hall, in Roswell.

Susan, who is blonde and flower-like in her loveliness, has spent a great deal of her young life abroad. Her father, who is in the Air Corps, has been Military Attache in Bangkok. He and Mrs. Hansell and their daughters, Mary and Susan, returned to the States in October and are now residing in Alexandria, Va.

When Col. Hansell was stationed in China, Susan attended a French convent there. As a consequence, she speaks French fluently. She is having the time of her life visiting her kinsmen, and has been shown all kinds of gracious courtesies.

There's a Wedding in Their Future

An officer of the Debutante Club of 1946-47 and one of the fairest of the fair is engaged to an equally attractive swain. He placed a beautiful diamond solitaire, set in platinum and flanked with small diamonds, on her third finger, left hand, on Christmas Eve, and she had the time of her life showing it to friends during the holidays.

She is an only child, attended Washington Seminary, Sweet Briar and Agnes Scott Colleges. She served as President of the Phi Pi sorority, was maid of honor in the May Court during her senior year in high school, and was elected Sweetheart of the Sigma Chi fraternity at Emory.

Her fiance is one of two sons. He attended Boys High School, was President of Alpha Pi fraternity, and recently graduated from Emory University, where he was a Chi Phi.

'This Is What I Like About Atlanta'

One morning last week Camille Hilsman dashed into the beauty parlor at the Biltmore Hotel to get her hair done. She and her sister, Mrs. Joe Hilsman, were giving a luncheon for Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Squier, of Philadelphia, who were arriving that morning to visit Mr. and Mrs. Angus Perkerson, so she had to have a "shampoo and set" in short order.

Soon after she entered the beauty salon, in came a most attractive person who explained that she had just arrived in the city for a brief visit and would like very much to have her hair done in time for a luncheon to be given in her honor that day. She had come from Sea Island, where she had spent the holidays, and was stopping here en route to Philadelphia.

"Why, you must be Mrs. Squier," said Camille, who had overheard the conversation between the visitor and the beautician.

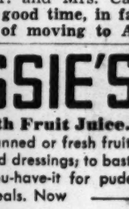
"Yes," gasped the lady in great surprise.

"Then I am your luncheon hostess," answered Camille.

"This is what I like so much about Atlanta," came back the enthused reply. "This could never happen in Philadelphia."

The Squiers were extensively entertained here, having shared honors with Mr. and Mrs. Ben Oehlert, of New York, at the luncheon given at the Driving Club by Mrs. Calvin Prescott and Mrs. White Hancock, and having been central figures at the New Year's Eve party given by Dr. and Mrs. Calhoun McDougall.

They had such a good time, in fact, that they announced they were thinking of moving to Atlanta!



JESSIE'S Notebook

by JESSIE DE BOTH

Frills With Fruit Juice. I hope you save every drop left over from canned or fresh fruit. Juice is a flavor-booster so use for fruit salad dressings; to baste meats and fowl; thicken it with cornstarch or use just-as-you-have-it for pudding sauces. Savings like these gather interest for many meals. Now please come into my kitchen.

DESSERT FOR TONIGHT

I SUGGEST YOU HAVE ONE of my favorites—smooth, creamy textured Royal Tapioca Pudding. These fine puddings are made of real tapioca and come in three delicious flavors. Vanilla, so popular with everyone. Chocolate that's really chocolaty. Orange-Coconut, a fruit-coconut combination that's out of this world. And Royal Tapioca Puddings, like all Royal Puddings, supply more food energy than the sweet, fresh milk you make them with. Try this:

Prepare Royal Chocolate Tapioca Pudding as directed on package. Cool to room temperature. Fold in 10 marshmallows, cut in pieces. Pour into serving dishes. Chill. 4 to 6 servings.

SCREEN POPS OUT AND

. . . you can wash it! Yes Ma'am, that's exactly what you can do with the new 5-cup Foley Sifter. Like Jr. Miss, the 1-cup Foley Sifter, its Big Sister, the 5-cup Foley Sifter, has single screen with triple-screen fineness. This 5-cup Foley Sifter, with cup measurements indicated, is a long-wanted speeder-upper for all baking. Get one at any department or hardware store for only $1.39.

QUANTITY BISCUIT MIX

4 cups flour
2 tsp. baking powder
2 Tbsp. sugar
2 tsp. salt
½ cup vegetable shortening

Sift flour, baking powder, sugar, salt into bowl. Cut in fat till mixture resembles corn meal. Store in refrigerator, use as needed. For each 2 cups of Mix, add about ⅔ cup milk to make 12 biscuits.

BEDDING DOWN BABY?

MODERN MOTHERS seem to be abandoning the frilly, fussy bassinet for a generous sized crib which does nicely for the first several years. There's economy in the sleeping department!

For economy in the baby-feeding department, try Gerber's new Meats. They're Armour quality Beef, Veal and Liver—ready to serve. Smoothly strained for the young baby, or uniformly chopped for older tots.

Gerber's Meats save you from 10 to 32 minutes time in preparation. And spare you the purchase of two to four times the amount of meat you would require for home preparation. When serving Gerber's—baby gets government-inspected, scrupulously prepared meats with complete high quality proteins.

Strained or Junior variety Gerber's Meats are one moderate price.

One Drop Works Wonders when you season with Tabasco for lively flavor in the plainest dish. Just remember that Tabasco's not a sauce, but a seasoning. Use it sparingly in cooking and at the table for piquant and delicious zest. No sea food should be eaten without it, say I—and as for meats, see what this does:

ROQUEFORT MEAT SAUCE

¼ cup butter — ¼ cup Roquefort Cheese
Salt — Tabasco to taste

Cream butter, blend with other ingredients. Rub over beef before broiling or frying.

Special News: Tabasco will give you free a folder on How and When To Use Tabasco PLUS 10 Rare Recipes. Send your name and address today to:

Tabasco, Avery Island, Louisiana

For My Breakfast I like to start off with energy-giving "Cream of Wheat". Over a half century ago folks found out that for delicious flavor and smo-o-oth goodness it's unbeatable. Easy, too, to add good little "extras" to it.

Mix in whole or halved raisins—½ to ½ cup for 4 servings.

If you want lots of blood-building Iron, plus extra Calcium, Phosphorus, and Vitamin B_1, use quick-cooking Enriched 5 Minute "Cream of Wheat". After only 5 minutes' boiling it's completely digestible. No raw starch! That's why doctors recommend it for babies and children. Thrifty too! Each big package gives 40 generous servings.

HANDS IN YOUR POCKETS?

NOT RECOMMENDED unless they're hiding something. You'll want to show your hands in all their perfect-lady smoothness if you're a Jergens Lotion user. I keep Jergens in my kitchen to help protect my hands from the roughening effect of household chores. That handy extra bottle reminds me to use Jergens regularly.

And how my hands react to regular Jergens care! So smooth and soft I'm proud of them! Recent skin-care discoveries make today's Jergens Lotion more effective than ever. Richer, creamier too—feels wonderful! And because it's a liquid, Jergens quickly furnishes the softening moisture thirsty skin needs.

An Evening Get-Together is a lot gayer from the start when a good steaming-hot bowl of Hormel Chili Con Carne is part of the party! I love to see my visiting folks look pleased when they sniff that delicious Hormel Chili slowly heating up in the kitchen.

It's something more than food they want. At the end of a day folks need a peppy, tangy dish to look forward to. And Hormel has the secret of pleasing everybody's taste with their Chili's just-right-spiced beef 'n beans. And that rich meat sauce that's in it. Um-m-m!

Letter That Was Easy to Answer...

Lots of letters received by our Research Department aren't. They ask for sweeping opinions on some security... how to invest five hundred dollars or fifty thousand... whether to buy a certain stock or sell—but fail to include basic facts on personal objectives, financial status, portfolio position.

Those letters are hard to answer.

Because every investment program presents different problems. Securities suitable for one objective may be poor selections for another... should be bought in some cases, sold in others—for proper portfolio balance.

That's why one recent letter was so easy to answer.

It came from a man who stated definite objectives: "liberal income", "good prospects for price appreciation", "no sizeable degree of risk". He gave salary, savings, U. S. Bonds... listed available cash... included an itemized account of his present holdings—the number of shares and purchase price of some $27,000 worth of common stocks. Then he asked that we review his portfolio, appraise his position.

We had all the facts, so it wasn't too difficult. If you'd like to see what we said about his program, just ask for the "Letter That Was Easy to Answer". Or, better still, why not send in your own portfolio... give us the details on your own position... get a seasoned analysis that applies to you. There's no charge, no obligation, whether you're a customer or not! Just write—

Stocks Score Moderate Price Advance

NEW YORK—(AP)—The Presidential message to Congress turned out to be a little better than Wall Street expected and stock prices advanced Wednesday.

The over-all advance in share prices was fairly large but only in comparison with numerous recent narrow sessions. Final prices were up fractions to more than a point.

Trading activity increased only slightly and failed to measure up to the 1,000,000-share level which prevailed most of December. Sales of 800,000 shares, though, were considerably above Tuesday's 640,000 shares, which was a low since mid-August.

Steels, rails and motors were the most popular groups but even these closed under the day's best levels.

Faint upward tendencies appeared before 1 o'clock, EST, when the President was scheduled to talk, and about half the day's total gains were scored. The market faltered as the President started to talk, but steadied almost immediately and quotations were hiked a bit more. Another note of hesitation appeared near the close.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced .6 of one point to 64.3. This was the largest average gain since a similar move ahead on Dec. 29 which in turn was the best since Dec. 1.

The market remained unusually narrow. A total of 944 issues were traded, above Tuesday's 921, but that was the smallest since Oct. 11. Of Wednesday's total, 631 advanced and 143 declined.

For one thing, there was no mention of an excess profits tax on corporation profits, although the President did ask that higher corporation taxes pay for most of an additional $4,000,000,000 in revenues.

Again, the President's labor proposals were considered temperate under the circumstances. Repeal of the Taft-Hartley law was asked, but the President found a couple of provisions of that law which he considered worth salvaging.

A suggested study of critical shortages, like steel, to see if it might be desirable for the government to construct production facilities itself, was viewed without too much concern.

A partner in one of the larger stock exchange firms commented in somewhat pleased surprise: "I expected the President to outdo Franklin Roosevelt." The remark summed up the attitude of a group which had expected the President to outline a policy that veered far to the political left.

Recent maneuvers of the market, which have carried the general price level close to the 1948-49 low, have been described as an effort to discount the President's message. The opinion was widespread that the decline has more than discounted the message—the market, in other words, had made an unnecessarily gloomy appraisal of the administration's policy.

Gains in the curb were posted for Ashland Oil, Cities Service, Cosden Petroleum, Electric Bond & Share, Kaiser-Frazer, Waltham Watch, Pharis Tire, Pantepec Oil, and St. Lawrence Corporation. American Gas and Pennroad were shaded. Sales of 170,000 shares compared with 130,000 Tuesday.

Bond prices turned irregularly higher Wednesday following the President's State of the Union message to Congress. Trading continued light, however, and price changes were narrow. U. S. Governments continued to display rising tendencies in over-the-counter dealings. Federal issues have recently been steadily moving away from the levels at which the Federal Reserve System had supported the market.

EXCESS PROFITS TAX SPECTER

Business Finds President's Talk Sweeter Pill Than It Expected

The Nation's business and financial community found the President's State of the Union message yesterday a sweeter pill than it had expected. Having feared the worst, it showed it felt relief.

Quick approval of President Truman's call for Taft-Hartley Act repeal and Wagner Act restoration came from CIO and AFL.

In general, business and finance got no surprises. Some of its fears were realized, some not.

One top Wall Street leader remarked: "It sounds as if the conciliatory group in Washington won out and that we are heading back toward the middle of the road." He found the message more favorable to business than the campaign speeches.

Top false fear was the excess profits tax specter. But the President called for higher taxes on corporations and higher income taxes in the middle and upper brackets.

Some opposed on grounds of cost and philosophy the social program. But free enterprise found the President an eloquent spokesman. He repeated many phrases business spent much time and money to promulgate.

He called for more production, more competition, expansion, lowered prices, avoidance of monopoly and restriction. He called for limitation on "unjustified wage adjustments which would break an established price ceiling."

On housing, he said most of the needed work must be built by private enterprise, without subsidy.

He called for control of rents and key materials in short supply; standby power to put ceilings on scarce commodities affecting production and living costs.

He spoke in general terms. Business awaited specific proposal both on fiscal and labor matters.

CIO Chief Philip Murray found the labor program "in the best tradition of constructive American liberalism. . . . We are sure labor and management, meeting in the spirit of the President's message, can reach substantial agreement, once the Wagner Act is restored, on any problems."

AFL Chief William Green said the AFL will give "sympathetic consideration" to amendments to strengthen collective bargaining after the Wagner Act is restored.

He also hailed the President's views on housing, increase of the minimum wage, promotion of civil rights and rebuilding of the Labor Department.

New York Cotton Loses Early Gain

NEW YORK — (AP) — Cotton futures were firm Wednesday in early trading, but lost most of the advance in later dealings. Selling was inspired partly by the failure of President Truman to make specific recommendations regarding farm price support. Final prices were 20 to 60 cents a bale higher.

Prior to the message to Congress, commission house and local covering extended gains to $1.40 a bale, with the new crop months leading the advance. Buying was predicated partly on the possibility that the President would favor the permanent high farm crop supports sponsored by some farm states congressmen. Mill buying was more active in futures, reflecting a broadening interest in cotton goods.

Worth Street merchants reported sales in volume of print cloths, broadcloths, and some sheeting constructions for delivery through the first quarter. Prices were firm. Merchants felt that buyers needed goods and were convinced that prices would not move lower following almost a year of decline.

Cotton Futures Advance In New Orleans Trading

NEW ORLEANS—(AP)—Cotton futures advanced here Wednesday on trade buying and short covering. Closing prices were steady, 30 cents to 70 cents a bale higher.

Trading was fairly active and the principal reason for the buying were favorable interpretations of President Truman's message to Congress and expectations of an increased export movement and strength in other markets.

Contracts were supplied mainly by profit taking loans and hedge selling.

DIXIE SCIENCE AND INDUSTRY

The Value of Research Topic of Meeting Here

How does research pay off?

A discussion of this subject will feature the meeting today of the South-wide conference on research at the Biltmore Hotel under the auspices of the Southern Association of Science and Indutsry.

There will be several angles to this discussion—production, expansion, security and stability and results. The whole idea is to arouse among Southern manufacturers and producers enthusiasm for a line of activity which in the past most of them have avoided.

Dr. Guy Wells

Taking prominent parts in the conference will be Dr. Guy H. Wells, President of Georgia State College for Women, of Milledgeville, and William M. Murray, Jr., Director of the Southern Research Institute.

J. E. Copenhaver, Chief Chemist for Sonoco Products, Inc., at Hartsville, S. C., will lead off the discussion by telling how research pays big dividends on the production front.

W. M. Murray, Jr.

Then Kenneth W. Coons, head of the Department of Chemical Engineering at the University of Alabama, will tell of the value of research in the expansion of business or the starting of a new industry.

The third speaker for this symposium is R. Lisle Gould, Editor of the Manufacturers' Record, Baltimore, who will speak on the advantages of research in obtaining economic security and business stability.

The concluding feature will be a speech by Dr. James E. Gates, Dean of the School of Business Administration at the University of Georgia, whose subject is: "How can businessmen decide when research is a good risk?"

During the afternoon, the delegates will visit the Tech Research Institute. At the banquet tonight at the Biltmore, Homer Pace, of Richmond, Va., President of the Southern Association of Science and Industry, will be the toastmaster. At this banquet, Morris Sayre, President of the National Association of Manufacturers, will speak on "The Lack of Venture Capital to Finance Scientific Research."

The sessions will continue tomorrow with discussions on the various mechanisms used in research work.

At the opening session this morning, James W. Mullen, II, President and Director of Experiment, Inc., at Richmond, Va., will tell of the aims of the conference.

Following an address by Dr. W. T. Sanger, President of the Medical College of Virginia, at Richmond, on "Research Is a Power," the conference will begin the discussion of the scientific and economic angles of research.

Waltham Watch Workers Unpaid

WALTHAM, Mass.—(AP)—The Waltham Watch Company yesterday failed to meet its payroll for 2,300 workers. Payment of the wages and continued operation of the plant now depend on favorable Federal Court action Friday which would enable Government-assisted refinancing of the 98-year-old plant.

The plant closed down last week as reorganization plans were filed in Federal District Court in Boston.

Yesterday would have been pay day for last week's work.

Talmadge Gives Fulton Bag Citation for Foot Clinic

In recognition and appreciation of its pioneer work in industrial foot health, the Fulton Bag & Cotton Mills, Atlanta, yesterday received a citation from the National Foot Health Council. The foot clinic is considered unique in industry.

Gov. Talmadge presented the citation to the officers of th Company in a ceremony at the State Capitol. The officers who received it in behalf of the Company were: Norman E. Elsas, President; Troy B. Stone, Personnel Director, and T. S. Florence, Paymaster.

In making the presentation, the Governor said: "This is a great answer to critics of the South and Southern industry."

The foot clinic is a part of the Jacob Elsas Nursery and Clinic, founded in honor of the founder of the Fulton Bag & Cotton Mills. It started operations in March, 1947, and gives free foot treatment to the 2,200 employes of the Company. Fulton Bag & Cotton Mills now has under advisement a plan to extend this free foot treatment to families of employees on a without-cost basis.

Dr. Lemmie L. Henry, Atlanta podiatrist, has been in charge of the foot clinic from the beginning. During this time he has treated more than 1,300 cases.

Dr. Joseph Lelyveld, of Rockland, Mass., is Chairman of the National Foot Health Council.

Strong Buyers' Market In Soft Goods Predicted

A strong buyers' market will exist for the next few months in the retail business, particularly in soft goods, Dr. Marcus Nadler, New York University economist, said last night.

War-brought shortages have been met and in many cases, supply now exceeds demand, Nadler told the Boys' Apparel Buyers' Association convening in New York.

N. Y. Firemen To Tell Work

By RITA VAN PELT

What happens when the world's largest and most efficient fire department goes into action? There's a lot more to it than bells clanging, as listeners to Our Job Is Manhattan will find out tonight at 9 when they get a behind-the-scenes view of the New York Fire Department "taking off" to cover a big blaze—WCON-ABC.

'Jenny Kissed Me'

Sparkle and variety are not new to WCON-ABC's Theatre U. S. A., but Vic Damone, Jerry Colonna and George Guest are (new, that is). They'll pay their first visit to the popular program tonight at 8:30 in a scene from "Jenny Kissed Me." Leo Carrol, Alan Baxter and Pamela Rivers will help to make this one of the most star-studded spots on the air tonight. Ralph Bellamy will emcee. It's a good bet.

The Lady Is Dead

The lady, she is murdered, and there's no doubt but that she's dead! Who's guilty? The butler, of course. It's The Case of the Bisected Woman—a Nick and Nora "whodunnit"—over WGST-MBC at 10 p. m.

New Look, New Time

It took some persuading by her friends for the titian-haired star of ABC's Jo Stafford show to shear off her shoulder-length locks, but she finally succumbed to the "new look." It's a becoming mode for the song stylist as you can see. Jo will offer some "new looks" songs, on her show tonight over WCON, which, incidentally, starts at a new time—9:30 p. m.

Al's 'Alter Ego'

Larry Parks, the man who played Al Jolson, will visit the famous mammy singer tonight at 9 over WSB-NBC. Other highlights of tonight's Jolson show will be the razor-like remarks of Oscar Levant and the music of Lou Bring's orchestra.

Dorothy Dix

Dorothy Dix, who recently joined ABC's lineup of stars, will answer listeners' queries pertaining to personal and domestic problems—today at 1:45, WCON.

CHANNING COPE'S ALMANAC:

Swine Breeders' Meet Set for Griffin

Suggestion of the day: A sheepman in Wyoming produced a 141-pound wether lamb in one season. I believe we can do better here in Georgia. The Experiment Station at Griffin is collecting considerable data on sheep raising. All farmers should investigate.

The Georgia Swine Breeders' Association meets at the Experiment Station at Griffin tomorrow morning, and all hog raisers should attend. The membership goes in for registered hogs but this does not mean it would not welcome breeders of all breeds or nonbreeds. The hog industry is such a valuable one and means so much to Georgia that it is to everyone's interest to see it flourish. Let's all turn out for the annual meeting tomorrow.

Now that we are establishing permanent pastures of a year-round nature the raising of hogs in the Piedmont is becoming more practicable. Hogs should be raised in pastures as are other animals and so long as our clay soils are protected by sods or other close-growing crops they may be used to great advantage by hogs. Legumes are particularly beneficial to hogs, they provide a large part of the protein needed by the animals and they are not too bulky. Cattle need bulky materials but hogs need concentrates

Chairman Zenas Massey has arranged an interesting program and much of the newer information on swine breeding should be introduced at the meeting. Shall we see you there?

Start the year right by rising early. Settle down by your radio tuned to WCON and let the Yellow River farm family thaw you out for the day. 6:00 a. m. and 12.45 p. m. are the hours.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our daughter, sister, aunt, wife and mother, Mrs. Elaine Satterfield Brown, who left us two years ago, Jan. 6, 1947.

We cannot say, we will not say,
That she is dead—she is just away!
With a cheery smile and a wave of the hand,
She has wandered into an unknown land
And left us dreaming how very fair
It needs must be, since she lingers there.
And you—O you, who the wildest yearn
For the old-time step and glad return,
Think of her faring on as dear
In the love of there as the love of here;
Think of her still as the same, I say,
She is not dead—she is just away!

MRS. JUNE GOSS, Sister.

Court Stand May Win Ga. Million

Atty. Gen. Eugene Cook said yesterday that Georgia has won a U. S. Supreme Court decision that might bring in up to $1,000,000 in back railroad taxes.

While the case involved the Georgia Railroad and Banking Company, it was considered a test for several other roads.

The railroads contend that under their charters, granted by the 1848 Legislature, they are exempt from State taxation.

The State Revenue Department holds that subsequent laws prohibit any exemption from Etate taxes.

A Georgia railroad went to court in an effort to forestall a move by the State to collect the taxes. It asked an injunction to prohibit the State from levying against the railroad.

The railroad won its case in Fulton Superior Court but was reversed in the Georgia Supreme Court. The U. S. Supreme Court yesterday notified Cook it upheld the State's plea to dismiss the railroad's suit.

Thus, Cook said, the State now may proceed to levy property taxes against the railroads. If the railroads had won this test case, he added, the State would have been unable to take further action.

Cook, however, said he anticipated another legal battle on the merits of the tax levy when it actually is made.

Other railroads with similar charters, which would be affected by this case, are the Southwestern Railroad Company, and the Augusta and Savannah Railroad Company.

POLICE BLOTTER

FAKE HOLDUP — James D. Echols, 27-year-old laundry truck driver, of a Calhoun St., N. W., address, was booked for suspicion of larceny after trust, after he allegedly admitted faking a holdup report, Dets. Y. H. Allen and J. L. Mosely said. Echols at first told officers he was getting into his truck on Ponce de Leon Avenue when "something hit me on the head." He said he was robbed of $379. Taken to Grady Hospital for an X-ray examination, however, detectives said Echols amended the story to say he "lost" the money taken in three days of deliveries "somewhere on Luckie Street." And added he "bumped his head" on the side of the truck before putting in the holdup call.

Red Cross Germans Here

Germany has an effective, if pitiful, weapon against Communism in the hordes of diseased and weary German war prisoners who have been returned from the Soviet since the end of the war.

That's the observation of two representatives of the German Junior Red Cross now visiting in Atlanta—Dr. Heinrich Leuchter, 28, a physician from Frankfort in Hesse, and Dr. Goetz Fehr, an educator from Munich.

Three to four million returned prisoners "know what conditions are in the Soviet and are repelled by Communism," the visitors declared. They contrasted the prisoners' impression of Russia with the goodwill missions of American GI's and "Operation Vittles."

Dr. Fehr said gifts of candy dropped by air by airlift pilots adds to the affection German children already had for American GIs.

The two German visitors are spending two weeks in the South and will visit the Atlanta chapter next Wednesday. They spent a short time at Southeastern Area headquarters of Red Cross this week with Dr. Frank C. Jenkins and James Smythe, director and assistant director of Junior Red Cross in this area.

Library Fund Audit Is Ordered

By HERMAN HANCOCK

An audit of the $45,000 Fulton County appropriation made last year to Carnegie Library was ordered yesterday by City Council's Finance Committee after Miss Fanny Hinton, Librarian, told committee members "the library did not get all the money."

Ald. Ed A Gilliam, member of the finance group, insisted on the audit following a contention by Councilman Ralph Huie, Finance Committee Chairman, and City Compt. B. Graham West that the library got all the fund.

The matter came to a head when Miss Hinton was appealing for salary hikes for library employees. She told committee members she hoped to get $55,000 this year from Fulton County and casually mentioned her department was not allowed to budget against the full $45,000 which the County allocated to the institution in 1948.

Gilliam insisted on an explanation. Miss Hinton said her best recollection was the library got only $41,400 of the $45,000. Huie and West insisted the County appropriation was not segregated from city allocations and the library got the full $45,000 and more.

"If the County makes an appropriation for any department, it should be earmarked for it," Gilliam said. "It should be expended for the purpose for which it was set up. We should audit that account and see what happened to it. I am not trying to embarrass anyone. I just want to know what happened. If I were a member of the Commission and the money did not go for the purpose for which it was earmarked, I would cease to make the appropriation."

Two assistants were added to the County library staff later in the year at a cost of $1,800, it was explained.

Gilliam said he would await the audit before taking any further action, but indicated that if the library was not given use of the $45,000, he would insist it be made available.

Huie and West explained that city and county allocations were not segregated in library accounts, but the city rendered service to thousands of Fulton residents at the main library for which no compensation was received.

"The library got all the Fulton allocation and more," Huie said. "It is a matter of bookkeeping. Statistics show Atlanta furnishes much more than $45,000 worth of service a year to County residents."

THE MAN WE NEED
IS NOW employed. He is married and happy with his family. He is between 25 and 40 years old. His appearance is neat and he enjoys talking to people because he like people. He makes mistakes because he is human, but his honesty and integrity has been proven. The job he now has is fair . . . but . . . he knows if he had the opportunity to make a connection with an organization that is nationally known, and one which the limit on his income is governed only by his willingness to learn and work, it would be the chance he has been looking for. If you are this man, we would like to talk over an outstanding proposition with you.

DATING, 'NECKING' DISCUSSED

Boy-Girl Relations Theme of Dr. Overton

Dr. Grace Sloan Overton, nationally recognized authority on "boy-girl relations", opened a series of lectures in the Fulton County schools Tuesday.

Speaking in terms of their "responsibility as future parents and future homemakers," Dr. Overton discussed such teen-age problems as dating, behavior on dates, going steady, even the matter of "necking."

She pointed out the "changing patterns in boy-girl relations," such as dating at an earlier age, going steady earlier and the growing familiarity between boys and girls.

"Teen-age standards of behavior need to be safeguarded now so that boys and girls may have happy marriages and healthy parenthood later," she said.

Dr. Overton's talks at College Park High and Campbell High Tuesday were sponsored by the family relations classes of the schools.

34 Escape Injury In Landing Crash

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. — (AP) — Thirty-four persons escaped injury yesterday when an Eastern Air Lines plane overshot the field at Municipal Airport.

The DC-4 plane, en route from Philadephia to New Orleans, landed in a downpour. Capt. L. L. Willey, of New Orleans, the pilot, said the runway was made slippery by the rain.

The ship went off the runway and nosed down.

Liquor-Soaked Movies Under Temperance Fire

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The American Temperance Society heard a plea yesterday for a boycott of "liquor soaked" motion pictures.

E. W. Dunbar, youth leader for the Seventh-Day Adventists told the Society's convention that if the public would "boycott these pictures, the conditions would be cleaned up."

"Authorities on Hollywood tell us that about 90 percent of the feature films contain liquor propaganda, inserted either consciously or inadvertently," Dunbar said.

Bidding:

South	West	North	East
1S	P	2S	P
2NT	P	P	P

Opening lead: Two of hearts.

The return of the highest of partner's suit is looked upon as an obligation by the vast majority of bridge players. This is a relic from the uninformed of the early days of auction. In returning partner's suit, it is proper to lead the highest in only a few cases. Where you have originally two or three worthless cards of the suit, the highest is returned for informative purposes. But where your original holding was four or more of the suit, the appropriate card to return is that which was originally your fourth highest. This too is done for informative purposes and provides partner with an accurate count of the suit. Occasionally, however, one must refuse to return the highest of his partner's suit for a very commonplace reason. That is, that one cannot afford to part with the card. This must be based on plain common sense, an example of which is recorded today.

We are not responsible for the bidding, but are here only in the capacity of a reporter. It is usually what happens with part scores. One stretches a point to open and then stretches another point to keep going to complete the game. It's all right when North has a raise of today's kind, but what happens when the raise of two spades is a questionable one? My policy is to treat the part score of 30 as though it were no part score at all, for purposes of opening the bidding.

Against the final contract West led the two of hearts, dummy played low and East properly played the nine hoping his partner has led from the jack. This forced the ace. A low club was led to dummy's 10 and East took the trick with the ace. He shifted to a low diamond and the defense ran four tricks in that suit. So far everything had gone smoothly. It is at this point that East slipped. With book in, he decided to return his partner's suit for which he cannot be blamed, but in returning the highest of his partner's suit, he ruined the defense. The trick was won by dummy's king and declarer ran off four spade tricks. On the fourth of these West was left with the good jack of hearts and the queen-nine of clubs, and had to come down to two cards. Whichever he threw, the jig was up.

East had placed him in that position. Instead of returning the highest of his partner's suit East should have returned the six. In this way East would retain control of the heart trick and West could guard clubs or spades whichever he had a trick in. It is fundamental in principles of defense that one player should not be placed in a position where he must hold on to everything. That's what East had done to West.

Bank Robbers Grab Cash in Carolina

PEMBROKE, N. C.—(AP)—Two unmasked men yesterday held up the Bank of Pembroke and escaped with an estimated $12,000 to $20,000.

John Steadman, president of the Scottish Bank of Lumberton, made the estimate. The bank here is a unit of the Lumberton bank

Miss Lois Deeson, assistant cashier, said an unmasked man drew a gun, scooped up money in three cashier's cages and escaped in a blue sedan. An accomplice had waited at the car.

The bank was robbed of about $10,000 on March 14, 1947, by two Robeson County men. They were convicted and imprisoned.

LATE NEWS

4 New Quakes Strike Reno Area

RENO, Nev.—(AP)—Four "severe earthquakes" were reported last night by residents of Verdi, 10 miles west of here, but there were no immediate reports of damage.

At least one quake was felt by many residents of Reno, which was jolted by a long series of tremors last week.

Mrs. Sophus Mortensen, of Verdi, reported by telephone three shocks there last night between 7:41 and 7:55 PST (10:41-10:55 EST) and interrupted her conversation to scream:

"Wait a minute! We're having another one now."

Returning to the telephone a moment later, she described the shocks as "having a heavy, rolling motion." The first two, she said, were accompanied by noise, "like a rumbling explosion."

The Reno area was hit by a series of quakes Dec. 27, with the biggest, on the morning of Dec. 29, doing widespread but minor damage. A total of 80 to 90 separate tremors were recorded on seismographs during the period of a week, although most were not sufficiently strong to be felt.

Jap General Sentenced To Life, Dies of Cancer

TOKYO—(AP)—Gen. Yoshijiro Umezu, who was sentenced by the International Military Tribunal to life imprisonment for war crimes, died of cancer in a U. S. Army hospital today.

Umezu had been hospitalized since March and was informed while in bed of his sentence.

He formerly was commander of the Kwantung Army, chief of Japan's Army General Staff and Supreme War Councillor. The tribunal, in passing sentence, found Umezu "played a principal part in the waging of war against China and the Western Powers."

Hearst's Son George Sues for Divorce

LOS ANGELES—(AP)—George Randolph Hearst, 43, eldest son of Publisher William Randolph Hearst, has sued for divorce or annulment of his third marriage, to Mrs. Sally Alvarez Kirkham Hearst, 38.

She is a former actress.

Hearst's complaint charges cruelty and alleges Mrs. Hearst has caused her husband "such mental and physical suffering" he is no longer able to reside with her.

The complaint makes an alternate plea for annulment on the ground she was not legally divorced when she became Mrs. Hearst at Sparks, Nev., Dec. 14, 1941. The couple went through a second ceremony eight days' later in Shasta County, Cal. The suit states they separated last May 27. There are no children.

Hearst was divorced from Mrs. Blanche Wilbur Hearst in 1932 and from Mrs. Lorna Velie Hearst in 1941. Mrs. Sally Hearst previously was married to George Earl Kirkham.

Earth Engulfs Beefy Butcher; Saved by Co-eds

SCRANTON, Pa.—(AP)—A 250-pound butcher was walking along a street—then suddenly he disappeared.

Three Marywood College girls who were walking behind Owen Malley, 58, screamed as the butcher dropped into a mine cave yesterday. They got a rope and 12-foot ladder and lowered them into the hole, which was about 10 feet deep.

Patrolman William Holly called for Malley to grasp the rope and start up the ladder. Malley was pulled to safety and taken home.

A physician said he suffered shock and back injuries.

Authorities said the cave occurred over an abandoned mine working of the Pennsylvania Coal Company.

Chicagoan Had Served Federal Term

Hyman Frank, 50, Once Headed $2,500,000 Rum Smuggling Ring

CHICAGO — (INS) — Hyman Frank, 50, was machine-gunned to death last night in front of his home on Chicago's West Side.

Police said Frank was shot in the head six times.

Two teen-age girls reportedly witnessed the slaying of the one-time member of a $2,500,000 liquor smuggling ring.

The girls said a lone man stepped from a black sedan and machine-gunned the victim as he was walking up to his front door. They said the killer fled in the same car.

An earlier attempt on Frank's life failed. Last June Frank escaped with only a cut on his arm as his car was hit by five bullets, fired from another car in suburban Cicero. Frank at that time said he knew of no reason why anyone should kill him.

Frank had been employed as a bartender in suburban Stickney Township since his release from Federal prison where he served five years on an income tax evasion charge.

Frank and 10 other men were convicted in 1941 on a Federal indictment at Detroit charging they evaded $2,500,000 in taxes in the operation of a liquor smuggling ring.

Witnesses Disagree on Drunk Count

Trial Judge Orders Jury Verdict Due To Conflicting Evidence

By KEELER McCARTNEY

City Councilman Joe Allen yesterday was bound over to Fulton Criminal Court on charges of being drunk and disorderly in a public place after three policemen testified he was drunk and two civilians said he was sober.

"I think this is a case that should be heard by a jury," Recorder A. W. Callaway declared. He assessed Allen's bond at $100 and directed that the Councilman be allowed to sign his own bond.

"That suits me," Allen asserted. "I know I will get a fair trial over there."

Ptl. L. O. Davis and C. F. Sanders told the court they received a call last Sunday morning to Gilbert's restaurant at 117 Luckie St., N. W., where a woman customer gave a complaint on Allen's conduct. Defense Attorney Hubert Morgan objected officers outlining the nature of the complaint. The woman did not appear in court.

Davis testified that Allen "had been drinking," although he said when they found the councilman in the Savoy Restaurant next door he walked to the patrol car. Sanders said Allen's eyes "were red" and added he "didn't talk normal."

Miss Dora Pendley, an employee of Gilbert's, said she called police after the customer registered a complaint. Miss Angel Chotas, daughter of the restaurant owner, said she "didn't see Allen do anything wrong."

Harold Gazzaniga, former private detective who said he was in the restaurant at the time, testified that Allen had not been drinking. Mrs. Jib Athos, of the Savoy, said Allen came there and drank coffee. She said she "couldn't tell it if he had been drinking."

In his statement Allen reiterated that he had gone in Gilbert's to eat breakfast and then went to the Savoy to see Jim Athos. He said he drank coffee while waiting for Athos to come in and was there when the officers arrived.

Branding the arrest a "farce," Morgan said the acts of individual officers could not be questioned but added: "When a stream is polluted at its source, then we must question each individual turn."

Allen was fined $52 for reckless driving after being involved in an accident six weeks ago. Prior to that he was arrested in an alleged poker game at the Ansley Hotel and paid a fine in Recorder's Court. He also was present at the September, 1946, poker game on Peachtree Street in which C. A. Wallace was slain and accompanied officers to California last year to identify the slayer.

Manslaughter Padgett Plea To Be Taken?

Charles R. Padgett's desire to offer a plea of guilty to involuntary manslaughter in the hit-and-run death of Decaturite Thomas W. Pittard, Jr., may be accepted by the DeKalb Superior Court, it was hinted yesterday.

Sol. Gen. Roy Leathers declared the case "may be disposed of amicably" within a week. Leathers made this statement in requesting Judge Frank Guess to postpone until Friday a hearing on whether Padgett should be released from DeKalb County jail on bond. Judge Guess granted the postponement.

Padgett, now awaiting a second trial under a murder charge in connection with Pittard's death, did not appear in court yesterday, day of the originally scheduled hearing. His attorney, Young Fraser, did not contest postponement of the hearing and previously announced Padgett wants to offer a plea of guilty to involuntary manslaughter.

The first trial resulted in a mistrial when jurors were unable to agree on a verdict.

Air-View Into Crater of Erupting Mauna Loa

2d Volcano Promises River of Lava In Hawaii as Mauna Loa Drives Out 100

HONOLULU, T. H.—(UP)—One of the worst eruptions since the volcanic mountain's top blew off in 1914 his cracked the famed Mauna Loa crater, hurling a river of seething lava down its slopes and forcing more than 100 persons to evacuate the village of Honaunau.

Another eruption on the big island can be expected "at almost any time" from Mt. Kilauea, the "Firepit," located on Mauna Loa's flank, Dr. Thomas A. Jaggar, world-famed volcanologist, announced.

A light Stinson plane with three persons aboard was reported missing yesterday and was last seen flying into the turbulent column of smoke that towered thousands of feet above the crater. A Piper Cub cruiser, one of many planes sightseeing over the crater, was forced to crash land on an emergency strip on the slopes, apparently injuring one person.

Police Lt. Anthony Cambria reported the Honaunau populace voluntarily evacuated their tiny coastal village and were followed by an unestimated number of ranchers and residents of the South Kona districts of Hookena and Kealia when the molten stream pushed to within 14 miles of the area.

A report from the McCandless ranch, one of the big cattle farms on the Kona slope most menaced by the lava flow, said the flow had halted above the timberline at the 8,000 foot level but that schools were closed and cattle had been released from stockades "just in case."

Autos and trucks were used to haul residents and their belongings to a high school eight miles away and out of the path of danger.

Sometimes fast-running, "breakaway" streams of molten rock shoot from "faucet" openings that suddenly crack in the solidifying fronts of lava flows as they move farther and farther from the crater. Precautions must be taken to avoid these liquid fire runners, whose liquid-fire composition can start conflagrations and do other damage.

One such runner was reported without confirmation to have crossed the road leading to the villages of Kiilae and Koekea, about three miles from the sea near Honaunau.

A United Press correspondent flew over the volcano with Vice Admiral Charles M. McMorris, commandant of the Hawaiian sea frontier, and reported that the flow seemed to have stopped two-thirds of the way down the slope. It seems to be hardening and graying at the tip although it is still bubbling and glowing above.

Jaggar said "it may be hours,

Jet Planes Make Chicago-N.Y. Trip In 1 Hr., 21 Min.

NEW YORK — (AP) — Two Air Force pilots sped here yesterday from Chicago in Shooting Star jet planes in one hour, 21 minutes and eight seconds, fastest trip ever made between the two cities.

The F-80-C planes flashed over LaGuardia Field at 1:17.53 p. m. (EST). They had passed the Chicago Municipal Airport, 711 air miles away, at 11:56.45 a. m. (EST) to begin their flight.

The pilots were Lt. Col. Bill Haviland and Lt. Harry Howell. Air Force officials said they did not know of any jet record for the flight between the nation's two largest cities but the commercial airplane mark was one hour, 51 minutes and 43 seconds.

Truman Urges 2 Fronts To Battle Boom, Bust

WASHINGTON—(UP)—The nation is entering turbulent economic waters and may have to buck cross-currents of inflation and recession at the same time in 1949, President Truman warned yesterday.

Transmitting his third annual economic report to Congress, he predicted continued "bountiful prosperity" provided the Government is promptly armed with a varied arsenal of weapons to fight a two-front battle against boom or bust.

He called especially for standby price, wage and distribution controls, higher taxes on corporation profits, a two-year extension of rent ceilings, broader curbs on bank lending, continued regulation of installment buying and exports, and a host of social welfare programs to "protect the victims of inflation."

First Congressional reaction to the report fell into a normal pattern. Republicans were sharply critical, Administration Democrats were enthusiastic, and Southern Democrats were lukewarm.

The President's 8,000-word message was accompanied by a 38,000-word detailed survey of economic conditions prepared by his three-man Council of Economic Advisers headed by Dr. Edwin G. Nourse. It reflected much of what was in Mr. Truman's State of the Union message Wednesday and what he is expected to outline in his budget message to Congress Monday.

Mr. Truman said the recent gradual decline in some prices is a "welcome" development. But he cautioned that it would be "foolhardy" for the nation to assume that it is out of the boom-and-bust woods.

He warned that there is a good chance 1949 will see powerful inflationary forces still driving prices up in some lines, while other prices "could be falling dangerously."

As long as the economic situation contains such "mixed elements," he said, the Government must be able to apply a "brake or accelerator" according to need

He emphasized that he wanted hold-in-reserve price control authority primarily to persuade industry to make "voluntary" adjustments.

He recommended that he be given specific power to order an industry to hold up a scheduled price rise until a public investiga-

Suit Against Athletic Club Dismissed

No Cause of Action Held in Plea To Recover Gambling Losses

Judge Ralph Pharr, of Fulton Superior Court, has dismissed a suit for $750,000 alleged gambling losses against the Atlanta Athletic Club brought by John Moore, an accountant.

Judge Pharr sustained objections to Moore's petition by the legal firm of Jones, Williams, Dorsey & Hill which contended there was no cause for action because Moore failed to name any of the alleged losers and to itemize losses.

Moore filed suits against four Atlanta clubs under an old law giving any one the right to sue to recover gambling losses provided the actual loser had failed to sue within six months of his loss. Moore sought to recover a total of more than $3,000,000, but recently dropped three of the suits.

Summerish Weekend, 68 High, Forecast

Today will be even warmer than yesterday, the weatherman says. He predicts the temperature will rise to a "Summer-day" 68, with ample doses of sunshine and plenty of blue in the sky. Forty-four is expected to be the mercury's low point of the day

The unseasonally high temperature range is expected to continue through Sunday, with 60 degrees as a top forecast. Sunday afternoon or night, however, should bring rain, in the weatherman's opinion.

Yesterday's high temperature was 59, the low 34.

New Students

COCHRAN — Dean and Registrar John T. Morris of the Middle Georgia College in Cochran, announced the enrollment of the new winter quarter at 320 students. Thirty-eight of these are new students. Approximately 100 of these are GI's with 15 percent of these married and living in the students' homes on the campus.

Dean Acheson Succeeds Sec. of State Marshall; James E. Webb Top Aide

WASHINGTON—(UP)—President Truman yesterday accepted the resignation of ailing Secretary of State George C. Marshall, named Dean Acheson to succeed him and firmly squelched any idea the change indicated a softer policy toward Russia.

The 55-year-old Acheson, one of the architects of the "cold war" against the Soviet Union, immediately promised to do his best to "carry out the President's policies" and to meet his "crushing responsibilities."

The new Secretary declined to discuss specific foreign issues at this time. But he stands four-square behind the President's frequently-announced aim of working through the United Nations for eventual world peace.

The far-reaching shift, enforced by Marshall's failing health, also brought the resignation of Undersecretary of State Robert A. Lovett who will be succeeded by Budget Director James E. Webb. Lovett has guided foreign policy during Marshall's frequent absences.

Webb, who probably is closer to Mr. Truman than almost any other government official, also is a close friend of Acheson. He will be succeeded by Frank Pace, Jr., now Assistant Chief of the Budget Bureau and a government career man.

The resignations of the 68-year-old Marshall and Lovett were timed for Jan. 20, the day President Truman is inaugurated for his first elective term.

PINEHURST, N. C.—(INS)—Retiring Secretary of State George C. Marshall said yesterday at his home near Pinehurst that he has no immediate plans for future activity.

Marshall, war-time Chief of Staff, has wanted to shed his heavy responsibilities for some time. He recently had a kidney removed and is now recuperating at his Pinehurst, N. C., home.

Senate reaction to the President's choice of the suave, polished Acheson, whose record includes service under four Secretaries of State, indicated quick confirmation of his nomination.

Mr. Truman chose his weekly news conference to announce the changes. He termed Marshall "the country's greatest soldier," and praised his work for putting the giant European Recovery Program into operation and shaping foreign policies aimed at walling Communism within its present boundaries.

Marshall Blamed Vinson Fiasco On Politicians Instead of Truman

A page of secret United States diplomatic history is divulged in the following dispatch by R. H. Shackford, general European news manager of the United Press—the inside story of President Truman's proposal during the election campaign to send Chief Justice Fred M. Vinson to Moscow. The resignation of Secretary of State Marshall makes it possible now to disclose the Vinson story.

By R. H. SHACKFORD

LONDON — UP) — Secretary of State Marshall blamed Democratic Party campaign leaders, rather than President Truman, for the ill-fated attempt to send a special mission to Premier Josef Stalin last Fall.

It can be disclosed today that Marshall stopped the proposed trip of Chief Justice Fred M. Vinson to Moscow at the last minute.

Vinson was virtually ready to leave Washington and was to halt en route in Paris, where Marshall was attending the United Nations General Assembly.

Marshall was annoyed at the proposal because it worried Western European countries that the United States, while prosecuting the cold war, was going behind their backs to make a deal with the Russians.

But Marshall was more indignant at the publicity the affair was given. He was indignant to learn that the "Vinson Mission" had leaked.

Marshall's version of the incident goes something like this:

On Oct. 5 Marshall received in Paris from Washington, word that the President wanted to talk to him on the American Embassy teleprinter. There was no word about the subject.

Marshall and his chief assistant, Marshal Carter, went to the Embassy code room in Paris for the "conversation."

Meanwhile in Washington Under Sec. of State Robert A. Lovett, who has now resigned with Marshall, was asked to go to the White House to take part with the President in the exchange.

Lovett tried to find out what it was all about and failed. Then he called the President directly to ask what documents, if any, he should bring. The President told him he did not need any because it was only about a message to Stalin.

Lovett flashed that word to Marshall immediately. It arrived in Paris while Marshall was waiting for the exchange with the President to begin.

While still waiting for the President, Marshall drafted in pencil about 300 words stating why no kind of message should be sent to Stalin at that time. The Security Council was in the midst of a debate on Berlin and the West had vowed it never would leave Berlin voluntarily.

When the President came on the teletype he sent a 400 word message to Marshall proposing to send Vinson to see Stalin.

The President explained his concern that the Russians maybe did not understand American policy, especially our atomic energy policy and our offer to put the secret under international control by stages.

Mr. Truman proposed that Vinson would attempt to convince Stalin that the United States wanted only peace and also to convince him of the awful consequences for the world if war started in this atomic age.

Marshall answered Mr. Truman with his pencilled draft statement that he had written in advance. He made only one change. Where he had objected to the dispatch of any message to Stalin he scribbled instead "or envoy."

The President answered immediately by agreeing with Marshall's arguments against the project.

Marshall and Mr. Truman then discussed plans for Marshall to return to Washington to report on the UN the following week end.

Marshall forgot the Vinson incident. It broke in American newspapers while he was flying the Atlantic. When he stepped off his plane in Washington he discovered it was all public knowledge.

He and the President then issued their statements confirming that the mission had been proposed but had been vetoed by Marshall.

Marshall believed the President's political advisers in the midst of the campaign "sold" the President the idea of the mission to Moscow as good politics.

Solons May Help Save GI Program

Aid of Georgia Senators and Congressmen will be sought in an effort to prevent closing of "50 to 75 percent" of GI vocational training programs in the State, M. D. Mobley, State Director of Vocational Education, said yesterday.

A delegation of Georgia educators and veterans' training leaders plans to confer with top Veterans' Administration officials in Washington, D. C., next week on the VA order which threatens to cripple the GI training program.

Sen. Walter F. George and Rep. Don Wheeler will help the Georgia delegation present its case directly to O. W. Clark, Executive Assistant to Carl R. Gray, Jr., Administrator of Veterans' Affairs, Mobley said.

He added the order came as a severe blow to educators throughout the State engaged in giving trades training to ex-GI's.

The VA order, effective Feb. 1, halts Federal payments for tuition to veteran students who are used on "live projects." Mobley said enforcement "would close up between 50 and 75 percent of training programs for Georgia ex-GIs who are taking full-time training in trades and industrial vocational education."

Twenty-six schools in Georgia hold contracts with the VA for such training. Mobley said the VA ruling would mean, for instance, that veterans training to be body and fender workers in auto shops would not be permitted to work on "real jobs." One Georgia school, he said, teaches upholstering and places graduates in furniture plants. Instructors had arranged with the State Highway Patrol for students to do work on furniture in Patrol stations and considered this "valuable experience." The VA order would not permit this work.

Mobley declared, "There have been no known abuses in Georgia; we do not defend them in other States, but we are trying to protect Georgia's vocational education program."

GOP Senators To Offer Their Own Housing Bill

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Senate Republicans laid plans yesterday to offer their own housing bill as a substitute for the program proposed by President Truman.

The bill is being drafted by a group of self-styled liberals who unsuccessfully rebelled against the "Old Guard" GOP leadership in the Senate.

Sen. Ives, Republican, New York, a leader of the insurgents, told a reporter about the plan and said Sen. Taft, Republican, Ohio, had agreed to back it. Taft, a public housing advocate, was the target of the recent GOP uprising.

As it shapes up now, the Republican housing measure will provide a more modest program than the one Mr. Truman proposed in his state of the union message.

Mr. Truman called for a far-reaching plan that would include the construction of 1,000,000 public housing units in the next seven years. Democratic Senators promptly introduced a bill to meet his request.

Taft had planned to join the Democrats in backing the bill. But he changed his mind when the measure was introduced before he had a chance to study it carefully. Later he called the public housing program contemplated "too big." He said it would put the Government too deeply in the housing business.

In the previous two Congresses, Taft joined with Democratic Sens. Ellender, Louisiana, and Wagner, New York, in sponsoring the T-E-W long-range housing bill. The bill passed the Senate twice, but died each time in the House.

The T-E-W measure provided for 500,000 public housing units in five years, about 33 percent less than the new administration bill does.

Ives said the Republican bill will be patterned after the T-E-W measure so far as public housing is concerned.

"The administration program," Ives said, "would throw public and private construction all out of kilter by assigning about 25 percent of the home construction job to the Government."

The goal of the T-E-W bill was about 10 percent public housing and 90 percent private industry construction.

Ives was asked why the GOP insurgents invited Taft to join them in view of their fight to oust him as Chairman of the Senate Republican Policy Committee.

"That was a fight over leadership and not over housing or any other individual legislative program," Ives replied.

Model Acts For Self in Libel Suit

NEWARK, N. J.—(UP)—A blonde, Powers model appeared in court as her own counsel yesterday to fight a $50,000 libel suit brought against her by a stepmother she charged with being "an immoral example."

She told the court she was representing herself because neither she nor her husband, Arturo Gay, son of the former Cuban consul at Paris, could afford a lawyer.

The beautiful young Portia, Mrs. Inez Horton Gay, 24, wore a black velvet, cap-sleeved gown with a plunging neckline, a tiny white fur hat and high-heeled black suede pumps.

The basis of the complaint, brought by her stepmother, Mrs. Helen Horton, was a letter Mrs. Gay allegedly wrote to a mutual friend in which she said: "My stepmother has been an immoral example to me from the time I was 10 years old until the time I went to college."

Mrs. Gay told the court that when she was a student at Columbia University her stepmother had forced her to introduce her as a sister and get her dates.

Three Injured In 2 Accidents

Three persons were injured in two accidents over Atlanta yesterday.

Mrs. Ruth Chitty, 56, of 425 Ashby St., S. W., was admitted to Piedmont Hospital with a possible fractured leg, knee and other injuries after being knocked down by a car on Capitol Avenue at Memorial Drive. Patrolmen W. G. Baldwin and Durrell Fuller said the driver, Mrs. Winfred L. Allaway, of 89 Warner St, N. E., was making a left turn from Capitol into Memorial.

Mrs. Allaway, secretary at the Ed S. Cook School was booked for reckless driving accident, patrolmen said.

Two Negro men were hurled from a truck when the machine plowed into another truck at Ira and Glenn Streets, police reported. Robert Flowers, of 513 Larkin Street, S. W., and a passenger, Charles Haller, 52, of a Peters Street, S. W., address, were treated at Grady Hospital for bruises. Flowers ran a stop sign on Ira Street and struck a soft drink truck traveling east on Glenn, Patrolmen K. A. Wooster and C. O. Gaddis reported. He was booked for reckless driving and accident and running a stop sign.

Teacher-Trainer Badly Mauled By Wild Lion

BLOOMSBURG, Pa. — (AP)— A Bloomsburg State Teachers College professor who is a Summertime wild animal trainer was badly mauled by a 250-pound lion he was attempting to train.

George J. Keller suffered a fracture of his right arm and severe claw wounds of the left arm Thursday when the lion pounced upon him after he entered the inclosure for the first time. The lion was brought here nine months ago from the Belgian Congo.

As Keller entered the inclosure the lion leaped from a distance of about 10 feet and knocked aside a chair he was holding. Keller fired a blank cartridge from his pistol but the lion also knocked the pistol from Keller's hand and began clawing and biting him.

Kenneth Johnson, an assistant, rushed to Keller's assistance and drove the lion back into a separate pen.

Keller, an art teacher, was taken to Bloomsburg Hospital, where he was treated and released.

During his Summer vacations, Keller tours the East with his wild animal act.

Israel Claims Its Greatest Push Nearly Rids Nation of Egyptians

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Israeli spokesmen said last night nearly all Egyptian forces were hurned from Israel soil in the greatest battle of movement thus far in the war. The statement was made just after a cease-fire order by Egyptians and Israelis went into effect at the 2 p. m. deadline (7 a. m. EST) Friday.

WORLD TODAY

Col. Yigal Yadin, the Jewish Chief of Operations, said the Egyptians suffered 2,500 casualties in the last two weeks of fighting. "But it was a hard fight," he said. "The cost to us also was considerable."

The extended operation took Israeli forces as deep as 48 miles into Egypt.

Sporadic fighting was still reported around the disputed borderline territory near RAFA, even after the cease-fire deadline was reached. The Jews said the Egyptians counteracted at this point and were forced back.

Col. Frank L. Howley, American Commandant, said the Communists planned "to set up a puppet government in Kreuzberg."

Australia, India and the Philippines, joined by Egypt, demanded that the Dutch be ordered to withdraw their troops to positions they held prior to the Netherlands pre-Christmas offensive against the Indonesian Republic.

These countries also demanded that the Dutch release all the Republican leaders arrested by Dutch troops. J. H. Van Royen, Netherlands UN delegate, told the Council that all the leaders had been released, but that four of them, including Pres. Soekarno, were being confined to the Island of Bangka. The Council adjourned until next Tuesday without taking any action.

HERO HAS BRUSH WITH THE LAW—L. C. "Sonny" Wells, 26, right, who received medals for heroism and awards from a number of entertainers such as Kate Smith and Jimmy Fidler, after he rescued a hound dog from the cliff side of Stone Mountain, yesterday was bound over to the Fulton Criminal Court on charges of assault and battery growing out of a cabaret altercation. Shown with Wells are J. A. Bellflower, his attorney, and Mary Blanton, a witness.

GLANCES, ADVANCES CLAIMED

Hero of Dog Rescue Has Brush With Law

L. C. "Sonny" Wells, 26, who received nation-wide honors for the dramatic rescue of a dog from the cliff side of Stone Mountain two years ago, yesterday was bound over to Fulton Criminal Court as a result of a night club altercation.

Recorder A. W. Callaway assessed bond at $200 on charges of assault and battery after John Kanelidis, a GI Tech student from Savannah, testified Wells struck him in the 26 Club on Pine Street, breaking his jaw in two places and knocking out a tooth.

Kanelidis said he had escorted Miss Pearl Outlaw, a waitress from another night club, to the Pine Street Club on the night of Sept. 11. Wells made advances toward Miss Outlaw which she resented, the Tech student said.

"I told him—Wells—that she resented his attentions and then he struck me in the jaw," Kanelidis declared.

Brunette Miss Outlaw said Wells pulled at Kanelidis' coat when they danced by the table at which Wells and a friend sat. She added later, when Kanelidis was at the "bar talking with friends," Wells came over twice and asked her to dance.

Wells came over a third time, she related, tapped Kanelidis on the shoulder and when the Tech student turned, struck him.

Blonde Miss Mary Blanton, of a Baker Street address, confirmed Miss Outlaw's account of the incident.

"I went to the club with a friend," Wells related. "Miss Outlaw and I exchanged glances. Then she came by my table and I asked her to dance. She said I'd have to ask her escort. I went over to ask him. He shoved his chair back and got up. I thought he was going to hit me. So I hit him."

Wells was honored on a national radio program two years ago after he dramatically rescued a hound dog from a ledge over the engraving on Stone Mountain. The dog apparently had wandered too near the cliff side of the mountain and fell, landing on a ledge near the carving. He climbed down the mountain and rescued the dog.

Here Is Truman View Of Economy in Brief

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Here, in summary, is the Nation's economic picture—the record, the outlook and the recommended shifts—as presented by President Truman in his economic report to Congress:

THE GOALS

EMPLOYMENT—Sixty million civilian jobs, as against 1947's record-smashing average of more than 59,000,000.

PRODUCTION—A gain of three to four percent, about equal to last year's.

THE OUTLOOK

PRICES—The over-all rise is at a "welcome" halt; but "dangerous inflationary forces" persist in steel, power and other fields.

COST-OF-LIVING—Preliminary figures for December indicate it is still declining slightly.

THE RECORD

CONSUMER INCOME—It hit a record $211,000,000,000 last year but, offset by price rises, brought "no appreciable gain" in real income.

PROFITS—Another record, $21,000,000,000 after taxes. Mr. Truman said they are too high.

THE RECOMMENDATIONS

A repeat of the "Fair Deal" program he handed Congress Wednesday: A $4,000,000,000 tax increase, falling mainly on business; an eight-point control program including stand-by price-wage and allocation controls; rent control for "at least two more years"; a 1,000,000-home public housing program; a social program embracing higher old-age insurance benefits, 75-cent minimum wage; and a long-range farm program.

Southerners See Delay In Rights Showdown

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Southern Democrats predicted yesterday that President Truman won't risk a civil rights showdown in the Senate for two or three months, maybe longer.

But Dixie foes made it clear they are going to keep their powder dry—just in case.

In his State of the Union message, Mr. Truman told Congress he still stands squarely behind his civil rights proposals which split the Democratic Party last year.

The program calls for a ban on poll taxes in federal elections, anti-segregation measures, making lynching a Federal offense, and creation of a Fair Employment Commission.

But in renewing his request for those things, Mr. Truman also outlined a whopping program covering other pledges he made during the campaign—tax revision, economic controls, housing, broader social security and a long list of other items.

That's why Southern Democratic Senators believe the President won't take a chance on trying for quick action on civil rights.

"He has too much at stake," said Sen. Sparkman, Democrat, Alabama. "After all, civil rights is only one plank in the great big platform. I just don't think he will be willing to jeopardize the bulk of it by picking a fight early in the session."

The fight Sparkman had in mind is the inevitable filibuster Southerners turn to whenever the civil rights issue pops up on the Senate floor. Under present Senate rules it is almost impossible to shut off debate when an organized group of Senators decide they want to talk a measure to death.

There has been a lot of discussion about changing the rules to get around that. But even that proposal can start a filibuster.

Sen. Russell, Democrat, Georgia, said he expects to head a "watchdog" contingent of Dixie Senators in this Congress, as he did in the last. The plan keeps one of them on the floor at all times while the Senate is in session. The purpose is to block any move to get action on a civil rights measure.

Rep. Cox Fears Threat to South In Rules Action

Rep. Eugene E. Cox, Democrat, Georgia, of Camilla, foresees a threat to the South in the action of the House in reducing the power of the Rules Committee.

"A vote for the resolution was a vote for the FEPC (Fair Employment Practice Committee) which is a weapon aimed at the heart of the South, her civilization, and the institutions her people have erected," he said.

In a statement for the Congressional Record, he further expressed his fears for "a great socialistic and economic reversal" as a result of the change.

Negro Welfare To Get Eye of Mississippi Body

JACKSON, Miss.— (AP) —Gov. Fielding L. Wright announced yesterday he planned to appoint an inter-racial committee to study Negro welfare in Mississippi.

The announcement came after an hour-long conference with representatives of the State Division of the Southern Regional Council, who asked establishment of such a committee.

"Their objectives for improving the Negro's welfare are the same as mine," the Governor said, "and appointment of a committee such as they recommended will be a step in the right direction."

British Praise Marshall; Called Truman 'Brake'

LONDON—(UP)—Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin said yesterday that the world, "and more especially Europe," owes a great debt to retiring Secretary of State Marshall.

"His successor, Dean Acheson, is no stranger to us," Bevin added. "And he too may be assured of our continued co-operation."

Bevin's official farewell to the father of the Marshall Plan topped European reaction to the Washington announcement that Marshall is retiring Jan. 20 for reasons of health and will be succeeded by former Undersecretary of State Dean Acheson.

Western official quarters appeared to be worried about whether the change will mean the removal of Marshall's strong restraining hand on President Truman's direct participation in international affairs.

Eastern European diplomats, expressing their views privately, hoped the change would mean a change in America's "cold war" policies and a less rigid attitude toward Russia.

Friedrich Ebert, "Lord Mayor" of the Soviet sector of Berlin, said in a telephone interview that he believed Marshall's resignation might bring about a softening of American foreign policy.

"I would say that the American people, through the re-election of President Truman, strongly objected to Marshall's policies," Ebert said. "I assume his resignation will somewhat diminish the aggressive character of the whole American foreign policy."

Ebert said he had no comment to make on Acheson's appointment.

In Paris, a French foreign office spokesman, recalled that Marshall played a major role in liberating Europe from the Nazis and then went on to originate the plan for European recovery through American aid. He described Marshall as a "great soldier and a great diplomat."

The French spokesman said it would be difficult for him to comment on Acheson "because we know relatively little about him."

Eastern Europeans and some Westerners who disapprove of America's "cold war" tactics were jubilant over the change. One "iron curtain" diplomat said, "Fine. It was Marshall who stopped Truman from sending Chief Justice (Fred) Vinson to Moscow."

Some British official quarters were worried about President Truman losing his "strong brake," but mainly on the Palestine issue. They were worried over whether Acheson could be as successful as Marshall in preventing the President from being completely dominated by pro-Israel advisers.

Bevin paid a glowing tribute to the retiring Secretary. He said "Mr. Marshall became one of the great United States Secretaries of State to whom the world, and more especially Europe, owes a great debt. This great American, who did as much as any one man to win the war, has since devoted his efforts to restoring the wrecked economy of Europe and establishing firm foundations for world peace."

For the moment, most European officials appeared ready to accept Mr. Truman's promise that there will be no change in American foreign policy, but they made it clear that they will follow a "wait and see" policy.

No Soft Policy, Says Truman

WASHINGTON—(UP) — President Truman yesterday heatedly denied a report by the newspaper columnist, Jay Franklin, that the Chief Executive is "determined" to soften the Administration's policy toward Russia.

Franklin, whose real name is J. Franklin Carter, made the statement in an article in Life magazine. He said the President's determination to "wave the olive branch" toward the Soviets had resulted in a rash of "diplomatic goose pimples" at the State Department.

The columnist said he based his observations on "my conversations with the Chief Executive."

Mr. Truman expressed displeasure over the report at the same news conference in which he announced the resignation of Secretary of State George C. Marshall and the appointment of Dean Acheson to succeed him.

Appeasement Talk Ended By Acheson Appointment

By J. M. ROBERTS, JR.,
Associated Press Foreign Affairs Analyst

President Truman has slapped down suggestions that he is going into the appeasement business and appointed a new Secretary of State with a broad background for the cold war.

The President replied to reports that he wanted to soften American policy toward Russia with an unequivocal denial. At the same time he announced the choice of Dean Acheson to succeed Sec. Marshall, whose retirement because of ill health was not unexpected.

Acheson, an early New Deal appointee as Undersecretary of the Treasury, split with Franklin D. Roosevelt over revaluation of the dollar and resigned in 1933. He returned to the government in 1941 as Asistant Secretary of State in 1941.

He has been accused at times of leaning too far left. But he was one of the earliest proponents of intervention in the war against Hitler at a time when the Communist line was all the other way. And he is the wearer of what is, in my book, one of the proudest of all medals, having been the object of a formal protest by the Soviet Government for his views on present Russian policy. He described it as "an aggressive and expanding one."

Weeks ago, when it became apparent that Marshall would retire, Washington experts, going over the list of possible successors, quickly picked Acheson. He had originated much of the current policy, including the Truman doctrine of Soviet containment, and helped draw up the Marshall Plan before leaving the department for private law practice in 1947.

Previously the Offices of Wartime Economic Affairs and the Office of Economic Affairs, dealing with postwar planning, had reported to him, and he also had supervised policy for the Foreign Economic Administration, which conducted economic warfare against Germany. He was chairman of the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Council at Atlantic City in 1944. He helped draw up the original United Nations protocoal in 1942 and the American atomic bomb control proposal for the UN in 1946.

The latter activity brought criticism because he wanted to offer the program as a basis for discussion rather than as a motion for direct action. He was willing to proceed under the Security Council veto procedure. The President had to call in Elder Statesman Bernard Baruch to straighten that one out, and to see to it that, if any control was agreed upon, it should be one with real teeth.

This and some other incidents brought down on Acheson the accusation that he "liked the way of the lawyer—compromise." But even those who disagreed described him as one of the cleverest and shrewdest of lawyers, at that.

He also has been criticized for some of his associations, particularly with Alger Hiss, one of his former right-hand men who had a hand in the atomic business and who is now under indictment for perjury in connection with the investigation of the prewar Russian spy activities.

But Acheson never claimed to be a detective, nor even an economist or a career diplomat.

"Get the best technical advice available and then apply common sense," is his own formula. Former Sec. Byrnes, preoccupied with his many postwar conferences abroad, said:

"I could not have devoted myself so completely to the task . . . had I not known the work of the Department was being efficiently carried on under the direction of a man with the unusual ability and energy of Undersecretary Acheson."

FIGHT RARE MALADY

Mercy Melons From Atlanta Flying to Boy

An Eastern airliner will depart from the Atlanta Airport today on an errand of mercy with watermelons needed by a New Orleans doctor to treat a rare malady suffered by six-year-old Joseph Buhy.

The doctor prescribed watermelon juice but found watermelons a rare commodity at this season. Fulton County Police Chief Neal Ellis and Sgt. George Cornett enlisted the aid of Station WQXI which broadcast an appeal for watermelons. Last night the appeal had produced 12 melons from freezer lockers, and two cans of melon juice. The State Patrol added a quart of concentrated melon juice donated by the Experiment Station near Griffin.

DAY'S WORK

Congress Record Cited

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

President Truman yesterday sent Congress his annual economic report, embodying the principal legislative recommendations he set out in his State of the Union message, plus a few more.

The House, but not the Senate, was in session. Democratic Leader McCormack of Massachusetts told the House that a bill to increase the President's $75,000 salary probably will be taken up next week. There seemed to be general agreement he should get a raise, but the size and method has not been worked out.

Progress was being made on committee assignments, which must be completed before Congress can get down to business. House Democrats agreed to take only 14 of the 25 seats on the Foreign Affairs Committee, same as the Republicans had last session. GOP Leader Martin praised the decision, saying it carried on the spirit of a bi-partisan foreign policy.

Senate Republicans tentatively completed their committee assignments, but held them back until Monday when the conference of all Republican senators will pass on them.

X-I Plane's 1st Climb Tops Record

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The Air Force's "faster than sound" plane, the rocket-powered Bell X-1, has taken off under its own power for the first time, the Air Force disclosed yesterday.

The tiny plane reached an altitude of 23,000 feet in one minute, 40 seconds, it was announced.

This rate of climb exceeds previous records, but the Air Force said no official claim will be made.

The flight took place at the Muroc Air Force base in California, Jan. 3. Capt. Charles E. Yeager, the first pilot to exceed the speed of sound in the plane, was at the controls.

The X-1 averaged a rate of climb of more than 13,000 feet a minute in this test. The Air Force said a propeller plane of fighter type can rise about 6,000 feet a minute. Jet fighters, like the Shooting Star can climb 8,000 feet the first minute and 10,000 the second.

Although originally designed for conventional ground takeoff, the X-1 heretofore had been carried to an altitude of about 20,000 feet by a B-29 Superfortress and then released.

The main reason for the mid-air launching was to utilize all of the little plane's fuel capacity.

The X-1 burns a mixture of ethyl alcohol and liquid oxygen. It can fly two and one half minutes at full power, or for 10 minutes if the four rocket units are used one at a time.

No modifications were made in the plane, nor was any auxiliary power source used in the first ground takeoff. The X-1 remained aloft for about eight minutes. The powered portion of the flight was less than two minutes.

All four rocket motors were used during the takeoff which required a run of 2,300 feet.

The report mentioned specifically that the X-1 has flown "hundreds of miles" fatester than sound, a fact previously disclosed in less formal manner. Sound travels 760 miles an hour at sea level.

Jet Explodes At Miami Show, Killing Pilot

MIAMI, Fla.—(INS)—An Air Forces jet-propelled P-80 "Shooting Star" exploded yesterday while speeding along in formation at 450 miles an hour at the Miami All-American air maneuvers.

The pilot was killed instantly.

An Air Forces spokesman said the right elevator of the jet plane came off while the formation of nine fighters, all from Andrews Field, Md., prepared to buzz the field before the stands.

Spectators said the plane "just broke into a ball of fire and plummeted to the ground."

The formation was zooming along about 500 feet off the ground when the accident occurred about 3:30 p. m. (EST).

The pilot's name was not immediately learned.

Thousands Homeless in Four States As River Floods Reach Record Crests

By International News Service

Clear weather yesterday augured an end to worsening flood conditions in four Southern States.

Some 3,000 persons in Mississippi, Alabama, Tennessee and Georgia remained homeless, however, in stricken areas with indications that several overflowing rivers had get to reach their crests.

At least two met their deaths as a result of the flood conditions.

The deaths took place near Etowah, Tenn. Guy Rickard, of Dearfield, Mich., and Hayes Rickard, Jr., of Britton, Mich., were drowned when their truck plummeted through a bridge into the raging waters of the Hiawassee River.

A 30-mile area along the Tombigbee River at Columbus, Miss., remained the worst hit. Columbus has 2,200 evacuees.

Forecasters said a record crest of 39.5 feet is expected in the Columbus region. The flood stage is 29 feet.

Meanwhile, at Huntsville, Ala., the Tennessee River continued its rise. Some 400 persons have been sheltered by the Red Cross after evacuating their homes in the low-lying Pin Hook Creek region

Observers at Gadsden, Ala., described the situation "improving." However, the Coosa River still menaces the farming region, surpassing the flood stage of 27 feet by almost a foot.

The Warrior River, reported over the rooftops of many dwellings at Warrior, Ala., Thursday, continued to recede steadily yesterday.

At Rome, Ga., the Oostanaula and Etowah Rivers, which meet at that point to form the Coosa, were expected to crest last night at 28 feet, three above flood stage.

The Oostanaula at Resaca, Ga., would crest at midnight at 27 feet. The flood stage is 22 feet.

At two Alabama points, sharp crestings were predicted for Saturday.

They are at Selma and Montgomery. At Montgomery, the surging Alabama River will crest at 42 feet, seven above flood stage.

In Tennessee, 200 families were being sheltered at Fayetteville, while the flooding First Creek near Knoxville sent 35 families from their threatened homes.

WEATHER NEAR NORMAL

Cold Front Breaking Unseasonal Mildness

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A cold front edged into the North Central States from Canada Friday, dropping temperatures 20 to 30 degrees.

In advance of the cold area, the nation from the Rockies to the Atlantic Coast enjoyed unseasonally high temperatures, with much of the blizzard-stricken West experiencing Spring-like readings and a thawing of the heavy snow cover deposited earlier this week.

The cold front is accompanied by little snow, and no high winds, the U. S. Weather Bureau said. A drop of 20 to 30 degrees was expected through the Dakotas and Minnesota last night and today, and over Wisconsin and the Great Lakes region today

Nevertheless, no extremely cold readings were forecast, since temperatures in the area were as much as 35 degrees above normal yesterday in advance of the cold front. The normal minimum temperature in North Dakota and Minnesota is one below zero at this time of the year, and the normal maximum around 10 to 15 above. Norms for South Dakota are only slightly higher.

Yesterday, Pierre, S. D., had a high of 43; Rapid City had 50 and Bismarck, N. D., had 45. But directly north of Bismarck, where the cold wave had started to move in, Minot, N .D., had 26.

Temperatures in the blizzard area had risen "remarkably" by yesterday, a Weather Bureau spokesman said, with the snow "decreasing" in volume and becoming wet as it thawed. Rather high winds still prevailed in that section, but there was no drifting because of the wetness of the snow cover.

Cheyenne, Wyo., hard-hit by the blizzard, reported 48 degrees yesterday, with its snow cover decreasing two inches. North Platte, Neb., had 38 and a three-inch decrease; Valentine, Neb., had 40 and a one-inch decrease, and Pierre, S. D., with its 43, had a three-inch decrease.

California continued to edge back toward comfortable weather, although its readings were still below normal in most sections. Temperatures in the State have recovered a little each day since the coldest weather in 35 years struck there this week and caused crop losses estimated at more than $25,000,000.

In other sections, yesterday's weather was wonderful. Sunny skies and balmy tempertures combined to give the Midwest, Southeast and East Coast a foretaste of Spring. Samples included 74 degrees at Miami; 64 at Charleston, S. C., and Richmond, Va.; 63 at Jacksonville, Fla.; 60 at New Orleons and Washington, D. C.; 56 at Quincy, Ill.; 52 at Kansas City and New York City; 51 at Chicago; 50 at Pittsburgh; 49 at Omaha; 47 at Boston and 39 at Buffalo, New York.

Two Bodies Taken From Hiwassee

BENTON, Tenn.—(AP)—Two bodies were recovered yesterday from a heavy truck which was plunged into swollen Hiwassee River when a bridge collapsed near here Thursday.

The truck was pinned beneath steel girders when two spans of 40-year-old McCroskey Bridge collapsed at 5 p. m. An automobile also was thrown into the river, but its three passengers were rescued.

The Chattanooga office of the State Highway Patrol said patrolmer. at the scene identified the dead men as:

Guy R. Rickard, of Deerfield, Mich., owner of the truck.

Hayes Rickard, Jr., of Britton, Michigan.

The patrol office said ages of the two men and whether they were related could not immediately be determined.

A rescue crew equipped with a bulldozer, wrecker and acetylene torches recovered the bodies from the wreckage of the truck.

The passengers in the automobile—Wes Harbison, 55; Harold Culpepper, 45, and R. L. Lanning, 28. all of Delano, Tenn.—escaped from the car. They stood on steel pilings until they were rescued by men in a rubber boat.

A spokesman for the U. S. Air Force said two bodies had been recovered and a police rescue squad reported that four bodies could be seen inside the cabin of the charred plane.

The plane was en route from Rheinmain airport in Germany to Burtonwood for servicing. It carried three passengers and a three-man crew.

Actress Is Gem Theft Victim

NEW YORK—(UP)—A platinum-blonde Romanian actress revealed yesterday that $200,000 in diamonds, emeralds and rubies had been stolen from her apartment in the latest of a fantastic series of gem burglaries in Manhattan's plush residential area.

The burglar or burglars left not a clue in looting of the seven-room apartment of Erhart Ruegg, wealthy textile broker, and his beautiful wife, Lisette Verea, a cafe society favorite and an actress who has appeared in night clubs, on Broadway and in the movies since she came to the United States seven years ago.

Deputy Chief Inspector Conrad H. Rothengast, head of all East Side Manhattan detectives, was assigned to the case as police sought to break a ring suspected of staging half a dozen similar burglaries in recent months.

In the past year and one-half, victims have included Clare Boothe Luce, Actress Gene Tierney, Singer Gertrude Niesen, Model Lynn Gilmore, Mrs. Sari Gabor Hilton, ex-wife of the hotel chain magnate, and Mrs. Sona Loew, estranged wife of the movie chain executive.

The last theft was on Dec. 8 when $30,000 in jewels were stolen from the hotel suite of Mrs. Sidney Waldon, of Hamilton, Ohio. Previous largest theft of gems was that of $60,000 from Mrs. Samuel Le Savoy on Oct. 19.

All have occurred in the fashionable areas of Manhattan, previous locales including the Waldorf-Astoria, Ritz - Carlton and Croydon hotels. Arrests were made in the Tierney, Loew, Savoy and Gilmore thefts but the others remain unsolved.

Thursday night's burglary occurred between 8 and 11 p. m. The Rueggs were visiting friends, their maid had left for the day and their butler was out on an errand.

'Contact Man' In Costa Rica Gun Sale Held

WASHINGTON—(UP)—FBI agents yesterday arrested John Benjamin Walling, of Washington, on charges that he was the "contact man" who arranged a sale of stolen Government guns to the Costa Rican Government.

He was seized in the FBI's field headquarters in the Justice Department building here, and was arraigned immediately before a U. S. Commissioner; charged with theft of Government property.

He was held in $2,500 bond.

According to the FBI, Walling contacted the Costa Rican Government and arranged for the sale of 138 guns that were stolen from the Raritan, N. J., arsenal.

He is the twelfth member of an alleged gun theft ring to be taken into custody since the FBI broke the case New Year's Eve.

Woman Held To Grand Jury

Mrs. Ruby D. Cash, 49, yesterday was bound over to the Fulton County Grand Jury under $1,000 bond on charges of setting fire to a duplex at 550 Morgan St., N. E., and threatening to fire another home at 546 Morgan St.

Recorder A. W. Callaway fixed the bond after Mrs. Cash failed to appear in court. Jail attaches said Mrs. Cash, held without bond on an arson charge, was ready for the courtroom when court convened, but had undressed and gone to bed before her case was called.

Mrs. Cash was arrested Thursday by Dets. Roy Pendley and M. W. Blackwell on the arson complaint.

New Decatur Commission Indorses School Tax Hike

By PAUL JONES

At its initial meeting yesterday Decatur's newly elected City Commission passed resolutions calling for an increased school levy and the establishment of a new Parks and Recreation Department.

The school-levy resolution will ask State legislative permission to increase the city school tax from the present 7½ mills to 12½ mills. In the conceusus of the Commission, this new revenue, together with monies anticipated should the Minimum Educational Foundation Fund bill be adopted by the Legislature, will enable the City to broaden its school program and at the same time place education on a self-supporting basis.

Permission from the Legislature also is sought in the proposal to add a new Parks and Recreation Department. Should this go through, Decatur then will launch an expanded recreation program under a Parks Department Director and a Board of Recreation.

The Parks and Recreation Department would be Decatur's seventh department. Under the present charter, another department is not permitted. The new department would be answerable to the City Manager.

The Committee deferred action on the proposal to revamp the City business license structure. This will be taken up at a meeting Monday or at one to be called at a later date.

The Commission renewed its liability insurance contract with American Mutual Liability Insurance Company and at the same time pointed out that due to the City's fine safety record last year it will receive a dividend of 28.8 percent.

BRER RABBIT'S COMING TOMORROW

Well, suh, one of the comic strips' most impertinent characters, Brer Rabbit, comes sashaying down the road to Atlanta in tomorrow's Comic Weekly section of THE CONSTITUTION.

He'll visit all the old familiar places and even the famous Confederates, Jeff Davis, Robert E. Lee and Stonewall Jackson will look down from their perch on Stone Mountain to pass a few words with the chipper little fellow. His meeting with Mister Dog is not quite so pleasant, though.

'PEOPLE ARE SO GOOD'

Atlantans Flock To Aid of Mother And 3 Children Awaiting Eviction

By CELESTINE SIBLEY

It's an old story to those who have watched it—the unfailing goodness of Atlantans.

But it came as a complete surprise to Mrs. Maybelle Edey, 36, mother of three children, yesterday as she hovered over a little two-eye heater dreading the noon hour deadline for her eviction.

"There came a knock at the door," she reported later, "and there stood a lady I'd never seen before. Mrs. Annie Smith, of 348 Kelly St., S. E. She said she had come to help assist me with a room. Can you imagine? She didn't know us from Adam! But she was too good-hearted to let my little children be put out on the street!"

There were others who were "too good-hearted" to stand by and see a helpless mother and three children homeless.

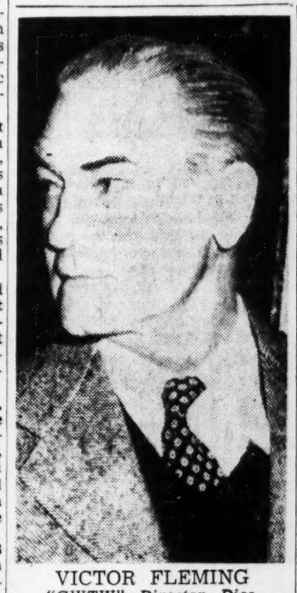
Ray Olds, a Capitol Avenue ice cream manufacturer, was one of them. He sent his truck to move us. Mrs. Edey and her few little belongings. He paid a month's rent for her at the new address and went across the street to a furniture store and bought her a bed and mattress.

An unidentified Good Samaritan knocked on the door and handed in a folded bill "for the little ones." A minister from a neighboring church arrived and neighbors dropped by to help pack. There were countless calls from kind-hearted citizens who wanted to take care of one or all of the children until Mrs. Edey could find a place. A worker from the Child Welfare Association arrived to offer emergency housing for the children.

"I appreciate it all," said Mrs. Edey, "but as long as I can keep body and soul together I won't be separated from my children. If I can't do for them somehow I might just as well take a pistol to myself because there'd be no need for me to live."

But Mrs. Edey felt decidedly like living yesterday as she watched neighbors load her belongings on the truck.

"People are good," murmured the weary, shabby mother, bundling Clarence, six weeks old, into a blanket and putting caps and jackets on Louise, 14 months and James, two years. "People are so good!"



VICTOR FLEMING
"GWTW" Director Dies

V. Fleming, Director of 'Wind', Dies

Victor Fleming, 60, noted film director, who directed Hollywood's greatest extravaganza, "Gone With the Wind," died yesterday near his ranch home at Cottonwood, Ariz., after a heart attack.

Fleming was stricken Thursday night while vacationing with his family and he died in an automobile while en route to the Cottonwood Hospital.

He was one of screenland's most prominent directors. During his long career in the movies he piloted to fame such stars as Spencer Tracy, Douglas Fairbanks, Clark Gable and Jean Harlow.

Fleming remained in California when Atlanta paid its highest tribute to his film version of "Gone with the Wind." Although David O. Selznick, Producer of the film: Vivien Leigh, Clark Gable and numerous other screen personalities came to the City for the gala opening, Fleming preferred to stay out of the limelight. He only recently completed "Joan of Arc," another great film extravaganza.

His directional achievements in "Gone with the Wind" won for him the 1939 Academy Award as the top director. The film also captured numerous other Academy accolades that year.

Fleming was a racing car driver and bicycle mechanic before his talents turned to repairing motion picture cameras. During his late years, he was associated with MGM, where he directed such noteworthy films as "Captains Courageous," "The Virginian," "Treasure Island," and others.

CIO To Launch Membership Drive Here

CIO organizers from throughout the Southeast today will inaugurate the union's $1,500,000 per year membership drive as they begin a two-day conference at 2 p. m. at the Wigwam, 106 Central Ave., S. W.

Van A. Bittner, CIO Southern Drive Director, called the Atlanta conference following the November CIO convention in Portland, Ore. Bittner's reported goal is doubling the CIO's membership in 1949. The organization now claims between 800,000 and 1,000,000 members in the South.

An "invitation" list issued by Bittner to organizers excluded Presidents of CIO's extreme left-wing unions. The inference was the Southern Drive Director plans to offer no assistance to the Communist-dictated groups.

Atlanta hosts to the delegates said yesterday they "had expected about 300, but it now appeared 600 organizers would participate in sessions here." Visiting CIO officials include Allan Heywood, Director of Organization; Emil Rieve, President of the Textile Workers Union of America, and Jacob Rotofsky, President of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers.

Bettis Drunk Case Dropped

On the ground of insufficient evidence, Criminal Court Sol. John I. Kelley yesterday dropped a case of drunk driving against Frank Bettis, of 1582 Howell Mill Rd., who was arrested the night of Dec. 4 shortly after he had protested against a Klan parade at Holmes Street.

The only comment of Fulton Police Chief Neal Ellis was "We were prepared to go to trial."

Bettis was arrested on Northside Drive by Patrolmen D. T. Kirkland and J. D. Roberts. Shortly before Bettis had vigorously protested the assembly of klansmen for a parade in the neighborhood of the Underwood Methodist Church on Holmes Street, saying that it was disturbing sick relatives nearby. Police warned him to leave the scene, and he was arrested later some distance away.

The Rev. Kenneth Brown, of the Underwood Methodist Church, later charged County police with participating in the parade. The charge was emphatically denied by Ellis, who said he had merely done his duty in having the parade policed since he had no authority to prohibit it.

He later requested County Atty. W. S. Northcutt to seek passage in the General Assembly of a law authorizing him to prevent such parades.

Bishop's Home Damaged by Fire

The large brick home of W. A. Fountain, Bishop of Oklahoma and Arkansas, of the AME Church, was damaged by fire and smoke yesterday when a coal bin caught fire from the furnace in the basement of the residence at 242 Boulevard, N. E.

The Bishop was in his study, just above the furnace room, when he smelled smoke and sounded the alarm.

Four fire companies sped to the house in the thickly populated area near Highland Avenue, and prevented spread of the flames.

Only Seven Holdovers Back With Champ Vols

The Saturday Serenade:

Only seven members of the 1948 championship Nashville Vols are still on Larry Gilbert's roster. . . . They are Pitchers Pete Mallory, Dick Conger, Art Cuccurullo and Lee Holloman and Inielders Buster Boguskie, Hal Quick and Ted Cieslak. . . . Ernie Harwell, former "voice" of the Crackers and now signed to air the Brooklyn games, is around town on a short vacation. . . . The brains behind the 1949 New Orleans club will include a couple of former Cracker teammates, Manager Hugh Luby and Coach Buster Chatham. . . . Kenny Rollins, captain of Kentucky's basketball team last year, is running first string with the professional Chicago Stags. . . . The Sporting News ran a contest on picking football games during the season, became suspicious when the same man won twice in three weeks with perfect selections and breathed easier when he was arrested on the charges of using the mails to defraud and tampering with a United States postmark. . . .

Likes Sand Circus Clown, a horse stabled at Miami's Hialeah Park, takes every opportunity to roll in the sand outside his barn door and refuses to get up. . . . One of Calumet's horses at the same place is a radio bug. . . . He listens for hours to a portable radio installed on a shelf outside his stall. . . . Speaking of Calumet, Trainer Jimmy Jones says Delux is his main hope for the Kentucky Derby this year but admits he doesn't have too much confidence of winning with him. . . . In contrast, Fred Hooper has high hopes of winning with Ocean Drive. . . . Our vote for 1948's most unusual happening: Wofford College's five consecutive tie football games. . . . Scientists are now engaged in a hot controversy over whether or not a knuckle ball really dips. . . . Joe Engel is expecting 180 pupils for his Washington baseball school which starts Monday at Winter Garden. . . . Skipper George Myatt will be head master. . . .

Behind Butts Commenting on rumors about Georgia players and Wally Butts, Ken Stambaugh suggests the mongers should have been at the post-game party for both Texas and the Bulldogs. . . . "They would have heard one of the most spontaneous ovations ever given a coach when Wally Butts was called to the stage," he wired. . . . "The players, man for man and as a team, rose to their feet, whistling, cheering and applauding. . . . The Bulldogs even surpassed the greeting the Longhorns gave their victorious Coach Cherry." . . . Adele Bloch, 21-year-old daughter of the late Maurice Bloch, has succeeded her father as Vice President of the Selma baseball club. . . . Although Don Faurot talked with Bobby Dodd at some length after the 'Gator Bowl game, chances are slim that Tech and Missouri will get together on a football series in the near future. . . . However, watch for the Jackets to add a Southwest team within the next couple of years. . . .

Rebel Frosh Any idea that Ole Miss' football team won't have ample replacements coming up next season was dispelled when John Vaught awarded 40 freshman numerals. . . . After 27 rejections for a name for a filly, a California breeder came back at the Jockey Club registrar with "Uname It" . . . which was approved and accepted as the horse's name. . . . J. B. Easterlin, Jr., of Montezuma, reports the bagging of a white quail in Lee County by H. W. Easterlin. . . . The Dodgers expect to process 700 ball players at their baseball factory this Spring. . . . It is located at Vero Beach, Fla. . . . Bill Hart, the veteran Mobile third baseman, will manage the Cairo, Ill., team of the Class D Kitty League this season. . . . The Sugar Bowl is getting the reputation as being a graveyard for officials. . . . One of them, J. D. Rogers, got the works from fans for calling three roughing the kicker penalties in this year's game.

War Trophy Sets Record

ARCADIA, Cal.—(AP)—War Trophy established a track record for one mile yesterday at Santa Anita of 1:35 2/5 to capture the $10,000 San Bernardino Handicap.

The thoroughbred beat Quarter Pole by a length and one-quarter and Jockey Mike Caxfarella had his mount fourth at the three-quarters pole and third as he came to the stretch.

At the head of the stretch Rippey was in the lead by four lengths, but there War Trophy turned on the heat and won going away. Quarter Pole quickly ran down Rippey. Rippey, strictly a sprinter, held onto the show spot.

War Trophy paid $11, $3.70 and $2.80.

Howard Five Dumps Petrels By 81-61 Count

Howard College of Birmingham handed Oglethorpe's Petrels their second straight Dixie Conference basketball setback last night on the Oglethorpe court, 81-61.

Oglethorpe made a close battle of it for the first half, the lead changed six times, but then the visitors, with Marvin Gann finding the range, pulled away to a 37-25 intermission lead and went on to win easily.

A. Z. Johnson of the Petrels was high scorer for the night with 23 points and Gann was next with 22.

Tech Bows To Tulane, 73 to 52

NEW ORLEANS— (AP) —Tulane University opened its home Southeastern Basketball Conference schedule here last night by defeating Georgia Tech, 73-52.

Playing before a full house of 5,500 fans, who disagreed loudly with many of the officials' decisions, the Green Wave overcame an early Yellow Jacket lead to build up a 39-30 advantage at halftime.

Most of the time, Georgia Tech was within 10 points of Tulane and it was anyone's game for all but the final seven minutes. Then, with time running out, the visiting Yellow Jackets grew panicky.

Happy Boston Yank Owner Heaps Praise on Rauch After Pact Signing

YEADON, Pa.—(AP)—Johnny Rauch—the man the Boston Yanks "really wanted"—said yesterday he has signed a three-year contract with that National Football League Club.

"That's my man," yipped Owner Ted Collins of the Yanks.

Rauch, voted the outstanding performer in the Southeastern Conference in 1948, was one of the nation's top passers as he led the University of Georgia Bulldogs to the Conference title and into the Orange Bowl on New Year's Day.

Collins, who will move his club to New York next season, said that he thinks Rauch — No. 1 choice in the NFL draft—will improve the Yanks' attack.

The Yeadon quarterback "has great potentialities," Collins exclaimed. "He has the weight and height an dhe operated in good company. That's no pushover league down there."

Rauch, a onetime schoolboy star in the Philadelphia suburbs, was the first pick of the Detroit Lions in the league draft. But the Lions immediately swapped draft rights for Rauch to the Yanks in exchange for the right to talk contract with Doak Walker of Southern Methodist.

Collins and Rauch said they went over contract terms at Miami after the Orange Bowl game which Georgia lost to Texas, 41-28.

Rauch wouldn't tell how much the contract provides but he added it "wasn't too much. It wasn't as much as some of the salaries you've been reading about."

He added quickly, "but I'm very satisfied."

But he didn't explain why he turned down whatever offer was made him by the New York Yankees of the All-America Conference, which drew draft rights to Rauch in the AAC draft.

Collins, meanwhile, said that he expects to sign within a few days an agreement with the New York Giants and the owners of the Polo Grounds for the Yanks to play their home games at the Polo Grounds.

The AAC Yankees operate out of Yankee Stadium.

Suggs and Babe Arrive Enroute To Tampa Meet

By BERT PRATHER

Louise Suggs and Babe Zaharias, two of feminine golf's most celebrated and betitled performers, dropped in out of the skies last night at the Municipal Airport for a short visit here before heading for the Tampa Women's Open at the Palma Ceia Country Club starting Jan. 20.

Miss Suggs and Mrs. Zaharias, both of whom won every major title in women's amateur golf before turning professional, came in by plane from Hollywood, Cal., where they have been engaged in making a golf movie for the Western Golf Association. The movie, which also included such stars as Ben Hogan and Sammy Snead, will be shown at golf clubs throughout the country. Proceeds from these showings will go into the Western's fund to be used to send deserving caddies to college. The program was originated by Chick Evans, of Chicago, former National Amateur champion.

Louise was met by her mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Suggs, of Carrollton, while The Babe was greeted by her huge hubby, George Zaharias. George and the Babe will leave Atlanta today for Dunedin, Fla., for a few days at the Seniors meet before moving over to Tampa.

Louise plans to stay with the family at Carrollton, where her father is professional, for a few days before taking off for the Land of Sunshine. She will leave Jan. 14.

Most of the leading amateurs and practically all the top professionals will participate in the Tampa Open. Betty Jameson is the defending champion.

Sibley accounted for 18 of the points for the Griffin girls and Strime and Dullgan chipped in with 11 each. Jacobs and Nyland bagged 13 each for Decatur. The home sextet led only 15-12 at halftime but pulled away in the late stages.

Murphy Rallies To Nip Brown, 28-24; Carson Scores 25 as Roosevelt Wins

By JESSE OUTLAR

Murphy's Eagles staged a strong last-quarter comeback last night to nip an upset-minded crew of Brown Rebels, 28-24, before a capacity crowd at Grady gym, after Roosevelt trounced Baker, of Columbus, 52-39, in the first game of a double-header.

Center Milford Bennett and Guard Joe Willingham sparked the late rally, which enabled Murphy to overcome a 21-17 third-quarter deficit and remain atop the City League standings.

Brown watched the defending champions jump into a 7-3 advantage in the first three minutes and then turned on the steam. It was a replay of the Evening College finals which Murphy won by one point from then on.

Brown hung on grimly, leading by four markers as the final quarter got under way, but Bennett, handcuffed without a point in the first half, caught fire.

After two minutes of the last quarter elapsed, the Eagles pulled up even on a one-handed basket by Buck Bradberry. A moment later, Bennett faked and zoomed under for a snowbird to put Murphy out front 23-21.

Murphy takes on Decatur in a non-league game tonight at 7:30 at Grady and Grady meets Bass in a City League tilt in the second game.

Thereafter, Brown, Rodgers, Bobby Smith and Company tried desperately, but Murphy had no intentions of relinquishing the hard-earned lead.

Willingham dribbled in for another two-pointer and Murphy had a four-point margin, which Rodgers trimmed to two with a pair of gratis heaves. Willingham matched Rodgers' two tosses to make it, 27-23, with three minutes remaining.

Then Willingham was fouled again, dropping in Murphy's last point. Brannon made the final Brown marker from the foul line.

Bennett, Willingham and Bradberry, who collected eight points, were the Murphy bright lights, while Rodgers, Smith and Chuck Brannon kept Brown aflame.

The opener featured an excellent offensive exhibition by Roosevelt's stellar Center Johnny Carson. Finding the range for nine field goals and seven foul tosses Johnny collected 25 points to put the Tide's second victory of the official season into the books by a comfortable margin.

Baker, with little Buddy Ellerbee dropping in 14 points, mostly from long range, kept Roosevelt hustling for three quarters, trailing by only four points, but wilted in the final frame.

The lineups:

Jimmy Conzelman Quits As Cardinal Grid Coach

CHICAGO—(AP)—Colorful Jimmy Conzelman, coach of the Chicago Cardinals, pro football club of the National League, yesterday handed in his resignation to Mrs. Charles Bidwell, Chairman of the Board of Directors.

Contents of the letter, mailed from St. Louis, are to be made public at a press conference today.

A club spokesman said: "His resignation came like a bolt from the blue. It was entirely unexpected. He had one year to go under his present contract."

Conzelman for the last two years has been working during off seasons with the D'Arcy Advertising Agency, of St. Louis. A spokesman said he had decided to quit football to devote full time to the advertising firm.

Conzelman, now 49, succeeded Ernie Nevers as head coach of the Cardinals in 1940 after tutoring football eight years at his alma mater, Washington University, of St. Louis.

A fun-loving, affable personality, white-maned Conzelman brought color to the Cards and eventually the National League championship as well. That was in 1947, when Charlie Trippi—a $100,000 investment made by Owner Charlie Bidwill before he died—helped drive the club to its greatest heights. Conzelman was named pro coach of 1947 by The Quarterback, national football weekly.

The Cardinals grew under Conzelman and Bidwill from a second-rate league team into a classy powerhouse. From 1940 through 1943, the club won only eight games.

Then Conzelman withdrew to spend the war years in the front office of the St. Louis Browns as assistant to the president and public relations director.

Charley Ewart Ponders Six Offers For Eagles; Ends Crooner Laine's Bid

By HERB ALTSCHULL

PHILADELPHIA—(AP)—Charley Ewart shuffled through a half dozen offers for the Philadelphia Eagles yesterday and dealt out a bid by Crooner Frankie Laine, who wanted to move the club to San Francisco.

Ewart, who speaks sometimes as backfield coach and other times as general manager of the National Football League champions was talking as official club salesman yesterday.

He said he is not interested in having the Eagles moved out of the city and that he didn't think Laine "could get it moved" since all NFL club owners must sanction a shift in franchise.

Commisioner Bert Bell echoed Ewart. "I am positive," Bell said, "that National Football League members would not even consider moving the Philadelphia Eagles out of Philadelphia."

Owner Alexis Thompson, who gave Ewart a 60-day option to sell the club, is asking between $250,000 and $300,000 for the NFL titlists.

"If I had the money, I'd buy it myself," Ewart said. "You could hardly consider it speculation. It's actually an investment."

James P Clark, owner of a large trucking concern in Philadelphia, is the only person other than Laine to have stated publicly an interest in buying the team.

Ewart said he would not disclose the identity of the other bidders at this time.

Clark, who said he is spokesman for about 30 or 40 persons in a Philadelphia syndicate, told a reporter he has been negotiating with Ewart for several days and that "it looks to me as if we can work it out."

Clark said he expects to talk with Thompson in three or four days. Thompson gave Ewart the option with the understanding that final approval to any sale must be given by Thompson.

Sale of a league team also must be okayed by the other NFL owners.

Ewart explained he was given the option so that he might arrange an agreement whereby Ewart would continue to have charge of operating the club and Earle (Greasy) Neale would continue to direct the team.

"One of the major purposes of the arrangement," Ewart said, "is that I could arrange with the new club owner to have it understood that he is to leave Greasy alone in running the team."

"Greasy and I work together very closely," Ewart said. "He told me he'll be satisfied with any deal I approve."

Turning back to the Laine offer, Ewart said he would be glad to receive a formal offer from the singer, but that he wants it understood it would be rejected if the franchise-moving proposition was insisted upon.

GOLDEN JUBILEE

Fiftieth Running of Georgia Trials Set at Waynesboro Monday Morning

WAYNESBORO—All the tradition and color of a half a century of field trials and the memories of the great men and dogs connected with them will flood the picture-lined lobby of the Anthony Wayne Hotel, the traditional headquarters of the Georgia Field Trials Association, as notables from the world of the dog and quail begin arriving for the fiftieth running of the Georgia Field Trials, beginning here Monday, Jan. 10.

More than 100 dogs are expected to be represented in the drawing for braces which will follow the annual Field Trial Association banquet, to be held this year in rustic dignity of McCullough's Mill, Sunday at 8 p. m. Monday morning, the actual running of the trials will get under way on the old Sidney Jones place, with Judges Hoover Black, Charlotte, N. C., and Bill Plowden, Sumter, S. C., weighing the merits of the dogs contending in the amateur stakes. Dogs in the amateur events will compete for the traditional field trial trophies which will include the "Sim Bell Trophy" for the winner of the "Amateur Derby," and "The Georgia Field Trials Association Cup" for the winner of "The Amateur All-Age" event.

Immediately upon the completion of the amateur events, the "Georgia Open All-Age" contest will begin. One hour heats will decide this event, the winners of which will receive a $1,000 purse divided 50-30-20 among the first three placers. Judges of this event as well as the succeeding trial, "The Georgia Open Derby," will be Dewitt Sinclair, Winter Haven, Fla., and Coyle E. Moore, Tallahassee, Fla. The Georgia Open Derby, which is usually the high point of the meet, will conclude the trials. Winners will receive a 50-30-20 diviison of 70% of the total entry fee. Cups and other awards are scheduled to be gold instead of the usual silver to celebrate the organization's golden anniversary. The club was founded in 1899 Dr. W. B. Hirleman, President of the Association, says that this promises to be one of the best years in field trial history, as far as the number of birds are concerned. More birds and larger coveys have been found on the trial's hunting ground this year than there have been in recent years.

"Jock's Joe," a Lewellin setter, owned by G. D. Richardson, will be watched with especial interest this year since he is one of the few of last year's winners returning.

School Body Ponders $15 Pay Hike

School leaders yesterday pondered the ability of the Atlanta Board of Education to match the City in providing a $15 monthly salary hike for employees making less than $300 a month as they prepared to formulate the 1949 school budget.

Miss Ida Jarrell, School Superintendent, said administration officials have already begun a study of school finances with a view of attempting to provide the same salary increase for school workers, but no decision has been reached.

The 1949 City finance sheet, which has been approved by the Finance Committee and is slated for passage by Council Jan. 17, provides an allocation of $3,583,000 for schools for the current year, a figure $286,606 less than the $4,869,606 actually paid to the school system last year.

"We will do the very best we can for lower paid school employees," Miss Jarrell said, "and if we can match the City's program for non-school workers we will do so. We must, however, consider the costs. The $434,000 cost for non-school employees looks large to us. We can not do that and continue to supplement bond funds in the school expansion program as we have done in the past."

Miss Jarrell said she expects the Board probably will begin its study of the 1949 school budget probably the latter part of next week.

LOVE TRAIL ENDS

U. S. Admits GI's Fiancee From Rome

NEW YORK— (AP) —A 19-year-old war fiancee was freed at Ellis Island yesterday and left with her soldier sweetheart ready to marry "as soon as possible."

Gioia Culley, the girl, arrived by plane from Rome Thursday night but was retained because her visa had expired.

After her fiance, Sgt. Robert Reynolds, of Fort Belvoir, Va., arrived to claim her, the Immigration Service waived the visa requirement and admitted her to the United States.

Miss Culley's detention climaxed a series of misfortunes which had dogged her romance with Reynolds for three years. She is the daughter of an American-born father, and met Reynolds when he was stationed in Rome.

The sergeant said she would live with friends near Fort Belvoir until their marriage, which both agreed would be soon.

"We're going to drive back to Fort Belvoir," he said as they arrived in Manhattan from Ellis Island.

But Miss Culley demurred. "Not until I see Times Square first," she insisted.

days or months," but "something is due to pop" in Kilauea, which has an almost perfectly round crater two miles wide that is described as a "plug over the bowels of the volcanic region underlying that section of Hawaii.

The four-place Stinson plane carrying three persons set out from Hilo yesterday for Honolulu, intending to make a sightseeing flight over Mauna Lao. It had four hours' fuel. It was last seen disappearing at an altitude of about 9,000 feet into the turbulent tower of smoke over the crater. Authorities expressed fear that it had been cought in the wild, sudden updrafts and downdrafts.

Aboard the Stinson, hours overdue, were James Redmon, pilot; Frank Lee, Honolulu manager of the Lee Champion Industrial Equipment Co., who chartered the flight, and an unidentified passenger. Reported aboard the Piper Cub were a Doctor Hatlett and the pilot, identified as "Rickle."

Mauna Loa split in an orgy of volcanic pyrotechnics seldom equalled in its four-year cycle of eruptions. The 2½ mile cone spewed forth molten rock nightlong through a three-mile crack in its southwest wall and sent a towering cloud of smoke and powdery cinders 15,000 feet into the air.

The pall of smoke could be seen 200 miles away by fliers and the glow from the crater was visable for nearly 100 miles in the night sky.

VIRGINIAN SUGGESTS LABORATORY

Industrial Research Seen As Salvation for South

A Southern businessman said yesterday unions and the Federal minimum wage law were eliminating one of the South's major assets —cheap labor.

And as a result, said Eugene B. Sydnor, Jr., Vice President of the Richmond Dry Goods Company, the South is better off economically.

Hence, said the Virginian, the South is losing a competitive advantage which must find compensation in an extension of research activities in the region.

Sydnor suggested that industries as groups might find it profitable to set up a research laboratory for use in attacking common problems. He pointed out that there are 30 trade association laboratories operating successfully all over the country, financed usually through membership fees or assessments.

Sydnor spoke at the concluding session of a two-day meeting sponsored by the Southern Association of Science and Industry at the Biltmore Hotel.

Sydnor also said it would be possible to set up research labs similar to the Southern Research Institute which was financed on a non-profit basis in Birmingham, by private industry.

Another speaker, Dr. Hubert E. Morris, director of Research for the Texas Division of Monsanto, warned the 200-odd businessmen and researchers that science should take notice of the depletion of basic minerals and fuels.

Dr. Morris said that with the dwindling supplies of fuel and other basic minerals, business and researchers should get together and find substitutes. Use the sun or the earth for fuel, he said, develop soil sciences.

Dr. William M. Murray, Jr., Director of the Southern Research Institute, advised that the only way to accomplish research was "to do it yourself."

"My answer to the question o who should sponsor research is very simple—you," Dr. Murray said. "If you or your company feel that you are not able to carry the burden, then the next best thing is to get your associates to share the venture with you. But the important thing is to get the job done."

Increase Productivity, Industrialist Urges

Declaring that collectivists keep us fighting among ourselves over prices, profits and wages, Morris Sayre, Chairman of the Board of the National Association of Manufaturers said yesterday that it was everybody's job—labor's as well as management's—to lick inflation through greater productivity.

"Productivity has increased only 10 percent in the last 10 years as against the 1869-1929 average increase of 3 percent," he told members of the Atlanta Lions' Club.

That rate of increase must be increased substantially to put today's high wages on a sound basis, he said.

Speaking on "Tomorrow Unlimited," Sayre, who is President of the Corn Products Refining Company of New York City, said Americans could build their tomorrow the same interplay of capital and opportunity which our forefathers used.

TRUMAN

tion is held to determine whether it is "justified."

He did not specifically ask Congress to enact wage controls. But he quoted from a previous message to the old Congress in which he said the Government "should have" power to prevent any wage hike which would upset an established price ceiling.

Mr. Truman referred in only a general way to his State of the Union message proposal that the Government seek expansion of steel output either by loans to private industry or by building its own steel plants.

All his economic report had to say on the subject was that "there are shortages of supply in certain critical areas" which threaten to handicap the Nation's economic growth. He recommended legislation providing funds for a "careful survey" of the situaiton. He added that "to the extent that facts reveal the need, (the legislation) should provide additional authority to deal more effectively with inadequacy of capacity and supply."

On taxes, Mr. Truman said government revenues must be raised $4,000,000,000 in the fiscal year 1950, and he added that most of it should come from "additional taxes on corporate profits." In another section of his report, he said corporation profits reached an all-time high of $21,000,000,000 after taxes last year, and called this an "excess . . . level."

School Body Ponders $15 Pay Hike

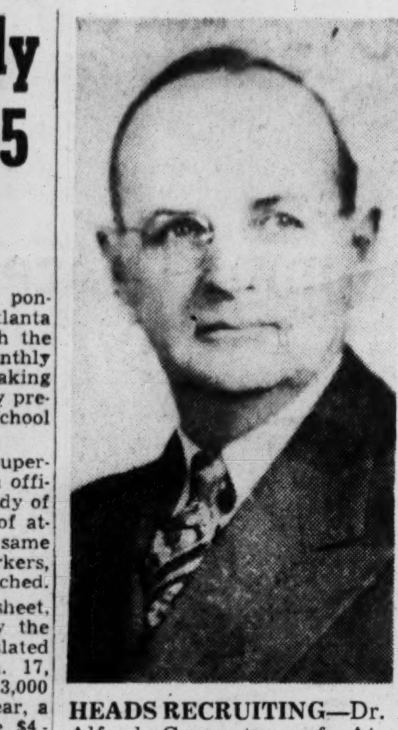
School leaders yesterday pondered the ability of the Atlanta Board of Education to match the City in providing a $15 monthly salary hike for employees making less than $300 a month as they prepared to formulate the 1949 school budget.

Miss Ida Jarrell, School Superintendent, said administration officials have already begun a study of school finances with a view of attempting to provide the same salary increase for school workers, but no decision has been reached.

The 1949 City finance sheet, which has been approved by the Finance Committee and is slated for passage by Council Jan. 17, provides an allocation of $3,583,000 for schools for the current year, a figure $286,606 less than the $4,869,606 actually paid to the school system last year.

"We will do the very best we can for lower paid school employees," Miss Jarrell said, "and if we can match the City's program for non-school workers we will do so. We must, however, consider the costs. The $434,000 cost for non-school employees looks large to us. We can not do that and continue to supplement bond funds in the school expansion program as we have done in the past.

Miss Jarrell said she expects the Board probably will begin its study of the 1949 school budget probably the latter part of next week.



HEADS RECRUITING—Dr. Alfred Carpenter, of Atlanta, has accepted directorship of the Chaplain's Commission of the Southern Baptist Convention and will direct recruiting of chaplains.

LOVE TRAIL ENDS

U. S. Admits GI's Fiancee From Rome

NEW YORK— (AP) —A 19-year-old war fiancee was freed at Ellis Island yesterday and left with her soldier sweetheart ready to marry "as soon as possible."

Gioia Culley, the girl, arrived by plane from Rome Thursday night but was retained because her visa had expired.

After her fiance, Sgt. Robert Reynolds, of Fort Belvoir, Va., arrived to claim her, the Immigration Service waived the visa requirement and admitted her to the United States.

Miss Culley's detention climaxed a series of misfortunes which had dogged her romance with Reynolds for three years. She is the daughter of an American-born father, and met Reynolds when he was stationed in Rome.

The sergeant said she would live with friends near Fort Belvoir until their marriage, which both agreed would be soon.

"We're going to drive back to Fort Belvoir," he said as they arrived in Manhattan from Ellis Island.

But Miss Culley demurred. "Not until I see Times Square first," she insisted.

T.B. Jones Hero Of Auto Crash

A 64-year-old motorist whose car skidded on a bridge and plunged into Nancy's Creek yesterday managed to save himself and his 10-year-old niece, Fulton County police reported.

The driver, T. B. Jones, of 5104 Roswell Rd., a retired telephone company executive, was taken to Crawford Long Hospital and the niece, Carol White, to Grady for treatment. Police said the car landed upside down in the creek and that Jones succeeded in opening a door and dragging his niece ashore.

Patrolmen W. H. Phillips and W. O. Alanson described Jones "as really a hero."

E., against the Milton Bradley Company and R. E. Benson. Cooper alleged that his 15-year-old son lost an eye through explosion of a "feather bomb" which the Company allegedly sold to Benson, and Benson in turn allegedly sold to the boy.

Agnes Scott Purchases Telescope

Agnes Scott College has purchased a new 30-inch reflecting telescope, which will be the largest and finest in the Southeast, President James R. McCain announced yesterday.

Bought from a private owner for $20,000, the telescope was called "a great bargain" by officials at Agnes Scott. Known in astronomy circles as the Jenkintown (Pa.) telescope, the apparatus was secured through the efforts of Dr W. A. Calder, head of the astronomy department.

The telescope, now being adjusted and put in "perfect shape," is expected to arrive here in a few weeks. Agnes Scott officials expressed the hope that some donor would give funds for an observatory, where the telescope could be located.

VIRGINIAN SUGGESTS LABORATORY

Industrial Research Seen As Salvation for South

A Southern businessman said yesterday unions and the Federal minimum wage law were eliminating one of the South's major assets—cheap labor.

And as a result, said Eugene B. Sydnor, Jr., Vice President of the Richmond Dry Goods Company, the South is better off economically.

Hence, said the Virginian, the South is losing a competitive advantage which must find compensation in an extension of research activities in the region.

Sydnor suggested that industries as groups might find it profitable to set up a research laboratory for use in attacking common problems. He pointed out that there are 30 trade association laboratories operating successfully all over the country, financed usually through membership fees or assessments.

Sydnor spoke at the concluding session of a two-day meeting sponsored by the Southern Association of Science and Industry at the Biltmore Hotel.

Sydnor also said it would be possible to set up research labs similar to the Southern Research Institute which was financed on a non-profit basis in Birmingham, by private industry.

Another speaker, Dr. Hubert E. Morris, director of Research for the Texas Division of Monsanto, warned the 200-odd businessmen and researchers that science should take notice of the depletion of basic minerals and fuels.

Dr. Morris said that with the dwindling supplies of fuel and other basic minerals, business and researchers should get together and find substitutes. Use the sun or the earth for fuel, he said, develop soil sciences.

Dr. William M. Murray, Jr., Director of the Southern Research Institute, advised that the only way to accomplish research was "to do it yourself."

"My answer to the question o who should sponsor research is very simple—you," Dr. Murray said. "If you or your company feel that you are not able to carry the burden, then the next best thing is to get your associates to share the venture with you. But the important thing is to get the job done."

Increase Productivity, Industrialist Urges

Declaring that collectivists keep us fighting among ourselves over prices, profits and wages, Morris Sayre, Chairman of the Board of the National Association of Manufacturers said yesterday that it was everybody's job—labor's as well as management's—to lick inflation through greater productivity.

"Productivity has increased only 10 percent in the last 10 years as against the 1869-1929 average increase of 3 percent," he told members of the Atlanta Lions' Club.

That rate of increase must be increased substantially to put today's high wages on a sound basis, he said.

Speaking on "Tomorrow Unlimited," Sayre, who is President of the Corn Products Refining Company of New York City, said Americans could build their tomorrow the same interplay of capital and opportunity which our forefathers used.

GREATER ATLANTA PARLEY—Henry A. MAUNA LOA

days or months," but "something is due to pop" in Kilauea, which has an almost perfectly round crater two miles wide that is described as a "plug over the bowels of the volcanic region underlying that section of Hawaii.

The four-place Stinson plane carrying three persons set out from Hilo yesterday for Honolulu, intending to make a sightseeing flight over Mauna Lao. It had four hours' fuel. It was last seen disappearing at an altitude of about 9,000 feet into the turbulent tower of smoke over the crater. Authorities expressed fear that it had been cought in the wild, sudden updrafts and downdrafts.

Aboard the Stinson, hours overdue, were James Redmon, pilot; Frank Lee, Honolulu manager of the Lee Champion Industrial Equipment Co., who chartered the flight, and an unidentified passenger. Reported aboard the Piper Cub were a Doctor Hatlett and the pilot, identified as "Rickle."

Mauna Loa split in an orgy of volcanic pyrotechnics seldom equalled in its four-year cycle of eruptions. The 2½ mile cone spewed forth molten rock nightlong through a three-mile crack in its southwest wall and sent a towering cloud of smoke and powdery cinders 15,000 feet into the air.

The pall of smoke could be seen 200 miles away by fliers and the glow from the crater was visable for nearly 100 miles in the night sky.

TRUMAN

tion is held to determine whether it is "justified."

He did not specifically ask Congress to enact wage controls. But he quoted from a previous message to the old Congress in which he said the Government "should have" power to prevent any wage hike which would upset an established price ceiling.

Mr. Truman referred in only a general way to his State of the Union message proposal that the Government seek expansion of steel output either by loans to private industry or by building its own steel plants.

All his economic report had to say on the subject was that "there are shortages of supply in certain critical areas" which threaten to handicap the Nation's economic growth. He recommended legislation providing funds for a "careful survey" of the situaiton. He added that "to the extent that facts reveal the need, (the legislation) should provide additional authority to deal more effectively with inadequacy of capacity and supply."

On taxes, Mr. Truman said government revenues must be raised $4,000,000,000 in the fiscal year 1950, and he added that most of it should come from "additional taxes on corporate profits." In another section of his report, he said corporation profits reached an all-time high of $21,000,000,000 after taxes last year, and called this an "excess . . . level."

Sec. Marshall---a Job Well Done

President Truman aptly expressed the feelings of the general public when he declared, in announcing yesterday the resignation of Secretary of State Marshall and Undersecretary Lovett, that "Gen. Marshall is the outstanding man of the war period."

And, we might add, the General also has endeared himself to America and the world by his search for a lasting peace.

Only the suddenness of the President's announcement was a surprise. It has been known for sometime that the Secretary wished to retire to the private life he so richly deserves. And after his recent kidney operation it became apparent that the time was drawing near.

Few contributed so much to Allied victory in World War II, and few indeed have been so patient and steadfast in seeking to build a permanent peace out of the materials of an armed truce.

Undersecretary Lovett has remained in his position for sometime only at the behest of Sec. Marshall. It was to be expected that he also should resign at the same time. He, too, has earned the thanks of the public for his untiring devotion to duty and his admirable handling of State Department affairs during the frequent enforced absences of the Secretary.

Dean Acheson, who succeeds Gen. Marshall as Secretary of State, has an outstanding record of public service and there will be no fear of any break in American foreign policy. Mr. Acheson was named Assistant Secretary of State Feb. 1, 1941, and on Aug. 27, 1945, he became Undersecretary. He resigned July 1, 1947, to re-enter private law practice.

James E. Webb, who succeeds Mr. Lovett as Undersecretary, has a wide business and government experience which qualifies him well for the duties. He is at present Director of the Budget.

Sec. Marshall will carry into his retirement that adulation which is reserved for those who have given their utmost for the public good. His service and sacrifice will not soon be forgot.

Well-Deserved Recognition

On numerous occasions The Constitution has emphasized the need for more career men in State Government.

State Auditor B. E. Thrasher, Jr., often is cited as an official whose long and efficient service to the State has paid rich dividends.

Another is Paul S. Barrett, State Director of Vocational Rehabilitation, who has just been elevated to the presidency of the National Rehabilitation Association.

His associates, including Gov. Talmadge, State School Supt. M. D. Collins and others, paid deserved tribute to Mr. Barrett at a dinner Wednesday night.

Entering State Government in 1933, he has served as Director of Vocational Rehabilitation since 1937 and is well known throughout the nation for his work with the physically handicapped. Georgia has led the United States several different years in this field of service.

Certainly the State could use more public servants of this type.

What's Mr. Cravey Howling About?

Is State Insurance Commissioner Zack D. Cravey working for the welfare of all the taxpayers of Georgia, or is he interested chiefly in feathering his own political nest?

Mr. Cravey has denounced in no uncertain terms the proposal that the State save a considerable sum in premiums by carrying its own property insurance. He said such a plan would be unfair to the State's 20,000 insurance agents and would "amount to usurping, to some degree, the rights of the individual citizen in depriving him of a legitimate insurance market. . . ."

The Constitution would be the last to suggest that the State enter into competition with individual enterprise. We have, moreover, a high regard for the insurance business.

In fact, our opinion of the insurance business has moved several notches higher in the past couple of days. For not one in that business has protested, or even remonstrated, our qualified editorial indorsement of this plan. We have taken this silence to mean simply that the insurance people of Georgia are agreeable to the change if a thorough investigation shows it worthwhile.

But while the insurance people obviously are interested in relieving the burden on the taxpayer as much as possible, the Insurance Commissioner goes to great lengths to damn the proposed move as "a direct step to a social form of government, nothing short of it. . . ."

Why?

By Mr. Cravey's own figures the amount of commissions insurance agents in Georgia obtain from State business is negligible — $60,000 every three years. That amounts to $3 per insurance agent—again by Mr. Cravey's own figures—every three years or $1 per insurance agent per year.

What, then, is Mr. Cravey setting up such a howl about?

Could the answer lie in Mr. Cravey's own statement that "practically one-third of the members of the House and Senate are in the insurance business" and the Insurance Commissioner would like for them to think he is fighting their battles to the limit of his ability?

We doubt that the Commissioner can induce the insurance people to believe they have more at stake than actually is the case. For his own figures disclose how little they really would lose if the State did insure its own property.

Indeed, we are convinced the insurance people in the General Assembly would be of great help in setting up such a plan if it is proved feasible.

GLADSTONE WILLIAMS

A Good Omen for Truman's Program

WASHINGTON—It comes as a good omen for the Truman Administration that it was able to win an easy victory in the first test of strength in the Lower House over liberalizing the rules under which the President's legislative program may be brought up for floor consideration. The victory marks the first successful assault that has been made on the arbitrary power wielded by the Rules Committee since 1935. President Truman has had his troubles with the Committee from the start. Before him, President Roosevelt often ran into the same difficulties.

Where the Rules Committee gets its power is in the House procedure requiring all major legislative bills reported out by other committees to get a legislative right of way from the Rules body before being brought to the floor for consideration. If the Committee chooses not to give such a dispensation, bills otherwise reported usually languish and die.

In recent years the House Committee has been dominated by a group of conservatives against whom the complaint is made that they too often assumed the arbitrary right to pass on the merits of legislation without giving the House an opportunity to vote. Legislation was bottled up in the Committee.

In behalf of the conservative group, made up of Republicans and Southern Democrats for the most part, it can be said that some of the legislation bottled up was bad and perhaps never should have been reported. But that alone is hardly enough to justify the action of the group in taking unto itself the right to say what is good and what is bad. That, after all, is something that should be reserved for the judgment of the House membership as a whole.

Reorganization of the House rules procedure was one of the reforms promised by Administration leaders during the recent national campaign. Hence it was that changes were sought in the old system on the opening day of the new session. The Administration won a notable victory by the score of 275 to 142, with the 31 Democrats, mostly from the South, who opposed it being more than offset by the 49 Republicans and one American Laborite who supported it.

The vote is important in that it indicates the basic strength of the Truman Administration in the new Congress. For a certain honeymoon period, at least, the President may be counted to to command the votes necessary for putting through the most important phases of his program. He will still run into stiff opposition over the more controversial parts of his civil rights legislation, but in general he should have easy sailing otherwise.

One interesting thing about the vote is it shows the Republican leaders were not able to hold their lines intact in their opposition to the rules change. The fact that about a third of the Republican membership went over to the Administration side in the fight indicates that the GOP may have learned a certain lesson from the election returns. It was possible to read a trend of liberalism in the votes of many Republican Congressmen.

Under the old system when a bill was bottled up in the Rules Committee it was necessary to circulate a petition signed by 218 members to get the measure released for consideration by the House. That was a cumbersome procedure, difficult of execution at best. Now all that is necessary is for the Chairman of the Committee reporting the bill to obtain recognition of the Speaker, if the measure has been held up by the Rules body for more than 21 days.

This will tend to restore the Rules Committee to the function originally intended for it. It was never designed as a group to pass upon the merits of legislation, but merely to provide the legislative right of way for passage—the time to be spent in debate, the allocation of such time, and whether or not amendments would be in order.

Changes In the South

Ralph McGill is on vacation. During his absence, this space will be used for a series of interesting articles on Georgia, especially prepared by Gus Bernd, Historical Research Assistant in the Office of the Secretary of State.

A ramble among the green hills of Northwest Georgia would presently bring the traveler face to face with evidences of a bit of Georgia history. Any evening would have a mountain atmosphere familiar to Gens. Bragg or Forrest or Hill or Longstreet were they around; for late on Sept. 20, 1863, they saw the Southern Confederacy's last chance for victory vanish there. The Battle of Chickamauga is the subject; and there are enough landmarks and memorials in the country just south of Chattanooga to make anyone familiar with it feel very much inspired.

Two fruitless days of costly fighting there are considered by many historians to have been "the two bloodiest days of the war." The debacle of Gettysburg had stunned the South slightly more than two months earlier; and the unclaimed victory at Chickamauga may well be considered the beginning of the end. After the failure there, Tennessee could not be regained; and the sweep of Sherman the following year was inevitable.

Needless Battle The events concerning Chickamauga were unusual. A game of hide and seek had been played in the mountains for many days between the armies under Confederate Gen. Bragg and Union Commander, Gen. Rosecrans. The battle itself literally painted with blood the fields and hills of Georgia's northwest corner, a region so aptly called Georgia's "Little Switzerland" by a prominent contemporary writer. Another has certainly rightly named the Chickamauga "The River of Death."

For all of its drama and its original promise for Southern success, the battle need never have been fought. Many are the times when men are beaten and do not know it. The Battle of Chickamauga was a case where a general had a great victory and did not realize it, did not heed the advice of his lieutenants to follow it up, and thus lost it.

Picture the situation: Gen. Bragg had lost about a third of his army in two days of bitter fighting but with supreme effort had driven the enemy from the field. In spite of indecision and lack of co-ordination of command which prevented him from destroying the Union army when it was temporarily divided in the mountains, he had finally carried the day by direct assault against a reunited foe, yet did not pursue his routed adversary.

In the words of Gen. Longstreet, a chief subordinate who played a leading role on the final day after arriving from Virginia and throwing his last division into the fray at precisely the correct moment, "In my judgment, our last opportunity was lost when we failed to follow the success at Chickamauga, and capture or disperse the Union army. . . ." From that good fighter, Gen. Nathan B. Forrest, in caustic reference to Bragg's blunder after he refused to pursue, "What does he fight battles for?"

Park Thus today's visitors to one of Ole Georgia's sacred battlefields may glance at the interesting landmarks and logically say: "It might have been." To those who like military history, the details of this battle should prove very interesting. To tourists and sight-seers generally, a visit to Chickamauga Park and other landmarks of the fighting should be quite worth while. There is a museum there; and the battlefield of Chickamauga is restored in its beautiful natural setting almost as it was 85 years ago.

Established in 1890 by an act of Congress and continually developed through the years, the park has many points of special interest. Among them are: Snodgrass Hill where Federal Gen. George H. Thomas made the gallant stand that brought him the title "Rock of Chickamauga"; Bloody Pond, which supposedly became red with blood of soldiers during the battle; Brotherton House, where the big break in the Union line occurred; Battle Line Road; Kelly Field; Wilder Tower, and many important graves, monuments and markers.

STEWART ALSOP

A Head-Spinning New Project

WASHINGTON—Something is now going on quietly and virtually without public notice in California which may in the long run utterly overshadow in importance the current excitements in Washington. Officials of the Atomic Energy Commission warn that the "ifs" should be emphasized. But they agree that the experiments being carried on in California under the auspices of the Commission could lead to political and economic consequences as overwhelming as those which have resulted from the invention of the atomic bomb itself.

The scientists are trying to find ways to control or to duplicate the mysterious process of photosynthesis, on which the whole cycle of life on earth depends. Success would mean nothing less than the capability of artificially producing unlimited quantities of food to feed an increasingly starvation-threatened world. And already the scientists know enough to assert that success, although not certain, is now seriously possible.

Photosynthesis is, of course, the process by which plants are enabled to store the energy of the sun in the form of energy-giving foods. Although the general theory has been familiar to school children for years, no one has ever really understood the process in detail.

Tool Now, however, a radioactive byproduct of atomic energy called Carbon 14 has provided a tool through which the dark mysteries of the process may be traced. Using this radioactive tool, two scientists, Dr. Melvin Calvin and Dr. Andrew Benson, working for the Atomic Energy Commission in the University of California, have already made startling progress.

Indeed, according to Dr. Calvin, the point has already been reached where the whole mysterious photosynthetic process can be controlled in simple water organisms like the algae. In other words, it is now known to be a perfectly practical matter to "farm the sea" by forcing such humble and highly inedible organisms as seaweed to produce great quantities of fat or proteins or carbohydrates, or what you will.

In this country, such a project is still no more than a gleam in the eyes of Drs. Calvin and Benson and a few others. But the British Government, in its determined attack on its food shortage problem, has actually established a pilot laboratory in Trinidad to test the possibilities of farming the sea.

Portent While this seafaring project is remarkable enough, Dr. Calvin is convinced as a consequence of his researches with Carbon 14 that even more is theoretically possible. In the words of that usually sober journal, The London Economist: "When all the details of the chemical reactions are known, it should be possible to set up industrial factories not unlike modern chemical plants, to produce by artificial photosynthesis the carbohydrates, sugars, proteins and fuels the world so badly needs."

In other words, the green plant would simply be by-passed entirely. Artificial photosynthesis in a factory would reproduce the process whereby the sugar cane, for example, transforms carbon dioxide gas and water into sugar. Using sunlight and a few basic chemicals, food factories would turn out food in whatever quantity might be desired in the same way that Detroit turns out automobiles.

Warning Calvin and his fellow scientists talk of this head-spinning idea as a perfectly serious theoretical possibility. But here, of course, a warning is necessary. Mass artificial production of food is theoretically possible in the same sense that the atomic bomb was theoretically possible before the Manhattan District came into existence. A somewhat comparable national effort would be necessary before artificial food production entered the realm of the practical at any time in the near future. Calvin guesses—and it is of course merely an informed guess—that with such an effort the trick might be turned in four or five years.

All this may seem at first blush far removed from the political field. Yet it is pretty obvious that the political consequences of the little-noticed experiments of Dr. Calvin and his colleagues could be downright staggering. It is, to be sure, unlikely that fats produced from pond scum and mass-produced artificial proteins will soon replace creamery butter and good steaks. But the success of the experiments could hardly fail to have some very curious effects on the domestic and world economy.

Moreover, the international political significance can hardly be exaggerated. A good case can be made for the thesis that food is what a good part of international politics is all about. It is not difficult to imagine how the hand of the United States would be strengthened in, say, China and India, if Dr. Calvin's food factories were a fact and not a theory. Regrettable though it may be, the experiments of one Dr. Calvin in these days may more deeply influence the political future of the world than whole months of oratory and maneuver by whole squadrons of politicians and diplomats.

Rep. Boone Explains His Bill

This is to apologize, quite abjectly, to a statesman whose motives I have questioned and whose integrity I have impugned.

It will be recalled that several weeks ago I denounced and deplored an announced proposal, by the Honorable Alexander Hamilton Stephens Boone, to abolish the State Board of Barber Inspectors. This, I said, was class legislation of the most despicable nature inasmuch as, being completely bald, Rep. Boone has not been in a barbershop for the past 20 years except for an occasional shoe shine.

While the bald-head bloc is but a minority in both the House and Senate of the Georgia State Legislature, I feared the measure might pass, inasmuch as it would doubtless gain considerable support from a number of the more hirsute who resent the manner in which barbers traditionally waste good bay rum for other than drinking purposes.

This letting down of the inspection bars would inevitably result in a deterioration of standards so that, in time, Georgia's barbershops would have the same low level of sanitation as its roadhouses.

I still feel that abolition of the Barber Board would be ill-advised but, in all fairness, I must admit that Rep. Boone has given what custom accepts as a logical answer for his measure.

"There is one very good reason for abolishing the State Board of Barber Inspectors," he declares. "There has never been a single man on it from Wilkinson County!"

A Matter of Definition

Editor Constitution: In his column headed "What Was Wrong With the Pollsters," Gladstone Williams intimates that some of them may have had mercenary reasons for their political prophecies in recent and earlier elections, rather than the dispensation of unbiased polls.

This reader makes no charge of ulterior motives of the pollsters, but about a recent Dr. Gallup poll that placed Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt and Mrs. Chiang, the Chinese General's wife, as tops in American popularity we wonder if Dr. Gallup ever studied Mr. Webster's dictionary? Methinks the honorable Doctor got his wires—or wits crossed. There is a world of difference between "popularity" and notoriety!

'Just Half the Man . . .'

Editor Constitution: Obviously Mr. D. G. Jones has never owned a dog or had his life saved by one when a child. When I was a bit over four I toddled into the street and my loyal collie, "Rex," with no concern for his own safety, dragged me from under a truck. Rex lost his life for his master.

I own a black Cocker spaniel who receives all the "adverse" treatment that Mr. Jones considers "repulsive and un-Christian." I have raised a fine son, who has always owned a good dog. I consider my son a Christian in every sense of the word. If I remember by Bible teachings, the greatest Man who ever lived" had a place in His kingdom for all animals.

As to comparing dogs to human beings, after living some 50-odd years, in my humble opinion some dogs should never be compared to some underhanded, conniving, unscrupulous humans I have met!

I wish I were half the man my Cocker thinks I am!

Atlanta. N. HERRICK ANDREWS.

All Kinds

Editor Constitution: It takes all kinds of people to make a world, and Mr. D. G. Jones is evidently one variety when he intimates that rearing children properly is impossible and incompatible with a desire to see all dumb animals treated with ordinary kindness. The SPCA does a marvelous work and one that is needed.

The thought of those dogs being kept in the pound unfed over a long weekend makes any human being's blood boil, and I wish that something could be done to see that such a thing never happens again. Of course, nothing can be done now for those unfortunate strays, and we can only grieve over their having to undergo such cruelty before they were put to death.

The more I see and hear of many people the more I respect and love dogs.

Atlanta. CLARKE PAUL.

'Man's Best Friend'

Editor Constitution: Recently there has been quite an "ado" relative to our canine friends, their treatment when incarcerated in the municipal or county pound, and to the conditions prevailing at these animal lockups, and the writer has been amused at some of the communications in this column and disgusted with and incensed at others. Some man wrote in effect that those of we humans who treated "man's most loyal friend" as if he were human were indeed villainous people, and unworthy of any man's respect. Has he forgotten, or did he ever know, what our great Alexander H. Stephens wrote of his dead dog? "Here lies the remains of what in life was a satire on the human race, and an honor to his own—a faithful dog." The late Sen. Vest, as an epitaph to his dog said: "The one absolute, unselfish friend that man can have in this selfish world, the one that never deserts him, the one that never proves ungrateful or treacherous, is his dog."

Man will do well to emulate his canine friend. Around 5,000 years ago the great Greek philosopher said, "When I see some men, I love my dog the more."

Atlanta. JACKSON L. BARWICK.

Keep Liberty

Editor Constitution: Our way of life will live, if the most advanced people in our civilization will give all-out aid to the champions of militant democracy and moral force. Christianity needs our extra dollars, your prayers that are pregnant with action, your super efforts, those last steps that win a race. The author of liberty sets a good example for us in giving us Christ on the cross to preserve our liberty—which alone makes us worth saving. God gives us liberty because it is indispensable to character building. Liberty is ours to cherish and protect by action—now.

Martinsville, Ind. HIRAM LACKEY

Civil Rights

Editor Constitution: I think Mack Barry has the wrong impression of the civil rights bill, or maybe I have the wrong impression. However, I think I understand the civil righs bill and it hasn't even implied social equality. I certainly don't favor social equality; that would only add to the confusion already at hand. I can't even imagine Negroes and whites sitting on a bus together without a fight. Maybe time will bring on a change, but it's too soon to know. All the average Negro wants is equal opportunities and equal pay. I haven't traveled in the North, but I've read in magazines and newspapers of interracial marriages. Maybe there's no truth in it; if not, somebody could have been sued for libel. Just the other day I read that California courts have approved of interracial marriages in their State.

Correct Expression

Editor Constitution: We wish sincerely to thank you for the editorial, "Unwarranted Boycott," in The Atlanta Constitution of recent date.

Your expressions were correct as to the situation here and the Cordele people are very grateful to your paper for the editorial. We are making every investigation possible to see that no injustice has been done to anyone traveling Highway 41 in this area and shall continue to keep in close contact with the patrol officers here. We also are checking the records of the Ordinary's office here and in near-by counties to determine, as nearly as possible, the real facts in the case.

34,001,950 Lunches Served

Georgia schools participating in the national school lunch program served 34,001,950 noon lunches during the 1947-48 school term, Russell H. James, who directs the U. S. Department of Agriculture food distribution program in the Southeast, reported.

James said all Southeastern schools participating served a total of 233,436,283 lunches during that period — 13,000,000 more lunches than during the 1946-47 term.

Sixty-seven percent of last term's school lunches were "Type A" meals with milk, sufficiently complete to meet pupils' nutritional requirements, James said. He is now working with State educational agencies on a plan to increase the number of schools serving Type A lunches with milk.

Trust Firm Chief Of Wilmington Visits Atlanta

G. P. Edmonds, new President of the Wilmington (Del.) Trust Company, came to Atlanta yesterday to get acquainted with businessmen and associates with whom he deals.

With him were two of his Vice Presidents and Bank Directors, Joseph W. Chinn, Jr., and Donald P. Ross.

Of the general business outlook, Edmonds was hesitant to make any predictions. "Well," he smiled, "let's see what the new Congress does."

College Grid Officials Study Effects of TV

SAN FRANCISCO — (AP) — Television and the effect it may have on college sports, notably football, was the subject of lengthy discussion by representatives of the leading institutions of the country here yesterday at the NCAA meeting.

Conclusions were that while there was an increase in television spectator interest, attendance at football games decreased.

According to the survey, 80 percent of the football fans who were polled preferred television to actual attendance at the games. It was stated attendance had shown a progressive drop in 1947 and 1948.

Continued study of relations between the television companies and colleges was recommended.

Retelecasts limited to three minutes was recommended.

JOIN ROTARY CLUB OVER TELEVISION

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—(INS)—Four men were inducted into the St. Petersburg Rotary Club by television yesterday in a ceremony believed to be the first of its kind.

The induction exercises took place in a special RCA television studio in a local department store and was transmitted by a coaxial cable about a half-mile to the Rotary meeting hall.

JOVIAL TENOR, SILK-SMOOTH VOICE

Tagliavini Enthralls With Songs, Comedy

By HOWELL JONES

Ten thousand Atlanta hands were severely beaten last night at the Municipal Auditorium, and one man was the cause of it all.

GAYLE REED
Crashes the Movies Alone

The hands belonged to the 5,000 Atlantans who filled every corner of the vast house, and the culprit in the case was a good-natured Italian tenor with a voice as smooth as silk.

The tenor, Ferruccio Tagliavini, of the Metropolitan Opera Association, really wasn't at fault, but he did inspire the owners of the beaten hands to do the jobs themselves by giving them one of the most thrilling, most delightful, and most enjoyable concerts of the current season.

In any event, when the two-hour concert was done, 10,000 hands left the Auditorium with a lobster red glow and a stinging sensation, all caused by the wild riot of applause that followed each of the great singer's 12 songs.

Such a demonstration of enthusiasm had to be earned, and it was.

Using a voice as tender as a mother's lullaby, as mellow as moonlight and as heroic as a minuteman, Tagliavini captured his listeners at the beginning. And so completely did he win them, that he could have offered them anything and they would have been pleased.

And, in addition to giving them a good share of his singing art, he gave them a sample of his newfound talent—comedy. It was just recently that his flair for comedy was discovered by the Met—Atlantans were not nearly so slow to recognize it.

Possibly his outstanding effort was the touching tenor aria, "E lucevan le stelle," from Puccini's "La Tosca." Other bright spots were his singing of the aria "M'Appari," from "Martha," by Flotow; "Elegie," by Massenet; "L'Heure exquise," by Hahn, and Leoncavallo's "Mattinata."

The program also included: "O del mio dolce ardeor," by Gluck; "O del mio amata ben," by Donaudy; "Chi Vuol la Zingarella," by Paisiello; "Prendi l'anel ti dono," from "La Sonnambula," by Bellino; "Pourquoi me reveiller," from "Werther," by Massenet; "Amuri, amuri," by Sadero, and "Girometta," by Sibella.

DAUGHTER OF EAL PILOT

Atlanta Girl Arrives In Hollywood for Test

A pretty, brown-eyed little charmer who only six months ago was heading kiddie shows at the Lakewood Theater in Atlanta, has taken a big step toward stardom in Hollywood.

She's Gayle Reed, brown-eyed, curly haired daughter of Eastern Air Lines Pilot Elmer Reed and Mrs. Reed, of 2195 Venetian Dr.

Gayle crashed the headlines yesterday in Hollywood when she stepped off a transcontinental airliner in Burbank, alone, to report for a screen test at one of the major studios. Her mother, a former Conover model, had become ill in Chicago and Gayle had completed the trip by herself.

The attractive little Atlanta girl, who bears a striking resemblance to Shirley Temple's childhood pictures, is no stranger to the cinema capitol, however. Her father, a former Atlanta open golf champion, and former West Coast amateur champion, is a frequent golfing partner of Bob Hope and Bing Crosby. He also served in the Army Air Corps in Clark Gable's group.

Gayle received her training in dancing and voice from Miss Jessie Reece, who has piloted a number of young Atlantans to fame on Broadway and in Hollywood.

Farm Program

CAIRO—(AP)—A broad educational program has been launched in Grady County to teach farmers to use the fertilizers best suited to the crops they are growing, County Agent S. E. George reported, adding that crop yields in many instances will be increased.

Italo Tajo's Air Debut In 'Marriage of Figaro'

By RITA VAN PELT

Another in a series of operatic revivals will be presented on the Metropolitan Opera broadcast over WCON-ABC this afternoon beginning at 2 p. m.

Mozart's "Marriage of Figaro," to

An interesting feature of today's program is the introduction in a leading role of a "Metropolitan Auditions of the Air" winner. The new baritone, Italo Tajo, will be heard for the first time over ABC when he sings the role of Figaro. Other prominent in the cast are John Brownlee as Almavina, Eleanor Steber as the Countess, Bidu Sayao as Susanna and Jarmila Novotna, who sings the Cherubino role.

Now, Philo Vance

Millions have read the exciting Philo Vance books—the biggest selling mystery books of all times. Now Philo Vance is on the air over WCON Saturday nights at 8, beginning tonight. Jackson Beck, who plays the leading role in the mystery series, is known to millions as the Pathe Newsreel Commentator, the story-teller on the prize-winning war series, "The Man Behind the Gun," and other films. In the WCON program he will play the role of the supersleuth whose scientific deductions, combined with his genial personality, aid justice in the solving of many crimes.

JACKSON BECK
As "Philo Vance"

High School Games

The interscholastic basketball game between Murphy and Decatur will be aired over WBGE tonight at 7:30 and will be followed by the Bass vs. Grady contest a little later. Between the two games there will be a "Courtside Chatter" with Bob Elliott interviewing guests and players. Second game will start about 8:45.

Zany and Then Some

If you tune in WCON at 7:30 this p. m. and think you're hearing things, it isn't a new type static. It'll probably be Jim Hawthorne, West Coast disc jockey, exposing his weird collection of recordings and stuff—to put it mildly.

The 'S' Men

The second in a series of broadcasts designed to reduce the toll of preventable cancer deaths in the State will be aired via WCON at 1:15 today. Dr. Edgar H. N. Y. Cotton Traders Wary of the Future

NEW YORK — (AP) — Cotton futures were irregular Friday. Traders generally awaited a clearer picture of congressional moves on long-term farm program, financing of the ECA program, and changes in the Cotton Acreage Allotment Law. Hedging was more active, reflecting a substantial increase in spot cotton sales at the 10 primary markets on Thursday. Offerings were absorbed through mill buying and demand coming through local traders.

Private Atlanta advices said there were a good demand from shippers for spot cotton during the past week for middling and better grades to cover their prior commitments to Southeastern mills.

Cotton futures declined into new low ground for the day in late dealings as hedging pressure increased. Futures closed 30 to 80 cents a bale lower than the previous close.

Hedge Sales, Realizing Drops N. O. Cotton

NEW ORLEANS—(AP)—Cotton futures advanced in the early trading here Friday but prices gradually eased off under long realizing and hedge selling. Closing quotations were 35 cents to 80 cents a bale lower.

The early demand resulted from predictions of a large export movement in store and also from improved textile figures.

The resignation of Secretary of State Marshall apparently had been discounted in advance. The trade felt that commitments made under the so-called Marshall Plan would be carried out under his successor.

DRYGOODS REPORT

NEW YORK—(AP)—The cotton textile market was mixed Friday. Some of the popular print cloth numbers eased small fractions, with offerings in the second-hand market having some effect on mill prices. Sales were mostly for prompt shipment. Demand for sheetings was fairly good for first quarter delivery and prices held firm. Other sections of the market were quiet. Wool goods were dull. Rayon goods were unchanged, with a better demand in the second-hand market.

COAL PRODUCTION

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Revised figures reported by the National Coal Association Friday set bituminous production in 1948 at approximately 596,000,000 tons. Production in 1947 was 630,624 tons. The association estimated bituminous output in the week ended Jan. 1 at 8,670,000 tons, the sub-normal figure being attributed to the New Year's holiday. In the corresponding week of 1947, the output was 11,470,000 tons. A revised estimate set the Christmas week production at 9,536,000 tons.

Truman Proposal Hits Grain Prices

CHICAGO—(AP)—With wheat and soybeans in the lead, grains slumped on the Board of Trade Friday following President Truman's annual economic message to Congress.

The President came out for flexible price supports, thereby rejecting congressional proposals to continue present 90 percent of parity farm price supports. Deferred deliveries of wheat came in for most of the selling, dropping nearly 2 cents at one time.

Losses in corn and oats were smaller than in wheat. The Government raised its buying price for corn today. Bookings of cash grain from the County expanded to 185,000 bushels.

Wheat closed 1⅞-2¼ lower, May $2.25-$2.25¼; corn was ¾-1⅜ lower, May $1.48-$1.48⅛; oats were ⅛-¾ lower, May 77⅝-¾; rye was 2½ lower, May $1.70; soybeans were 4½-5½ lower, March $2.55¼, and lard was 20 to 27 cents a hundred pounds lower, January $15.92-$15.85.

Bidding:

South	West	North	East
P	P

Opening lead: King of clubs.

South in today's hand was faced with a combination of cards that for some reason not readily apparent; is apt to induce a lazy attitude in most declarers. Reference is made to the management of the diamond suit.

South became declarer at four spades, a logical enough contract, to be sure, but a word or two may be in order as to the bidding sequence. As events took their turn, it was fortunate for West that he took no action over the opening bid, for declarer might have been made aware of the proper way to play the hand. But as a matter of policy, I cannot approve of his inaction. While the high card content of the hand just barely meets with the textbook requirement for a takeout double, from a distributional standpoint, the holding is ideal for such a bid.

West is fully prepared for any suit partner might be obliged to name, and a game could easily be missed by his failure to act promptly. Substitute the king of hearts for one of East's small ones and add the queen of diamonds, and it will be seen that a heart game becomes a virtual laydown, and yet East will not be in a position to take voluntary action. North's raise to four spades is not in accord with modern practice. Such a bid denotes an unbalanced hand with plenty of trump support but not much in the way of honor strength. The maximum high card strength should be 1½ honor tricks. True enough, the hand is too good for a single raise, and it would be no great stretch of his values to make a jump raise to three spades.

Declarer ruffed the third round of clubs, drew trumps in one round, cashed the ace and king of hearts and set about holding his diamond losers to one trick. Since West had already shown the ace and king of clubs he thought it a good chance that East held the king of diamonds. He consequently played the ace of diamonds and followed with a low one towards the queen, losing two tricks in the suit and the contract.

The play of the ace of diamonds first was improper. Declarer thus gave himself only a 50-50 chance to make the hand depending upon the location of the king. If East had the king there was no need to play the ace first. A low diamond should be led away from the ace. If the queen wins the hand is over, if it loses, declarer still retains the chance that West also has the jack of diamonds and the 10 may be finessed next time. This play affords declarer a 75 percent chance of success. In 50 percent of the cases East will hold the king. In the other 50 cases in which West holds that card, half the time, or 25 percent of the cases, West will hold the jack.

Short Trial Seen at Lyons In Mallard Case

LYONS — (AP) — The lawyer for two white men accused of the murder of Negro Robert Mallard said he expects their trial to take only a day or a day and a half.

T. Ross Sharpe, the defense attorney, said he expects the case to be called for trial as a new court session opens next Tuesday.

Sharpe said he would prove that the two defendants, Roderick L. Clifton, 32, and William L. Howell, were "not there" the night that Mallard was shot to death.

Mallard's widow, Amy, said her husband was shot by masked men the night of Nov. 19.

Sol. Gen. W. H. Lanier, the State Prosecutor, said he expected Amy Mallard to testify. Lanier said he thought it would be "unnecessary" for her to ask for State Trooper protection as he foresees no trouble of any sort.

Georgia Products To Get Spotlight

Gov. Talmadge yesterday proclaimed the week of Jan. 31-Feb. 6 as "Georgia Products Week" to promote the sale of Georgia goods.

Women's clubs, farm organizations, veterans and civic groups were urged to co-operate in staging local demonstrations of Georgia farm and mill produce "that we might comprehend the magnitude of the State's resources."

The Atlanta Woman's Club announced a big parade Jan. 31 featuring Georgia products. On Feb. 2 the Club will sponsor a Georgia products banquet at which only Georgia produce will be served. Guests will include Gov. Talmadge, Tom Linder, Commissioner of Agriculture; Lt.-Gov. Marvin Griffin; House Speaker Fred Hand, Executive Secretary Benton Odom and a delegation from each house of the Legislature.

MISSIONARIES STAY

Only a Few Leaving War Torn China

Foreign Mission spokesmen in Atlanta for the Baptist, Methodist and Presbyterian denominations say there is no general exodus from China caused by Communist victories.

Fifteen Baptist missionaries are known to be enroute to this country for reasons of age, health or imminent furlough. An estimated 140 others are still in China and plan to remain there. Those returning are from Tsingtao and Shanghai.

About 20 percent of the Methodist missionaries have returned for special reasons including illness, small children and imminent danger. Dr. Fred Manget, medical missionary, is reported to be enroute to Atlanta.

Presbyterian sources reveal it is difficult to determine what the missionaries themselves will decide. The Church has urged those of questionable health or who have small children to avoid danger. Those determined to stay will be given all assistance and support.

Miss Gussie Fraser, 396 Fifth St., N. E., has just recently returned from China after many years there serving the Presbyterian denomination.
